New Road Up Pikes Peak Proposed as City Project

The city will begin work on about a 10-mile spur road between "Devil's Playground" on the Pikes Peak Toll Road and Gillett as soon as the U.S. Forest Service issues a permit and completely surveys the route, Charles Heitman, assistant to City Manager John Biery, said this morning.

Action by the City Council would not be necessary to build this road, Heitman said. "This is sort of an administrative problem," he explained.

Heitman said city administrators would work closely with the council on the proposed project. "We're also working closely with the Forest Service," he said.

A reconnaissance survey by the Forest Service has shown the proposed route to be "feasible," J. B. Scott, Forest Service spokesman, said Wednesday.

Scott said the permit (which was requested by the city, according to Heitman) would have to be approved by two Forest Service administrators: Gay Weidenhaft, Pike National Forest supervisor; then Regional Forester D. S. Nordwall in Denver.

"It's a long way from being finished," said Scott of the proposed road. He said that the present toll road up the Peak is operated by the city under a use permit from the Forest Service.

Scott said a survey by Maurice Barz, Pike National Forest engineer, showed that most of the proposed road could be a six per cent grade, with possible short eight per cent sections, while the present toll road has 11 per cent grades.

Scott listed four benefits that the proposed road would provide, in addition to more gentle curves:

— Relief of traffic problems.

—Aid to the economies of Cripple Creek and Victor plus an added boost to Colorado Springs.

— Possible earlier spring opening and later fall closing of the toll road due to greater exposure of the road surface to the sun and faster melting of snow.

In addition to Barz's reconnaissance, Scott said there were two other suveys of the proposed road route.

There was a helicopter tour Aug. 19 by Weidenhaft, Anderson, Barz and Heitman.

Heitman said that Lawrie had the idea for the new road when he was toll road superintendent 15 years ago.

Another city spokesman said Wednesday that funds had not been allocated for the proposed project but some pioneer work could still be done by the present toll road crew. Though most of the proposed road would be on Forest Service land, the spokesman said that some private land near Gillett might have to be acquired. Gillett is about four miles northeast of Cripple Creek.

Resurfacing Of Streets To Continue

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith advised motorists today that Weber Street between Uintah Street and Platte Avenue will be barricaded from Wednesday night until Friday morning.

He said the barricading was necessary because of the resurfacing of that stretch of Weber Street via the heater remixer method and then applying a three-quarter inch asphalt overlay.

Several Colorado Springs streets are due to get the same treatment in the immediate future, so motorists are advised at all time to be on the alert for detour signs and barricades.

End Draft, Barry Urges; Keep Peace, Reduce Operations of U.S. Government

The text of Sen. Goldwater's opening campaign speech is found on page 11-C in today's Gazette Telegraph.

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, keynoting his campaign for the White House, promised today to end the draft, keep the peace and halt "the cancerous growth of the federal government."

"I do not intend to be a wartime president," the Republican presidential nominee declared.

And Goldwater said he would keep the peace without the draft.

"Republicans will end the draft altogether, and as soon as possible," he said. "That I promise you."

Goldwater accused President Johnson of using the Selective Service System "for political and social schemes."

Returning to the ancestral home where he launched his two campaigns for the Senate, Goldwater said in a prepared speech: "The campaign we launch today is dedicated to peace through preparedness, progress through freedom, purpose through constitutional order."

Bombings of Restaurants Alarm Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Frightened restaurant owners have called for federal action to halt the 2½-year assault on Chicago businesses by arsonists and bombers who have caused $2.75 million damage.

Laurence Buckmaster, executive director of the Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Association, appealed directly Wednesday to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., head of the Senate Rackets Committee, to reopen hearings into the wave of restaurant attacks. The committee investigated an earlier outbreak of restaurant fires in 1958.

The latest victim of the terrorists, Joseph Wilkos, whose restaurant was bombed Tuesday night, also called for federal assistance.

The bombing of Wilkos' restaurant was the 74th unsolved bombing or arson fire in the Chicago area in the last 32 months. For Wilkos it was the third time in three months that one of his chain of restaurants has been bombed.

Wilkos, 60, said he telephoned Rep. Harold Collier, R-Ill., in Washington to ask the FBI to investigate.

"When the FBI gets into something they get to the bottom of it," he said. "I think that if they would investigate, this could be the answer."

In Washington Collier agreed the situation "has reached a point where the FBI should be in on it."

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., concurred. He said that unless the FBI investigated he saw little likelihood that the bombings would be solved. He said he

Moon Landing Schedule to Be Pursued by NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is sticking to its goal of landing a man on the moon in this decade, and is trimming some other projects to make its budget stretch.

"We are not at this time willing to give up this goal," NASA Administrator James E. Webb said in announcing other revisions, although he conceded that "this will stretch NASA and its contractors to the limit."

One project being dropped is a planned Mariner flight to Mars in 1966. Instead, the agency set its sights on sending an advanced Mariner spacecraft around Mars — or maybe placing an instrument capsule on the planet — in 1969.

The planned launch of two Mariner craft on separate missions to Mars late this year is still on the program. It was not involved in the $5¼-billion appropriations approved Monday by President Johnson. Congress cut $195 million from the amount the administration had requested for NASA for the current fiscal year.

Webb said the agency also would have to:

1. Eliminate two planned launches of unmanned Surveyor craft designed to land on and take samples of the moon. The eliminations would leave five launchings of 2,150-pound Surveyor craft on the program, along with nine advanced Surveyors weighing 2,500 pounds each.

2. Make a number of changes in the flight schedules for observatory-type spacecraft to check geophysical and astronomical phenomena, as well as freezing procurement orders for such spacecraft for the rest of this fiscal year.

Lockheed Missiles Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., has completed a study for NASA on a spacecraft to orbit Mars.

Avco Corp., Wilmington, Mass., is working on a similar study of a capsule that would be ejected from a spacecraft passing Mars, and would land on the planet to radio back information on the surface.

NASA is to make a choice between these two missions this fall so that the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., can let design study contracts in December.

Youth Accused Of Robbery to Face Authorities

A charge of aggravated robbery filed in District Court Wednesday against a 15-year old youth will be dismissed sometime today and the matter handled by the juvenile authorities, District Attorney Pat Hinton said this morning.

He explained that because of the boy's age his office had no jurisdiction over him. Had he been 17 then he could have been dealt with by District Court, the attorney said.

County Judge Charles Simon said the boy had already been

Knife-Wielding Man Rapes Girl, Police Report

A knife wielding man raped a 17-year old girl in an alley in the 400 block of E. Kiowa St. early Wednesday morning, police reported.

The girl told police she was walking east on Pikes Peak Avenue at 1:30 a.m. after a date with her boyfriend. A man, described as a Negro in his early 20s, pulled up in a car and asked her if she wanted a ride. She said she did not and continued walking.

A short time later the man approached her on foot, grabbed her with one hand while holding a knife in the other, and started kissing her.

The girl told officers the man forced her into the alley and raped her. After the attack he looked through her purse but found no money.

The girl, who is married but separated, was taken to Memorial Hospital for an examination and then released.

She told officers the man's car was dark blue with a white stripe on the side.

Canadian Voices Objection to ITU Ruling From U.S.

MONTREAL, Que. (AP)—The Canadian Bar Association has refused to pass a motion which suggested Canadian labor unions should be independent of their U.S. headquarters.

The motion was offered Wednesday to the labor relations section at the association's annual meeting.

Gen. J. A. Clark, a Vancouver lawyer, introduced the motion, together with the charge that the Toronto newspaper strike would have already been settled if it had not been for alleged intervention of a union board in Colorado Springs, Colo.

He said a settlement decision, when it came, would come from Colorado. The International Typographical Union headquarters is in Colorado Springs.

"Can we be independent," Clark said, "if one third of our workmen are directed and controlled by a foreign country?

His motion was defeated by an overwhelming majority after other lawyers said that the trade union question was not a suitable subject for the bar association.

Clark's motion had said control of international unions should be studied by Canadian government officials "with a view of enabling Canadian unions to control their own affairs."

Former Pig Farmer Runs For President

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP) — Henry Krajewski, the former pig farmer, has made it official.

He'll be a presidential candidate under the Poor Man's party banner "against two millionaires," he said Wednesday.

The semiretired tavern owner said he has nothing against President Johnson or his Republican opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, except that "they've been politicians too long."

"I feel they would both make good presidents but I would do a better job because I know the small man's problems," he said.

Krajewski, 52, a father of five, organized the Poor Man's party in 1949 and has run for president in 1952, 1956 and 1960. He's also campaigned for U.S. senator, governor and a variety of local offices, losing every time.

Air Force Diet Is 'Appetizing,' Dietician Claims

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Even the "fat boy" crash diets for flying personnel can be appetizing according to an Air Force dietician who says "variety is the key to successful dieting."

Falconer said his "fat boy" crash program menus have been highly successful.

"Anybody can get along on 1,000 to 1,200 calories a day and function efficiently," he said. "But they have to be nutritionally interesting, well balanced calories."

Falconer and his staff of 45 turn out about 1,150 "nutritionally interesting at a cost of $1.03 per day for each person from raw recruit to generals. He fig-

Dog Proves Best Friend In Rehabilitating Boy

LINCOLNDALE, N.Y. (AP) — With dogs as companions, 245 delinquent boys hike and fish and learn friendship, love and loyalty while turning to a new life at a 900-acre Roman Catholic protectory.

The boys are between 11 and 15 years old. Many come from broken homes. Up to now their life included robbery, stealing cars, assault and picking pockets.

When they enter Lincoln Hall in a rural setting of this Westchester County community not far from the crowded streets of New York the boys are rebellious, suspicious and bewildered.

"The dogs are a bridge to a new life," explained Brother Christian, director of the 101-year-old institution operated by the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

The 36 dogs of all sizes and breeds are used to help the wayward boys relax and gain confidence.

"Wherever the kids go the dogs go — except in the dining room," said Brother Amator Michael. "We try to keep the dogs out of the classrooms but don't always succeed.

"One problem is that some of the kids won't eat meat sometimes, so that they can take it to the pets."

One of the youngsters is Tony, 14, whose parents are on relief in the Bronx. He was committed to Lincoln Hall in 1961 for assault and larceny. He was released but returned in 1963 for picking pockets and shoplifting.

Tony, a 98-pounder, says he has learned about friendship, self-respect, loyalty and love from Tiny Bear, a 134-pound Newfoundland, who sleeps beside him in a 24-bed cottage.

Tony vows he won't get into trouble again.

Most of the dogs were donated by estate and kennel owners, and boys may take home special pets when they leave Lincoln Hall. There also are horses, rabbits, cats and a monkey on the grounds.

But it's dogs who are the best loved.

"All the cliches about dogs being man's best friend are proved true here," said Brother Christopher.

Malaysia Reported Ready For Attack by Indonesia

By TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman said today his government has decided to impose a state of emergency throughout Malaysia because of indications that Indonesia is preparing to "mount a big offensive" against this country.

The Malaysian government today pledged swift countermeasures to the landing of 30 armed Indonesian paratroopers. It also accused "Communist or Indonesian provocateurs" of igniting race riots in Singapore.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman presided at an emergency Cabinet session at his residence following high-level talks with Commonwealth allies who pledged to increase military and economic aid to the fledgling Malaysia Federation.

"We'll give all the help we can," said Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald Maudling.

The paratrooper landing Wednesday coincided with a renewal of racial violence between Malays and Chinese in Singapore where 23 persons were killed and 460 injured during four days of rioting last July. In the latest flareup, a Malay taxi driver was killed.

The government charged that four "Communist or Indonesian provocateurs" created the fresh racial incident to divert attention from the airborne assault.

The Malaysian government said the Indonesian paratroopers landed in the heart of Malaya 105 miles southeast of this capital before dawn Wednesday. The government said the airborne assault in the Labis region of Johore state was "a flagrant act of aggression" and that the U.N. Security Council would be informed of the landing.

Malaysian troops fanned out today in the jungle and scrub brush country in search of the Indonesian unit. One of the invaders was killed and several others were captured during a two-hour battle Wednesday, a military communique said.

Paratroopers in the latest assault were described as heavily armed. A supply drop gave them large quantities of ammunition and other items, the government said.

Indonesian President Sukarno's government so far has not commented on Malaysian charges of the new invasion. Earlier, Sukarno canceled all leaves of Indonesia's armed forces, claiming that "enemy activities" were threatening the nation's safety.

Sukarno has vowed to crush Malaysia — a British-backed federation of 10 million persons composed of Malaya, Singapore and the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah. He charges that Malaysia is a front for British colonialism in Southeast Asia.

Funeral of Sgt. York to Be Held in Cumberlands

By BILL RAWLINS

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP) — Sgt. Alvin C. York, who rode out to war 47 years ago in a horse-drawn surrey, has returned to his beloved green valley of the Three Forks O' The Wolf. President Johnson led tributes from across the nation.

The doughboy hero of World War I died Wednesday in Nashville's Veterans Hospital at the age of 76, succumbing to a urinary tract infection.

The funeral, to which President Johnson and other leaders will send representatives or attend, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at York's Chapel here on the banks of the Wolf River in the Cumberland Mountains.

The President expressed his sorrow Wednesday, saying the Medal of Honor winner "epitomized the gallantry of American fighting men and their sacrifices in behalf of freedom."

Gen. Harold J. Johnson, chief of staff of the 3rd Army, released this statement: "In recognition of the special place that Sgt. York holds in the hearts of his Army comrades, past and present, the Army is furnishing an escort, band, firing party and bugler from his old outfit — the 87th 'All-American' Division — to participate in the funeral service."

A choir will sing three of the York's favorite songs, "Fairest Lord Jesus," "Faith of Our Fathers," and "Onward Christian Soldiers." His strong religious convictions became part of the York legend. Once a conscientious objector, he went on to answer his country's call to World War I and killed 25 Germans and captured 132 more virtually single handed in the battle of Argonne Forest.

Peaceful Biloxi Integration Is Reported

By JAMES SAGGUS

CARTHAGE, Miss. (AP) — First grade pupils register for public school in this rural area of Mississippi today on nonracial basis on the heels of a peaceful integration at urban Biloxi.

Civil rights leaders say at least three Negroes will apply.

Carthage, a town of 2,500 is the seat of Leake County, a thinly populated section in east central Mississippi which borders on Neshoba County, where three civil rights workers were slain last June.

Leake County is the birthplace of former Gov. Ross Barnett, an opponent outspoken of school integration. Barnett still faces federal contempt of court charges stemming from his efforts to block integration of the University of Mississippi two years ago.

Four other all-white schools in Leake County held registration for first graders last week. Although they were told to desegregate under the same federal court order which opened the Carthage, Biloxi and Jackson schools to Negroes, none showed up.

Local leaders have urged cooperation by all citizens.

"It's up to every Leake County citizen, white, Negro and Choctow to make the best of it," said an editorial in the weekly Carthaginian by editor George Keith. "If we conduct ourselves properly, this whole nightmare could be turned into valuable publicity for the county we all love."

Although it is not generally known, Negroes and whites have attended classes together for several years at a tiny mission school run by the Catholic Church in a section of Leake County which has no public schools.

Sixteen Negro pupils — 12 girls and four boys — joined several hundred whites at four previously all-white elementary schools.

"We anticipated no problems and we had no problems," said Biloxi School Supt. R. D. Brown.

The school official, however, was critical of FBI agents who he said appeared at the schools in groups of three to six men with cameras to take pictures of any incidents.

"Their presence there could have created trouble," he said.

Black Forest News

By MARLENE MURPHY — 495-2297

After a two month summer recess, the Black Forest Men's Civic Association will resume their regular monthly meetings at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday Sept. 8, in Parish Hall of the Black Forest Community Church. On the agenda, will be election of officers and discussions on various important community projects, as part of the business for the coming year. All members and residents who are interested in a finer Black Forest are invited and urged to attend. Officers for the past year have been: Ed Morast, president; Al Bridges, vice president; Fred Kibler, secretary and treasurer. Board members are: Gordon Case, Bert Bittner, Donald Sandels, and Richard Sorby.

During the week of Aug. 24 to 29 the Rev. Nick Natelli was dean of the camp for the fifth and sixth graders of the United Church of Christ. At Chalk Cliffs Ranch, near Buena Vista, Colorado, Howard Carver, John and Jim Nau were also counselors of this camp. Darrel Natelli attended, this being his first camping experience.

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department was held at the Main Fire House, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 25. New improvements are constantly being made to maintain and increase the efficiency of the equipment needed for the protection of this large community which is rapidly growing. Those present at this meeting were: Gordon Case, chairman; Board members, Richard Humphreys, Roy Wolf and Darwin Wooley. Robert Bauman was unable to attend. Those invited consisted of the presidents of the different organizations of the Black Forest consisting of: Edward Morast, Black Forest Men's Civic Association, of which there are 60 members. Mrs. Mary Metcalf, Black Forest Home Extension Club of which there are 24 members. Harold Hobbs, Black Forest Athletic Association, 18 members; Mrs. Roy Wolf, Black Forest Fire Department, Ladies Auxillary, 12 members; Mrs. Peggy Morast, Black Forest Women's Fellowship, 50 members; Doyle Thompson, Black Forest Saddle Club, 75 members; Marion Ingersoll, Black Forest Sherriff's Posse, 23 members; Richard Humphrey, Black Forest Community Club, 40 members; Phil Hendricks, Black Forest Parent Teacher Organization; and Sam Smale, Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department, 30 members. These different organization members were asked in order that the people of the Black Forest may work together in the importance of the improvement of the Forest. This meeting was for the purpose of organizing several agencies within the fire department's protection area into the community fund raising efforts. Funds are needed very badly to operate the Volunteer Fire Department for the next 12 months and to pay existing deliquent accounts now outstanding. The chairman further stated that in previous experiences, only about one-third contributed to the Fire Department funds despite the fact that fire protection is for every resident and property owner in the Black Forest area. The chairmen then called for comments from the group of organizations invited to sit in on how they felt about joining together on helping to raise the funds for the next year. We were happy to report that the vote was unanimous. Following is a list of the general plan for the conduct of the fund drive:

(A) Divide the fire protection area into four seperate areas.

(B) Organize five teams under team captains.

(C) Assign one team to each seperate area, and one team to handle miscellaneous solicitations and absentee property owners.

(D) Personnel for each team to be furnished by two of the organizations.

(E) When teams are organised, they are to be assembled and instructed in fund solicitations by a trained instructor.

(F) Team members are to be supplied with receipt books, pledge cards, identification badges or cards and mimeographed informational sheets pertaining to purposes of the fund drive, etc.

(G) A score board to be developed and maintained during the drive.

(H) A fund drive chairman to be appointed.

(I) The fund drive to be conducted from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15.

(J) Team captains and assistants are to assemble at the fire house at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 10 for the finalization of the plans.

Chairman, Robert Clark; co-chairmen, Al Bridges and Bert Bittner. The meeting was then ended and adjourned by Gordon Case, chairman and accounting secretary. We are hoping that everyone in the Black Forest will take into consideration the importance of the Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department and the need of the funds to keep the Black Forest a better community in which to live and know that you are being protected by giving on your part when the team members knock on your door. A lot has been accomplished in recent years to raise these standards of our local Fire Department, but there is still a need for more and better fire fighting equipment. Money for the operation of the department is raised solely through the donations, and also remember that our community is rapidly growing. Gordon Case has announced that there are 30 new homes now under construction in our Forest.

Sunday, a Christian education workshop was held at the Black Forest Community Church for all Church School teachers in the Southeast Association of the United Church of Christ. Bobby Declares He Is Against Sen. Goldwater

By ROBERT GRAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Invoking the name of his late brother and declaring "I am against Barry Goldwater," Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has opened his campaign for a U.S. Senate seat from New York State.

He was up at dawn today for a handshaking tour of the Fulton fish market and Staten Island ferry terminal in lower Manhattan. Later in the day he was to bid for the support of organized labor in a speech to the state AFL-CIO convention.

Kennedy, 38, received the Senate nomination of both the Democratic and Liberal parties Tuesday.

At the Democratic convention, he won by 968 votes to 153 over his only opponent, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton.

The Liberal party's state committee, at a closed meeting Tuesday night, selected Kennedy by "an overwhelming majority," a party spokesman said. The party's state conference had recommended Kennedy, but there was backing for both Stratton and the incumbent Republican, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, 64, of Rochester, who will be Kennedy's chief opponent.

Keating had been rejected as too liberal by the conservative party, which nominated Henry Paolucci, 43, a history professor at Iona College in New Rochelle.

In his speech accepting the Democratic nomination, Kennedy said that New York State had stood by the late President John F. Kennedy "in every cause he championed" and "now you have asked me to carry on the work in the Senate."

"I accept your nomination gratefully," he told the cheering convention, "I accept your trust."

His wife, Ethel, and seven of their eight children were on the stage of the convention as he spoke. Mrs. Kennedy is expecting their ninth child.

A Kennedy aide said he will fly to Washington tonight and submit his resignation as attorney general to President Johnson on Thursday.

On Saturday, he will open his upstate campaign with a visit to the state exposition at Syracuse.

Next week, he will begin an intensive tour of the heavily Republican upstate area.

The Republicans' chief campaign theme will be attacks on Kennedy as a newcomer to the state.

The attorney general met the "carpetbagger" charges against him when he said he was aware of the difficulties he faced — "My work has been in Washington and I have ties to Massachusetts."

He drew a laugh from the convention when he addressed the delegates as "my fellow New Yorkers."

Kennedy also hit at Keating, citing Keating's refusal to support the GOP presidential nominee, Barry Goldwater.

"I know where I stand. I am for Lyndon Johnson,," he said. "I am against Barry Goldwater. And no other candidate for the Senate from New York is willing to make either statement."

OPERA'S ORIGIN

"Dafne," the first opera, was produced in Italy in 1597 but has been lost since. Italy is considered the birthplace of modern opera. Birth of real opera came in 1600 when "Euridice," composed by Peri and Caccini, was produced as entertainment at a royal wedding.

Civil Rights Bill Opponent Falls Behind in Vote

By DICK BARNES

DETROIT (AP) — The only Northern Democrat who voted against the civil rights bill fell behind today in his fight for congressional renomination in the Michigan primary election.

So-called white backlash seemingly failed to materialize seriously as Rep. John Lesinski, the civil rights bill foe, trailed Rep. John Dingell in a reapportioned district.

Both overshadowed Republican Gov. George Romney's renomination margin of 7-to-1 over a more conservative GOP foe.

With 4,577 of the state's 5,209 precincts reporting, the key statewide votes stood:

With 142 precincts reporting in the Lesinski-Dingell 16th District Democratic fight, Dingell led 14,325 to 12,453. Officials first said there were 224 precincts, then upped the figure to 307.

Lesinski built a 9-to-8 lead in the 112 precincts of well-to-do Dearborn, an area where some observers thought he could score heavily if so-called white backlash materialized.

Dingell, like Lesinski, a white Polish-American, then began to pick up votes in the rest of the district, including a Negro area where he was expected to run well.

Civil rights advocates lost on another front when Detroit voters approved a "homeowners' rights" ordinance which prohibits interference with a person's asserted right to sell or rent his property for reasons wholly his own.

The measure seemed certain to move to the courts, however. A Wayne County judge ruled it unconstitutional last February but the State Supreme Court said it should first be presented to the voters.

Who Owns North Sea, Laborites Want to Know

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — In an effort to beat King Canute at his own game, the British Labor party is planning to nationalize part of the North Sea, if it wins the general election this autumn.

King Canute, it will be recalled, only commanded the waves to stand still. But the Labor party would like to socialize that part of the North Sea which lies between the Straits of Dover and the Shetland Islands.

Why the sudden interest in the North Sea? Because its sea bed is thought to contain the world's largest deposits of oil and natural gas. The Labor party has already asked the British government to hold up the grna ing of licenses to drill this sea bed until after the general election.

The Laborites are confident of winning the election and they would like to see the exploitation of the North Sea taken out of private hands and placed under state control. However, the Ministry of Power had firmly rejected the Labor demand, and go ahead with the granting of private drilling licenses. The argument is reminiscent of the controvery that raged in the U.S. Congress a few years ago over federal control of tidelands.

The government announced that it will collect a 12½ per cent royalty on any oil or gas that is found.

Thirty-one groups have applied for permission to drill in what may turn out to be the world's richest oil and gas pool. They include such petroleum and chemical giants as Shell, British Petroleum, Esso and Imperial Chemical Industries.

In addition, the British Gas Council has filed an application in conjunction with three American subsidiaries, including Texas Eastern.

The area for which licenses are being granted is about 100,000 square miles and was allocated to Britain as its part of the continental shelf by the Geneva Convention.

In their enthusiasm, writers here are comparing it to the Klondike gold strike. But prospectors who answered the Klondike call required nothing more than a pick and shovel. Prospecting for black gold is a costly business.

Equipment for drilling below 600 feet of stormy water is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $240 million.

Drilling one test well can cost as much as $2.5 million, and the chance of striking oil in economic quantities is only one well for every 10 holes drilled.

Altogether it is estimated that licensees may have spent close to $2 billion by the end of the initial six-year license period—by which time they may have struck oil or gas or given up.

Britons, alarmed at Labor's proposal to nationalize the North Sea bed, are anxious to know whether a Labor government would be prepared to spend taxpayer's money on what could prove to be a North Sea bubble.

Meanwhile, at least 20 vessels are now surveying the North Sea. They do so by letting off explosive charges which send shock waves through the sea bed to a depth of 20,000 feet. These sound waves, when bounced back and record on delicate instruments give the explorers a pretty accurate picture of the sea bed.

The current black gold rush was touched off four years ago when great natural gas deposits were discovered in the Dutch coastal area off Groningen.

Natural gas is used in the manufacture of textile fibers, synthetic rubber, fertilizers, solvents and plastics. More important still, its presence usually indicates that oil deposits are nearby.

Children Studied in Probe of Accidents

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — A study of more than 9,000 children under the age of seven in Rockland County showed that two-year-old boys have an accident rate 75 per cent higher than any other age - six category. According to a report in the American Journal of Diseases for Children, boys had higher accident rates than girls at all ages except under one year. Falls caused 48 per cent of all accidents, and 55 per cent of the total accidents occurred out-of-doors.

Antarctican Stretch Is Being Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University experts have a new project — watching Antarcitca stretch.

The "stretch" of the surface ice sheet is being measured by the university's Institute of Polar Studies and the U.S. Geological Survey's Topographic Division.

The sheet is estimated to grow a half inch per mile each year.

Dr. Richard L. Cameron, the project's supervisor, says the measurements would give a better understanding of flow mechanisms and the rate of flow on the ice sheet.

The white and lavender Rocky Mountain Columbine is the Colorado state flower.

BACK TO SCHOOL AT 54

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A Milledgeville grandfather has started a new career at an age when most men begin planning retirement. He's ready to begin teaching school.

Clair Heer, 54, received his bachelor's degree last fall from Schimer College at Mount Carroll and is working toward a master's degree in history at Northern Illinois University, De Kalb.

"We always regretted that I had not finished school," he said. "Many of my friends are teachers. When my two daughters left home for college, my wife returned to teaching and this stimulated my interest."

Heyer said his age proved to be both an advantage and a disadvantage. Study was easier, but coeds called him "Sir."

In 1890, Scotland Yard was built on the existing foundations of an ambitious opera house that was never completed because funds ran out.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D..Ph.D.

Lee's client suffered a heart attack in the barber chair so Lee wants to know what should have been done to help such a victim. Study this case carefully and by all means indulge in fast deep breathing if you even imagine you are having a heart attack. And send for the medical booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-464: Lee Summers is a very talented barber.

"Dr. Crane," he began as he was giving me a haircut, "I had a man in the chair last week.

"But just as I finished cutitng his hair, he groaned and his head fell over to one side.

"Meanwhile, his eyes rolled upward and his face turned white.

"He started gasping loudly for air. I was scared lest he might die, for I knew he'd suffered a heart attack a few months earlier.

"So I lifted him over to the davenport and propped his head up. Then I tried to locate a physician and also called his wife.

"In a few minutes he regained consciousness. Dr. Crane, what else should a person do to help a man if he is suffering a heart attack?"

Lee Summers deserves praise for his sensible behavior.

During a heart attack, the paitnet should be urged to breathe deeply and rapidly, if he is conscious.

For oxygen is the main remedy during a heart attack. Since about 20 per cent of the air is oxygen, you can increase the supply in your blood just by fast, deep breathing.

"But, Dr. Crane," heart victims may exclaim, "I felt such terrible pain in my chest that I was afraid to move.

"So wouldn't deep breathing hamper my injured heart at the time of an attack?"

The answer is a big "NO."

Instead, the deep breathing will help reduce the pain and often tide the injured heart over those crucial first 5 or 10 minutes that often spell the difference between life vs. death.

For the pain results from lack of oxygen to the heart muscle. Your heart simply has a "charley horse."

Moreover, when a coronary attack occurs, a certain area of your heart wall is cut off from nourishment.

As a result, your heart's steady rate is upset, much like a two-mile runner's even stride is broken when a dog runs in front of him.

The heart beat becomes erratic, but soon speeds up faster to help get needed oxygen all around the circuit.

And if a big area of the heart muscle is cut off from blood, you are knocked unconscious immediately.

In all cases, however, oxygen is the big need of your heart. We medics give it to you at the hospital from an oxygen tank.

But if you are conscious, suck it into your lungs in big gulps from the 20 per cent oxygen in the air all around you.

And lie still, for an extra effort uses up oxygen in the arms, legs or trunk and your heart needs every bit available.

Also, open the victim's collar. A nitroglycerine pill under his tongue will help dilate the coronary arteries, too, but this is not always on hand.

Avoid obesity, tobacco and heavy tasks like shoveling gravel (or snow).

And send for my booklet on "How to Stop the Tobacco and Liqor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Egyptian Treasures Stolen and Sold

CAIRO (AP) — Police charged today that two brothers made millions of dollars over the past 20 years by selling stolen treasures of ancient Egypt.

The brothers, Abdel Hamid and Shaker Abdel Halim Issa, sold some of the antiquities to foreign diplomats, police said.

They were detained while a special committee examined four truckloads of art objects from the brothers' stock. Police want to know if any were missing from Egyptian museums.

LBJ Orders FBI Probe of Baker Kickback Claim

By STEVEN GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has ordered the FBI to investigate a Republican charge that former Senate aide Robert G. Baker was involved in a $25,000 campaign contribution "kickback" case, the White House said today.

White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy said the President acted Tuesday after Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., made the charge against Baker and former ambassador to Ireland Matthew McCloskey.

Reedy said Johnson's request to the Justice Department to launch an FBI investigation covered all the matters raised in Williams' speech Tuesday, including the fact that the money was believed to have gone to the Kennedy - Johnson campaign fund in 1960.

"As I said yesterday, we had no knowledge of these matters" Reedy told newsmen.

"When these facts were reported, the President asked the Justice Department to make an FBI investigation of this matter," he added.

Williams' key charge alleged that McCloskey, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and head of a Philadelphia construction firm, paid a $35,000 kickback on a contract for building the Washington, D.C. stadium, including $25,000 that went into the Democratic campaign coffers.

Asked for Johnson's reaction to the charge, Reedy said: "Such charges are not uncommon. I doubt it (Johnson's reaction) was one of surprise. It's a campaign year."

But he declined to say that the senator's allegations were politically motivated, when pressed if this was his implication.

As for Williams' demand that the Democrats should reopen the Baker investigation in Congress, Reedy said there was no constitutional way for the President to order Congress to do anything.

"I began on the job training at the age of 16" as a dish washer at a restaurant near Independence, he said.

While majoring in home economics at the University of Missouri, Falconer spent three summers at the Independence, Hospital, starting as a dishwasher and working up to cook and supervisor.

Following graduation he served a nutrition internship at Anker Hospital in St. Paul, Minn., and received a direct commission into the Air Force in November 1962.

Two Japanese Soldiers Still Hiding on Guam and U.S. military officials said today.

A construction worker reported last week that one of them held a rifle on him and pulled the trigger, but nothing happened.

Guam Police Capt. Jose C. Quintanilla said he believed the two holdouts, bearded and bedraggled, are holed up somewhere in the northeastern Guam jungle, in the same area where the Japanese Imperial Army made its last stand during World War II.

Equipment operator Jose George, 27, reported on Aug. 2 that he sighted the two stragglers a half-mile from the U.S. naval communication station housing.

George said he first spotted one of them squatting inside a dump. The man, George said, had long hair, a beard nearly to his waist, and was skinny and nearly naked.

George said the man ran away, limping on one foot. He said he went after the man but when he got within 15 feet he saw another Japanese who leveled a rifle at him.

George said the Japanese pulled the trigger but the weapon did not fire. The man, George said, pulled the rifle bolt, reloaded and pulled the trigger again, but again it misfired.

At that point, the worker said, he ran back to his truck and drove off to tell U.S. Marine sentries. The Marines searched the area to no avail.

Viet Nam General Resumes Full Powers of Rule

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh again assumed full command of South Viet Nam's shaky government today. The premier said he had won support of Buddhist leaders who were threatening to renew antigovernment violence unless their demands were met.

Khanh's return to power after a five-day "temporary retirement" at the mountain resort of Dalat was disclosed by a government spokesman following a six-hour emergency Cabinet session. Khanh flew to Saigon from Dalat amid reports that he was demanding full support from all members of the caretaker government that had been led by acting Premier Nguyen Xuan Oanh.

"The military has promised Gen. Khanh their complete support. The situation looks much more stabilized today," the spokesman said.

Khanh, 37, was expected to retain members of the powerful Dai Viet party in the government and the armed forces. Before Khanh went to Dalat last week, following violent antigovernment demonstrations, he charged that members of the party had plotted against his government. He conferred today with Nguyen Ton Hoan, leader of the party who resigned Wednesday as vice premier after charging Khanh's government had no legal standing.

"Gen. Khanh plans no reprisals against them," the spokesman said.

Khanh also won an agreement from Buddhist leaders to call off a planned hunger strike and a possible general strike, the government said. The agreement presumably entails concessions, but these were not spelled out. The spokesman said the Buddhists fully supported his resumption of duties.

Buddhist leaders had planned a 48-hour fast in a move to end what they called "indiscriminate arrests, provocations and oppressions."

Oanh, who was visiting the northern city of Hue, was to return to his duties as deputy minister for economic affairs.

Khanh went into the emergency session today immediately after returning from Dalat. He appeared in good health.

Resuscitator Crew Assists Woman

The Company 1 resuscitator crew of the Fire Department at 10:27 p.m. Wednesday went to 602 E. Rio Grande St., where Magealine Edwards, 38, had accidentally taken an overdose of sleeping pills. She was taken to the Ft. Carson Hospital.

Extensive fire damage was done to the car of Dr. James Kennedy at 1903 Wood Ave., Wednesday. The fire was put out by Company 2 of the Fire Department on a 10:48 p.m. alarm. The fire department report is that cause of the fire was undetermined.

At 12:15 a.m. today a Fire Department resuscitator run was made to the home of William Peugh, 72, of 746 San Rafael St. The patient suffered an asthma attack. He was restored to normal breathing after treatment by the firemen.

Company 2 at 2:29 p.m. Wednesday went to the residence of Tilly Ecker, 807 N. Spruce St., to put out an unattended trash fire. Another trash fire run was made at 12:36 a.m. today to 231 S. 8th St., where a small amount of damage was done at the Carskos Wrecking Co. yard.

Youth Says He Will Appeal City Court Guilty Finding

If a defendant Wednesday in Municipal Court had known as much about law as he obviously knew about auto mechanics, he might have been home free, depending upon Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac's next play.

Ralph Bruning, 19, 2848 Marilyn Dr., was in court on a charge of careless driving filed against him by Charles Greathouse, 2232 Wynkoop Dr. When the complainant failed to identify the youth as the driver of the car, Bruning could have requested the charge be dismissed.

As he didn't, and readily admitted he was the driver, the case continued, with Acting Judge Clinton Cole handing down a guilty finding and imposing a $20 fine. Bruning said he would appeal the decision.

Judge Cole also found Charles Cowan, 18, Bear Creek Canon, guilty of careless driving and imposed a $20 fine.

A signal light charge against Virginia Maccarini, 53, 825 N. Logan St., was dismissed by the city on the failure of the arresting officer to appear in court. Ronald Koster, 17, of Manitou Springs, was found guilty of a signal light violation and was fined $5.

James Tobin, of El Paso, Tex., was found guilty of double parking and was fined $5. A $5 fine was also imposed on Joseph Schubarth, 16, 3211 Pennsylvania Ave., found guilty of a muffler violation.

A $5 bond was ordered forfeited by Dwight Grisham, 2422 N. Royer St., who failed to appear on a charge of having a for sale sign on his car.

Robert Browning, 20, 1510 Yuma St., pleaded builgy to a speeding charge and was fined $25, this being his third traffic violation this year.

Laverne Hunter of Route 4 was fined $1 for a meter violation. Hunter had pleaded not guilty to the charge, pointing out he was not objecting to the payment of the $1 but to the way he was "treated" when he was issued the ticket.

He said that on Aug. 3 he pulled up to a meter in the 100 block of South Nevada Avenue, and finding he didn't have change, went into a nearby store to get the money.

When he came out, he said he saw the meter maid (Ida Harmes) riding away, and when he caught up with her and tried to explain the situation, received in reply the remark: "That's tough." He said he went bo Police Headquarters and again tried to explain the situation and was told there that "it was tough." He further said he went then to the Violations Bureau, and a woman clerk told him she didn't see why he wanted to take the matter to court because he'd still have to pay the fine, and put up a $5 bond besides. He said he didn't like the woman's "smart" attitude.

Isaac moved to reduce the ticket to the $1 penalty since Hunter claimed he did report within the 72-hour time limit. Judge Cole agreed and found Hunter guilty, imposing the $1 fine.

The cases of Arthur Williams Jr., 20, 1122 E. Rio Grande St., and Clarence Williams, 29, 933 E. Cucharras St., were continued until Tuesday for arraignment. The brothers are charged with maintaining a house for the purposes of fornication on complaints by two Ft. Carson soldiers.

Judge Cole set their bonds at $25.

Youth Gets Jail Term for Burglary

Daniel Thomas Abeyta, 18, 412 Iowa St. Fountain, was sentenced to three months in County Jail by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for burglary.

The defendant was accused of breaking into Barney's Food Market, 117 Main St. Fountain, Aug. 17. He was also ordered to pay $7 court costs.

Robert R. Stanford, 43, Denver, was given a 60 day suspended sentence for short check. He was alleged to have written a $25 check Feb. 12 and given it to the Savoy Hotel, 24 S. Nevada Ave. The judge said the defendant must make restitution and pay $7 costs.

Youth Accused Of Robbery to Face Authorities

in the state hospital at Pueblo and although he could not say definitely what would be the final disposition, everything indicated that the youth was mentally disturbed and that he would be returned to the state hospital for treatment.

When the boy was arrested Wednesday he first gave his age as 17 and consequently he was filed on in District Court.

He has been accused of holding up Bill Starks, an attendant at the Dividend Bonded Gas Station, 805 E. Fillmore St., sometime after midnight, Wednesday morning, and escaping with $126.

According to a police report he had a gun and said to Starks, "I'll take the money from that register. I'm not kidding mister, I'll shoot you."

Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littrell said the youth then made his escape in a car stolen from Richard Rosekelley, 1806 Mid Rd. He made his way to Limon where he was picked up approximately two hours later by Town Marshal J. R. Olson after a minor accident at a filling station.

The boy gave a false name and age and the charge was filed under this name. Littrell went to Limon Wednesday and brought him back. The officer said $124 of the money was recovered together with the gun. Littrell also added that the youth had confessed to stealing the car.

Pilot Who Fled Red Laos Prison Is Back Home

daged when he arrived at North Island Naval Air Station late Wednesday night. Those waiting to greet him included Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, commander in chief, Pacific Fleet, who had briefed him before the lieutenant's plane went down in Laos June 6.

"Admiral, I owe you a big apology," Klusmann told Moorer. "You told me not to get shot down, and I did."

"That's all right, Chuck," said the admiral. "It's good to have you back."

The pilot and his comely, auburn-haired wife, Sara, arrived at 11:20 p.m. from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., where she had gone to meet him earlier in the evening after his flight from Honolulu.

Both wore leis as they came down the plane's ramp at San Diego. Klusmann was attired in khaki cotton trousers, a short-sleeved shirt and slippers. His wife clung firmly to his arm.

Navy officials said that he would be checked up immediately at a San Diego naval hospital for injuries he received when he was shot down.

The airport welcome lasted only five minutes. Others there to meet him included members of his Light Photo Squadron 63 who rushed forward and surrounded the pilot and his wife after Klusmann had greeted his parents.

Asked by newsmen if he had any help in escaping or met any other Americans in prison, Klusmann replied: "I can't say anything about that."

His escape to Thailand was made known Tuesday. Briefing officers said they hoped to determine later today when he will be permitted to grant interviews.

"It's great to be back," was his only comment when he reached Travis at 8:45 p.m. The Navy had said beforehand that there would be no interviews there either.

As she waited for him at Travis, Mrs. Klusmann said: "I've never been so excited in my life. I never gave up hope."

The Klusmann children — Diana, 3, and Richard, 6 — did not go to Travis with their mother because Richard has the flu. Neither did they go to North Island.

But Mrs. Klusmann delivered Richard's message at Travis: "Tell daddy to hurry home. And, oh yeah, tell him I said hello."

The two men, whom he described as Negroes, beat him up and took his wallet. Vigil said the men were in their early 20s.

Not far down the Wolf River from the chapel where the funeral will be held is the big white farm house in which York lived for the past 42 years. He built the house in 1922 with money raised by his grateful, fellow Tennesseans.

York had been bedfast and virtually blind for 10 years, and had been in the hospital 10 times in the past two years before the final stay which began last Saturday. His family and his doctors agreed that the complications that he had battled for a decade would have killed a lesser man long ago.

The curtains were drawn today on the sun porch, which had bounded York's world for the past 10 years, and the big white house seemed somehow empty in the midst of the bustle of preparations for his funeral. His smile and his once booming voice were missing.

But death struck a hammer blow at Miss Gracie, his childhood sweetheart whom he married in 1919 and who was the tower of strength when he needed her most — the bedside years. It was she who greeted the steady stream of visitors who stopped at York's home, near the Kentucky line north of Jamestown, Tenn., and fronting U.S. Highway 127.

But when she returned from Nashville in the hearse which brought her famous husband's body to Jamestown Wednesday night, she embraced her youngest son, Tommy, and sobbed uncontrollably. Soon though, she had composed herself and was busy making plans for the funeral.

She could scarcely help remembering that day in 1917 when York's younger brother, George, now 63 and Gracie's age, took York off to war.

"I took him in a two-seated surrey," recalled George York Wednesday. "We went to what was then Stockton (now East Jamestown), which was as far as the railroad ran. He'd never left the mountains before then."

But it was in the Cumberlands that the sharp-shooting Sgt. York had hunted squirrel and turkey and learned the tricks of the hero's trade.

Just a day before York's death, the world noted the 25th anniversary of the start of World War II and the threat of war still hung today over a world far from safe for democracy. But the Jaycees in nearby Jamestown proclaim anew the principles for which York fought.

End Draft, Keep Peace, Barry Says in Campaign

dential nominee, was to be on hand for Goldwater's kickoff. Goldwater will return the favor Saturday in Lockport, N.Y.

The Arizona conservative accused Johnson of using "the outmoded and unfair military draft system for social schemes as well as military objectives."

He said Johnson's is an administration of "mobs in the street, restrained only by the plea that they wait until after election time to ignite violence once again."

He charged the President follows "the way of unilateral disarmament and appeasement in foreign affairs."

He said the growth of the federal government "must and shall be stopped." But he added "prudence requires that we proceed slowly and steadily in withdrawing the central government from its many unwarranted interventions in our private economic lives."

Assailing Johnson's handling of the Selective Service program, Goldwater declared: "Republicans understand that the military forces need trained volunteers who make the military service a career."

"Republicans understand that the purpose of the military forces is not social or political — it is to help keep the peace of the world," he said. "To use military services for political or social schemes — as this administration does — is to drift closer to war on an ebbing tide of military strength."

Goldwater said, "The Republican party is the Peace Party."

"I promise an administration that will keep the peace," he added, "and keep faith with freedom at the same time."

He did not spell out his charge that Johnson has used the draft for social and political purposes. But Paul F. Wagner, press secretary, said Goldwater was talking about administration programs aimed at retraining of men rejected in pre-induction draft physicals.

Johnson asked Congress on Aug. 14 for $16.7 million to help rehabilitate young men who are rejected by the draft on mental or physical grounds.

The president announced last April a study of the draft system, and said that inquiry would consider the possibility of ending Selective Service within a decade.

Goldwater said crime and lawlessness has mounted under the Democrats — and he linked that charge with civil rights rioting.

He quoted U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson as saying "in the great struggle to advance civil and human rights, even a jail sentence is no longer a dishonor, but a proud achievement."

Goldwater said that kind of talk encourages "even more abuse of the law."

"When men will seek political advantage by turning their eyes away from riots and violence, we can well understand why lawlessness grows even while we pass more laws," Goldwater said.

He said it is not the function of the federal government to enforce local laws. "But it is a responsibility of the national leadership to make sure that it, and its spokesmen and its supporters do not discourage the enforcement or incite the breaching of these laws," Goldwater said.

The senator added Johnson faces "a clear and immediate challenge to go to work effectively and go to work immediately to restore proper respect for law and order in this land — and not just prior to election day."

Goldwater said Johnson seeks "concentration of power as an announced article of political faith."

Goldwater said he would move with care in "our task of cutting the government down to size."

"Our economy needs stability and continuity in government policy," he said.

To aid the aged and the needy, he promised "a thriving and compassionate economy" with its programs handled at government levels close to the people.

"Much as we may wish it were otherwise, we shall only gradually be able to alter many policies of the federal government," he said. "The mistakes of the past cannot be corrected overnight."

But he said Republicans would start at once to slow federal spending and "foster an economy that will provide jobs for our growing population."

would press for prompt action on a bill he has introduced to make it a federal offense to bomb a business establishment, home or place of worship.

"Loose use of dynamite is becoming a national menace," he said.

Local officials planned to impanel a special grand jury today to investigate the bombings. State's Attorney Daniel P. Ward said that Wilkos would be one of the first witnesses.

Wilkos, challenging Ward to solve the bombings, said, "Let that Ward call me. I'm going to scream to him. I'm going to scream. Last time this happened he kept shaking his finger in my face telling me to tell the truth. Now look what has happened."

Ward retorted that after the bombing of Wilkos' first restaurant in May he had talked to Wilkos but the restaurant owner said "he knew no reason for the bombings, was reluctant to talk and asked for no protection."

"Now because of his insistance, we will call him as one of the first witnesses before the special grand jury," Ward said.

Later Wilkos said the crime syndicate had indicated to him "through various little things" that it is not behind the bombings — and is conducting its own investigation to find out who is responsible. He declined to elaborate.

It was taken from a car belonging to Dave Kennedy while it was parked at 300 Prairie Rd. The instrument belongs to Hoskins and Associates, Lincoln, Neb.

North's direct raise to two no-trump does not get our vote of approval. Holding a five card major suit and a worthless doubleton, he should first explore the possibilities of playing the hand in a spade contract.

North is not in position to bid spades directly himself, for a jump to three spades would show 10 points, whereas a bid of two spades would designate a hand containing less than eight points. The recommended procedure is for North to bid two clubs which in our current method announces at least eight points and requests the opening bidder to show a four card major suit. The two club bid is, of course, artificial and has nothing to do with the club suit.

If South's rebid is two diamonds, this call is also artificial and denies a biddable major suit. North is now at liberty to bid two spades himself and await partner's reaction. With the actual holding, South would have shown his spade holding and the major suit game would have been reached routinely. enced no difficulty in taking 10 Declarer would have experienced no difficulty in taking 10 tricks.

While South was in position to rectify the situation by bidding three spades over two no-trump as a check back on his way to game, he did not consider it discreet to suggest a suit contract with his rather anemic holding in spades.

Although nine top tricks appear to be available in no trump. South found it necessary to engage in some fancy footwork to uncover a roadblock which loomed up momentarily in his long suit.

West opened the queen of hearts which was ducked by everyone. On the continuation, East put up the king and South played his ace. Declarer cashed the queen of spades and showed out and North's king won the trick.

Declarer observed that, if he played the ace of spades next to drop East's jack, the following round of that suit would have to be taken in the closed hand, and there would be no way to reach the dummy again to cash the fifth spade.

He decided to enlist his opponent's assistance to unravel the tangle. The ten of hearts was led from dummy and South discarded the seven of spades from his hand. West was able to cash his book in the heart suit but, when declarer regained the lead, he was in position to overtake the eight of spades with North's ace and run the rest of the suit.

ABIDJAN — The Ivory Coast has a new resort.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The Picture Might Lie!

DEAR ABBY: What can I do with a husband who talks of nothing but his ailments? He is tall, handsome and the picture of health. He has been examined by experts, who all say he is as fit as a fiddle. Yet he has driven away almost all his friends because he complains so much. He even tells the clerks in stores about his aches and pains. If we go on a trip, all he remembers about it afterwards are the places where he had the headaches. I am —GETTING DESPERATE

DEAR GETTING: If your husband continues to complain about his health after the experts affirm that he is as "fit as a fiddle," quit fiddling around and take the cue. Ask one of those experts to recommend another expert—in the psychiatry department. Fiddles on occasion have been known to snap a string.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of married children who are always taking advantage of their parents? They bring their children to us so we can baby-sit with them, and they spend the week-ends fishing or going away somewhere.

They all work and could well afford to hire someone to sit with their children. They could also ask their parents to go with them once in a while, but they never think of it. I hope you'll print this because they read your column and it would do them good to know how selfish they are. —GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: They may be selfish, but you don't deserve much sympathy. Why don't you tell THEM that you are not a free baby-sitting service? They are probably under the impression that you enjoy it because you haven't complained.

DEAR ABBY: Tell Joe, who couldn't seem to stick with a diet, that his idea of going to jail for 30 days and living on bread and water was not so dumb. If he has all that money for doctors, why not get himself a few acres of land in an out-of-the-way place and build his own "jail"? He could get a time lock and lock himself in with only a jug of water, a few oranges and some carrots. I've had a weight problem for years and that's what I did. I built myself a little place near Palm Springs, and when I put on about ten extra pounds, I lock myself in for 36 hours at a crack. I am 56 and in fine shape. If Joe lives anywhere near Palm Springs, Calif., he is welcome to use my "jail." —WEIGHTLESS

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Herb": If a woman is able to make a man deliciously happy or wretchedly sad — he's still young.

Pooch Pool

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Vandenberg's Labrador retriever, Blackie, took a sudden fancy to the swimming pool of the James Gaupels, neighbors of his owners. He took over and wouldn't let anyone else in.

The Vandenbergs finally had to buy him a wading pool of his own to keep him happy at home.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here is my method of washing white gloves:

I slip the gloves on my hands when I am washing lingerie and the gloves get clean without the extra time and trouble of washing them separately.

The gloves also serve to protect my hands and keep my manicure from being scraped from the metal fasteners on the undergarments.

I hope this hint is as helpful to you as your advice has been to me. —Annette Griffin

Dear Annette:

You are really killing two birds with one stone by not only washing the gloves but protecting your manicure as well.

The undergarments rubbing against the gloves automatically clean the gloves with no additional scrubbing. Don't forget to hold the gloves under the water faucet and fill them with water for good rinsing. While they are full, squeeze them and see what a much better rinsing job you get.

Thanks loads for the hint. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I take my youngster out for dinner, I take along her familiar table gear . . . her fork and spoon, bib, and a soft doll to keep her company.

Dear Heloise:

Since my baby has chubby legs, I do not use rubber or plastic pants for him.

I buy an inexpensive plastic tablecloth and cut it into pieces the size of his "folded" diaper. I insert one piece of plastic just under the "outer" fold of the diaper.

Several diapers can be fixed ahead of time and kept handy. —Mrs. Neal Rice

Dear Heloise:

Each spring for several years I have dug out and done up our gathered skirts . . . and they would be put away in the fall never having been worn!

This summer I set out to find a solution: I bought two shift patterns for my youngest girls (sizes six and eight) and within a few hours had made shifts from the gathered skirts.

The shifts were cool, comfortable, easy to iron, and so inexpensive. —E.B.C.

Dear Heloise:

For those who have trouble keeping a girdle waistband from folding or rolling, here is an idea that has worked for me.

Fasten two or three gripper snap fasteners across the top of the girdle waistband and, at matching spaces, to a long-line bra. In attaching the snap to the bra, reinforce the fabric with twill tape. Manufacturer's instructions with the gripper snap fasteners show just "how" it is done.

If snaps are uniformly spaced, the garments may be interchanged. —Mrs. J.W.R.

Dear Heloise:

I have to take one capsule a day and it was so hard to remember whether I had taken it, so I struck upon this idea:

I took the date page of a small calendar and tied it around the medicine bottle. Now each time I take a capsule, I mark that date off on the calendar.

No trouble to remember now.

Dear Heloise:

To protect my hairdo when dressing, I simply tie on a plastic rain scarf . . . my dress or blouse slides easily over my head . . . and my hairdo is not disturbed at all.

I keep a rain scarf in my dresser drawer at all times so it is handy when needed. —P. T.

Dear Heloise:

Lots of people, like myself, have portable electric sewing machines with foot controls.

My mother told me quite some time ago that I could save money and repair bills by placing the whole foot control inside a plastic bag and tying the top of the bag around the cord.

This keeps the dust, dirt, moisture and soil out and thus makes the control last longer. —Daily Loving Reader

This gal is right. Put that little foot-feed in a plastic bag. Cover your appliances! And a way to test this is:

Cover your appliance with a much dust and dirt lands on plastic bag and "see" how much dust and dirt lands on that plastic covering within two weeks! It's most amazing . . . The machine foot feed may be used "without" removing the bag.

Yes, this sweet woman will save us lots or repair bills. —Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

What to use for a burglar alarm?

I have a five - cent whistle, police-type, which I carry in my purse.

When out after dark, I keep it in my hand, and at night it hangs beside my bed. I have never had to use it and hope I never have to. —Anne Dane

Dear Heloise:

Painting practically ruins rubber gloves, especially when using stain or varnish. Cleaning an oven is also hard on rubber gloves.

For all the really messy jobs I use the "heavy," soft plastic bags as a substitute for my good gloves. I particularly like the bag that carrots come in as they are exactly the right size and long enough to cover the wrists.

When the job is completed, I just throw away the bags. —Fay Laing

Frozen Fish Given To Watching Tourists

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — Tourists who stop at Pier 2 in this commercial fishing center may end up with frozen tuna in their hands.

Longshoremen and truck drivers view any visitor who stops to watch the transfer of frozen fish from ships to trucks as a potential friend of the fishing industry.

If the visitor is carrying a camera, he is invited to have his picture taken with a fancy fish. Workers at the pier say no one yet has turned down the suggestion.

CUPID TRIUMPHS

WISE, Va. (AP) —The wedding ceremony went on as scheduled, even though the locale had to be changed after the pastor who was to officiate underwent an appendectomy.

Irene Baker, Pound, Va., and Keith Nelms, Yorktown, Va., were married in the Wise Appalachian Regional Hospital by the Rev. James D. Shortt of Pound, a patient there. The nurses gathered flowers from other rooms to provide the proper setting, and the pajama-clad minister performed the ceremony in his room.

Serendipity is the ability to to make a fortunate discovery by chance.

'Most Refreshing Smile' Honor Won by Jan Phelps

Miss Jan Phelps has a way of winning. Named Colorado Springs "Girl of the West" for 1964 for the recent rodeo held in August Miss Phelps went on to be designated as Girl with the "Most Refreshing Smile" by the Coca Cola Co. In that capacity, she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Phelps of 228 E. Fontanero St. were given an all-expense paid trip to the New York World's Fair where they were royally entertained, and were guests at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Four manufacturing companies named girls with special kinds of smiles in this contest, and Miss Phelps, who best represented the "pause that refreshes," was named by Coca Cola.

Miss Phelps is a student at Colorado State College where she will be a sophomore this fall.

"Miss Smile Day" was held Aug. 17 when a conference was held in the court yard of the company's building at the fair. There she was greeted by the world's most famous clown, Emmett Kelly, and by Blinko, the smiling clown from the fair's Continental Circus. Press men from all leading dailies in New York were on hand to take pictures of Jan which appeared in many of the town's newspapers.

Camp Fire Girls Visit Denver Mint, Museum

An excursion to Denver was made recently by the Ekolela Camp Fire Girls of Garfield School. The girls spent the morning at the Denver City Museum in City Park. Following lunch at a drive-in, they toured the U. S. Mint.

The members financed the trip with money earned by selling pop and candy at last spring's track meet at Garfield School.

Making the trip were Gail and Janet Brown, La'rae Fry, Grayce Gardner, Sandra Houston and Dianne Nicholaisen, accompanied by their guardian Mrs. H. Fay Hawley and John C. Brown. Now entering 7th grade at North Junior, the girls are advancing to Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls.

Fabric weatherstripping glued to the bottom of each runner on a rocking chair will keep the chair from marking floors.

Go-Together Dress, Coat

The costume ... one of the season's smartest trends, is interpreted in a specially designed "go-together" ... the dress and coat combination. An easy to make ensemble that lends itself to a wide variety of fabrics to suit almost every occasion. The princess sheath is softly detailed with gathers at the bustline and boasts a wide scoop neckline forming a dainty shoulder cover-up. The coat, with neat shawl type collar, features dramatic short sleeves and a back yoke, from which emerge deep box pleats to give graceful fullness. For daytime or formal fabrics.

Price $1. No. R-125 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 14 takes 3¾ yards of 50-inch fabric for coat and 2⅜ yards of 50-inch fabric for dress. Standard body measurements for size 14 are: Bust 34, Waist 26, Hips 36.

Lady Leader

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Paul Swanson is a leader of men — 2,000 of them. She has been installed as commander of Moline American Legion Post 246 in what she called "the biggest honor 2,000 fellows could bestow on a woman."

Mrs. Swanson served in the Marine Corps from 1943 to 1945. Her husband, who is a past commander of Post 246, was recently elected senior vice commander of the third division, Illinois American Legion, which includes 27 counties.

FAMILY HOUSE RAISING

FRIONA, Tex. (AP) — The new home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Matlock is not a house "that Jack built" but they can safely say it is one that the family built. All the kith and kin gathered when the elderly couple decided to move here in order to be near their children.

Almost overnight the house mushroomed when sons-is-law, grandsons, nephews and other relatives in the construction business made a family project of it.

New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (APFollowing is a complete list of stock transactions today on the New York Stock Exchange wih 3:00 p.m. prices.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved unevenly early this afternoon as Wall Street showed typical pre-Labor Day caution. Trading was moderate.

The top auto and steel stocks were narrowly mixed, improving a little over early prices.

Airlines were hit by some sharp profit-taking.

The trend was higher among aerospace issues, chemicals and drugs.

Selective strength among assorted blue chips helped keep the averages on an even keel.

Moves of a few points in either direction highlighted the more volatile issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 316.9 with industrials up .1, rails up .2 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .09 at 845.17.

Uncertainty over the auto labor situation and politics were cited as additional reasons for caution prior to the Labor Day weekend, a traditional milestone for business and the market.

Phelps Dodge snapped back more than 2 points following Wednesday's decline. Union Carbide was another 2-point gainer. Raytheon was strong, up more than a point.

Pan American and American Airlines slid more than a point each while United and Eastern lost fractions.

Xerox rose 3 and IBM 1. U.S. Smelting skidded 3 points and Polaroid dropped 2.

Pfizer advanced more than a point. Merck and Schering were fractional gainers.

Prices moved generally higher in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were higher.

Ambassadorship For Jacqueline Not in Cards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department termed "without foundation" Wednesday a report that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has been considered for appointment as ambassador to France if she wants the job.

"There is no such plan under consideration either here or in the White House," State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen.

He also denied the report, published in the New York Herald Tribune, that the name of the widow of President John F. Kennedy was being circulated along with others in what was seen as a sweeping shuffle in the State Department after the Nov. 3 election.

The reorganization was said to be conditioned on President Johnson's election.

The report came as news Wednesday to the former First Lady's aides.

BOY DIGS UP CANNON BALL

BOSTON (UPI) — Seven-year-old Sephen McNeil thought he had uncovered a bowling ball when he dug up a round object in a vacant lot.

But Edward Rowe Snow, noted historian, identified the object as a cannon ball of the type used by Gen. George Washington's army when it fortified Dorchester Heights in 1776.

Bomb Alert Proves To Be Shoe Polisher

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Things began to hum at San Francisco International Airort when a mail sack started buzzing.

Quieted, the device resumed its trip to an apparently weary-armed Marine stationed overseas.

Surfers find good sport in the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Peru and the Philippines.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Speculators appeared to have reverted to the long side of the soybean market today and boosted prices as much as two cents a bushel at times on the Board of Trade.

The demand was described as reinstatement of long positions at the start of the rise, but as prices moved up a fairly good volume of short covering came into the pit.

The firmness was believed by many traders to have been a normal reaction to two successive days of declines.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 5, corn 158, oats and rye none, barley 17, soybeans 7.

Local Persons Awarded Piano And Stereo

The Colorado Springs, Music Co., celebrating its expansion, awarded a grand prize of a Wurlitzer spinet piano and a Magnavox stereo.

The celebration was a two week affair designed to acquaint the people of the Pikes Peak Region with the firm's two stores.

The Colorado Springs Music Company, now in it's 42nd year of service to the Pikes Peak Region, has two stores to serve the area better.

At the north store, 110 N. Tejon St., pianos, organs, band instruments, and sheet music are being featured. At the south store, 108 S. Tejon St., you will find a modern Magnavox Stereo and television store, complete with stereo listening rooms and a complete electronic repair shop.

Frank Flanigan established the Colorado Springs Music Company some 42 years ago, and is still serving as president of the company, in association with his wife Edith and his two sons, Jerry and Dan.

Colorado Springs Mayor, Harry Hoth, drew the winning names at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday morning. The winner of the Wurlitzer Piano is Mrs. B. V. Stillson, 2617 East Dale St., and the Magnavox stereo winner is Mrs. Dena Coyle, 1304 East San Miguel St.

The names were drawn from among thousands of registrations submitted at both stores during the two week celebration.

Manitou Water System Plans Hit Legal Snag

Work on a water distribution system for Manitou Springs has hit a legal snag.

City councilmen, meeting in special session Wednesday afternoon, were told by City Attorney Blakemore McCarty that the city does not have clear title to the site of the present distributor in West Manitou. This is the location selected by engineers for the new two million gallon distributor.

The council gave the city attorney authority to take action to clear the title.

McCarty said that Stearns-Roger, design engineers and contractors employed by the city, were about to stop work until he informed them in writing that title to the land would be cleared by an action to quiet title through District Court, condemnation, or both. McCarty said the city has used the land since the late 1890's.

The previous legal obstacle to water system improvements was a taxpayers' suit to prevent issuance of water bonds which was fought through the State Supreme Court and decided in the city's favor.

The council decided to request the Bank of Manitou, a repository of city funds, to insure city deposits with securities or cash deposited in a Federal Reserve bank.

Action was delayed on an ordinance to adopt the 1964 Uniform Building Code. Mayor L. Longaker said it would be a "major step backward" not to adopt the revised code. The city has been operating under the 1958 code.

The city attorney explained that a second class statutory city like Manitou has difficulty forcing owners to repair or tear down buildings.

"There are things we can't do that other cities can do," said McCarty, adding:

"If someone wants to keep something unsightly . . . that's their business."

In other action the council:

— Sanctioned a police department sponsored dance in September or October to raise uniform money. This request sparked discussion on accounting for proceeds from ticket sales.

— Voted to pay what the city owes on parking meters.

— Gave Councilman Fred Jordan, chairman of the fire department, committee, authority to investigate radio improvements.

— Approved a liquor license renewal for Arthur Harfert for Sundown Lounge, 10 Old Mans Trail.

FOUR INJURED—Four youths suffered injuries Wednesday afternoon when this station wagon rolled down an embankment five and half miles north of Woodland Park. Victor Chavez, 13, of 115 W. Rio Grande St., suffered a fractured coccyx and was taken to the Ft. Carson Hospital. He was a passenger in the vehicle driven by Patrick W. Torres, 17, of the same address. Torres suffered bruises and was also taken to the Ft. Carson Hospital. Two other passengers, Abe M. Rodriguez; 15, 1 W. Costilla St., and Joe E. Sisneros, 14, of 725 S. Tejon St., suffered abrasions and were released at the scene. State Patrolman M. E. Leonard, here shown inspecting the wreckage, said the vehicle was southbound when it went out of control and plunged down the embankment.

Billy J. Middleton, 19, North Beat, Neb. was given six months for issuing a $24.43 check Feb. 4 and giving it to Dividend Bonded Gas, 805 E. Fillmore St. He was also ordered to pay $42.25 costs.

Brenda O. Toepfer, 23, 140 Steven Dr. Security, was sentenced to 90 days in County Jail. According to the information filed against the defendant she wrote a $10 short check Aug. 13 and passed it with the A. L. Duckwall Stores Co.

School Year Starts Friday For 200 New Staff Members

For nearly 200 new staff members in District 11, the school year will start with a day-long orientation program, beginning at 8:30 a.m., Friday, in the Wasson High auditorium.

After a break for the Labor Day weekend, the orientation program will continue with meetings for all personnel Tuesday. Pupils will report to their classrooms Wednesday.

The opening day orientation session includes social as well as business meetings for new personnel. The Colorado Springs Education Association and the Parent Teacher Associations will be hosts at a coffee. At noon the new teachers will be luncheon guests of the Colorado Springs Rotary Club.

Two other get-acquainted events are a chuck wagon dinner, Wednesday in the Garden of the Gods and a tour of the region, September 12. The Colorado Springs Education Association and the Trailways Bus Company are hosts.

The 187 new teachers constitute the largest number of newcomers in the district's history, and as usual many come to Colorado from other states. Illinois, Oregon, and California are given as the home states of 36 teachers. Most of the men teachers are married; most of the women are single.

The district's 28 elementary schools will have 106 new teachers, the junior highs 43, and the two high schools will have 38 new faculty members. All the teachers have bachelors degrees and several hold masters degrees.

Robert L. Davis, assistant superintendent for personnel, says that for the first time a majority of sixth grade teachers will be men. There are 69 sixth grade classes in the district, and 50 of them will be taught by men, Davis says.

Manitou School Enrollment Remains same

First week enrollment in Manitou Springs District 14 schools is the same as this time last year.

School Superintendent W. W. Bundy reported that 1,083 youngsters enrolled in the system's schools this year and 1963, and 1,056 were enrolled the first week in 1962.

Statistically, elementary enrollment jumped to 447 this year, compard with 410 in 1963 and 425 in 1962 for the first week of school.

Junior high school enrollment dipped to 302 this year, compared with 337 in 1963 and 305 in 1962 for the first week of school.

Senior high school enrollment was 334 this year, apace with 336 in 1963 and 326 in 1962 for the first week of school.

Bundy predicted that enrollment will increase after Labor Day, which is a school holiday. School began Aug. 31, a week ahead of Colorado Springs District 11 schools.

Florida Man Charged Here With Forgery

Robert Levie Andrews also known as James Alonzo Daniel, 21, Panama City, Fla. was charged in District Court Wednesday with forgery.

He is alleged to have written a $47.53 check bearing the signature "Charles R. Andrews" and given it to J.C. Penney Inc. Aug. 17.

Judge G. Russell Miller set bond at $2,500.

Herbert Orlofsky, 39, 2739 Arcadia St. was charged with embezzlement. According to the information filed against him, the defendant is accused of converting checks and money worth a total of $269.62 and belonging to the Curtis Industries while he was employed by the company April 28.

Russel Favors Open Door DA Policy

Robert L. Russel, chief trial attorney in the district attorney's office, told the Executive Club meeting Wednesday at Ruth's Oven that he believes in an open door policy.

Russel, a candidate for district attorney in the coming primary election, further elaborated on the proposed open door policy in that office.

He said, "The door will be open to every citizen."

Russel explained that the office is a public office — it is the "citizen's office." All complaints would be listened to and, Russel pointed out, since there is a certain degree of specialization in law enforcement today, some complaints would be referred to other departments. The attorney added though that the distict attorney's office would follow up on the complaints to see what disposition was given the matters.

Many complaints are now made to the D.A.'s office, Russel said, that are without justification. Often there has been no crime committed, but the public still has the right to make the complaint. In going a step further, however, Russel said that the public is also entitled to have the district attorney's office make a determination as to the validity of their complaints.

The office then would follow up on the complaint or refer the matter to the proper law enforcement agency.

Russel pointed out that specialization was already in effect in such matters as bad check complaints. These are followed up by the Sheriff's office if the matter originated in the county and by the Colorado Springs Police Department if the matter originated in the city.

"The point is that the Disitrct Attorney's office is a public office and should serve every citizen," Russel concluded.

At a meeting Tuesday, Russel said that driving a car is an adult activity. Youths who want to drive should therefore be ready and able to shoulder adult responsibilities.

"In the eyes of the law, they must be treated as adults when they undertake adult privileges and if they get in trouble, they must face the music as an adult," Russel said.

Planetarium Attendance Sets New Record

Attendance records continue to topple at the Air Force Academy Planetarium.

Lt. Col. Wallace E. Moore, Planetarium director, reports a total of 23,478 persons saw the summer program, "Man, Moon, and Mars," during the month of August. The figure, an all-time single month record, tops the July attendance by 12 per cent. In all, 94 programs were presented.

Since Jan. 1, Planetarium lecturers have given 453 presentations to 73,086 persons, including 2,283 school children.

Overall attendance since the Planetarium "opened for business" in February 1959 is 363,621.

Beginning Sept. 12, the fall program, "Out Star in Space," will be shown four times a week — at 2 and 3:15 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Portland AD Sector Wins Gen. Frederic Smith Trophy

Portland Air Defense Sector is this year's winner of the Gen. Frederic H. Smith, Jr. Trophy, Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, Commander of the Air Defense Command, today announced. The award will be presented Sept. 12 during the Night Fighter Association Convention in Washington, D. C.

Commanded by Brig. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, the Portland ADS is located at Adair Air Force Station near Corvallis, Ore. It is one of two Air Defense Sectors of the 25th Air Division and directs the air defense of an area bordered by Seattle, Wash., Reno, Nev., San Francisco, Calif. and the Pacific Ocean. It is comprised of the Direction Center, ADS Command Headquarters and support units located on Adair AFS.

Subordinate units include the 337th Fighter Group at Portland International Airport, the 408th Fighter Group at Kingsley Field, Klamath Falls, Ore., the 78th Fighter Group at Hamilton AFB, Calif., and radar squadrons located at Mount Hebo AFS, Keno AFS, and North Bend AFS in Oregon; Klamath AFS, Red Bluff AFS, Point Arena AFS, and the 66 th Radar Squadron at Mather AFB in California. The command is also responsible for the operation and maintenance of 11 unmanned radar facilities in the area.

Established in 1963, the Smith Trophy is the first Air Force-level award to recognize the outstanding accomplishments of ground-based Air Defense Command units in the precise art of air-to-air intercept operations.

An annual winner is determined according to unit standings in Operational Readiness Inspections, Tactical Evaluation scores, results of staff visits, training accomplishments, live exercise results rates and ratings in the ADC Management Effectiveness Program.

Portland ADS won the trophy from a field of five Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) units and one manually-controlled unit.

The Smith Trophy is a hammered silver trophy cup which is presented on a rotating basis. It is accompanied by a permanent award plaque.

Presently, only Air Defense Command units compete for the Smith Trophy; however, it is anticipated that competition will soon be expanded to include all Air Force ground environment air defense units possessing a manned interceptor control capability.

Other SAGE units competing for the trophy were Boston ADS, Duluth ADS, Los Angeles ADS, and Sioux City ADS. The manual unit was the 932d Radar Squadron, Keflavik, Iceland.

Bickley Blasts Commissioner At Meeting Here

Charles H. Bickley, Democratic candidate for county commissioner, Tuesday night charged his Republican opponent with an arrogant and insolent disregard for others by long-range planning meetings between city and county officials.

Bickley spoke at a meeting of the residents of the Building Trades Council apratment house, 417 E. Kiowa St.

"I don't believe any county commissioner should put himself in the position where he arrogantly and insolently determines that his is the only way in which something can be done," Bickley said. "My Republican opponent has made it clear to those who are attempting to work out long-range plans for the growth and development of El Paso county that he's not interested unless he calls the tune. They'll have to dance to his music or he won't play.

"I don't believe any one of us is smart enough to have all the answers even though the present county commissioner would have you believe he is so gifted.

"He found out people didn't like his 'scratch my back' type of govenrment. He didn't think it necessary to buy supplies and equipment on a bid basis. He thought negotiation was the way to do it. But no more, not since we began talking about it. Right now they're busy preparing specifications so the county can purchase supplies, including gasoline, on a bid basis."

Bickley told his audience that if he is elected county commissioner, he will be willing to sit down with others and work for a solution of problems involved in planning long-range development for El Paso county.

"I believe it is possible to work out, for example, a uniform building code for the city and county," he said. "But this will never come about as long walks out of meetings when he doesn't like what's going on."

Bickley also renewed his plea for the county to get out of the road building business and asked that local private enterprise organizations be given the opportunity to bid on such jobs.

"They'll do the job better, quicker and more economically," he said.

This same situation has prevailed in all but two months during the modern history of the water division of the Department of Public Utilities.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Again hearts were saddened at the passing of a long standing friend when the news came Wednesday evening of the death of T. J. Bruce of Fountain. Mr. Bruce had been gravely ill for better than four months. The Bruces lived at Hanover as young married folks when each of us struggled along together, and it seems hardships draws folks closer together.

The Bruces lived where the Dave Millions now live. Then, as at the time of his death, the Bruces were faithful to the church and their fellow men. Mr. Bruce was teacher of the young folks Sunday School class at Hanover when they lived here. He lacked just one month of his 67th birthday. He had many jobs along the way, as he helped the Gideons for several years, also worked on safety at Ft. Carson, worked at the Red Cross, taught first aid. All that he did was a benefit to others.

The Bruces built a cabin at Camp Iana, which will stand for years to be a reminder of what his ambitions were. He was on the Camp Board for a long while. Mr. Bruce leaves to mourn his passing his devoted wife Virginia; a son, Clayton, of Colorado Springs; two daughters, Mrs. Eileen Crawford, of Palmer Lake, and Mrs. Monell Netszinger, of Dayton, Ohio; five grandchildren, two sisters, and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the Swan Mortuary Saturday morning, at 10:30, with burial in Evergreen Cemetery. Two little daughters preceded him in death. Rev. McAnintch and Rev. Kreiser officiated. Our sincere sympathy is extended to the sorrowing relatives. The former Mabel Baker flew in from Los Angeles Friday evening to attend the funeral. Mabel lived at Hanover as a girl.

We were told Saturday of the sudden passing of Ray McDowell, of Penrose, Friday, but I do not have any details. He also had lived at Hanover several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hoffmaster and family had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Williams, mother and father of Mrs. Hoffmaster, her brother and family of up in the mountains and Mr. and Mrs. Williams and son of Colorado Springs. Mrs. Williams is a sister of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble.

David and Mark and Mrs. Maude Patterson,, of Colorado Springs, attended church Sunday and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble, Virginia and Timmy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Akerman and Clare, of Greeley, visited at the Claude Vettes' a week ago.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Erick Houtchens, who celebrated their 45tth wedding anniversary Saturday, Aug. 29. This was also the wedding day of Mrs. Ethel Milne, who had been married 67 years ago on that date.

The boys and girls will have to get back in the saddle again, as vacation is over, school starting Monday, Aug. 31. There seems to be a variety, as Ellicott started Aug. 24 and some schools won't start until the day after Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Holman and family moved to Colorado Springs from the Lawrence Stiegall Ranch last week, where Milton will work as a carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Everhart and two children attended church at Hanover Sunday. The Everharts came from Indiana last week and Mr. Everhart will teach in the Security School. They are friends of the Trusdals.

Hanover met with Drennan and had a fellowship lunch and sing and devotions service Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Huffmaster led the singing and accompanied a solo by Claude Vette and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Huffmaster, John Trusdal giving the message.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman, Brenda and Sheryl, of Colorado Springs, had Sunday dinner with the Roy Chismans. Robert Chisman, of Pueblo, drove out in the afternoon.

The Hanover School Board had to get another teacher for the intermediate grades, as Mrs. Reimer did not return after her husband was sent overseas.

Mrs. Innis, who cooked last year, is cooking at Canon City, where her home is. She had cooked there before coming to Hanover.

Mrs. Alta Baker and Mrs. Doyle Huffmaster will have charge of the lunch room.

Poland Observes Anniversary Of Nazi War

BY GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The 25th anniversary of Germany's invasion of Poland — the fateful start of World War II — is being recalled today in Poland with rallies, speeches and mourning.

Top Polish leaders are appearing at rallies in Warsaw and in Gdansk, the former free city of Danzig. It was in Danzig that the first shots sounded at 4:45 a.m. Sept. 1, 1939, when the German cruiser Schleswig-Holstein shelled Westerplatte, a tiny Polish enclave across the Bay of Danzig.

In West Germany, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard observed the anniversary by declaring that Germans want nothing more to do with war.

In a radio speech Monday, Erhard said: "The Germans — of this I am certain — have learned from horrible experience and their whole longing is to achieve a true peace.

"We Germans will be especially reminded of the disaster of 1939, which was unleashd in our name by a brutal ruler. We must own up to this historical fact."

Anniversary rallies also were held Monday. The Polish Press Agency said the largest gathering was at Bytom, Upper Silesia, attended by 100,000 persons.

Edward Gierek, a member of the Polish Communist party's Politburo, told the rally: "We bow our heads to all our sisters and brothers who fell in the defense of this fatherland in that unequal fight."

Gierek said Poland's security now is guaranteed by the "material and defensive strength of the entire Socialist (Communist) camp, especially of the Soviet Union."

At dusk in Warsaw Monday night, a solemn rollcall of solders who died in the early hours of the war was read at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by Gen. Jozef Dziadura, commander of the Warsaw garrison. After each name, drums beat a funeral cadence and a military honor guard chanted, "they fell on the field of glory."

Polish Defense Minister Marshal Marian Spychalsky Monday was permitted to use the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia to remind the Russians it was their secret police who weakened the Polish Communist party on the eve of World War II by killing many of its leaders.

Woman Drowns As Spectators Keep Watching

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—A 50-year-old widow who couldn't swim drowned Tuesday while a dozen spectators stood by and did nothing.

Mrs. Josephine Johnson of Dayton climbed on the roof of her car and called for help after the car plunged into the Miami River.

"I can't swim," she shouted. Witnesses told police the car began to sink. Mrs. Johnson jumped into the water, "kicked around a little and then went under."

Gene Snook, a witness, said, "I can't swim. I tried to get someone to go in after her but they wouldn't."

"It seems to me that someone standing around should have been able to swim out and help her. It wasn't that far out," he said.

The river is about 100 feet wide at the point where Mrs. Johnson's car hit an oil slick on the road and skidded into 20 feet of water.

Clarence Gabbard, another witness, said "about a dozen people" were standing on the bank when Mrs. Johnson went under.

"She looked like she was begging for help," Gabbard said

Bobby Baker May Go to Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bobby Baker, vacationing in Southern California, says he may move to Los Angeles to practice law.

The controversial former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority declined any comment Wednesday in the latest allegation leveled against him by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. The senator has charged that an illegal contribution to the Democratic campaign in 1960 was made by Matthew H. McCloskey Jr., the builder of a Washington, D.C., sports stadium, and that the money was funneled through Baker.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: My wife and I became Christians about two years. We believe that life would be filled with blessing but ever since we have experienced hardships and disappointments. —P. M.

ANSWER: The first thing you will have to do is to be able to distinguish between the problems that come to us in the due course of daily living and those that are inflicted upon us because we are Christians. Always remember that because you became a Christian did not mean that God was going to make you prosperous materially. In fact, it is quite well known that material prosperity does not always drive us to Christ. In the case of most persons it drives them from Him. It is well known that we pray more in our times of need than in our times of plenty.

Secondly you should always observe that there is a divine purpose in everything that happens to the Christian. The Scriptures say: "But God corrects us all our days for our own benefit to teach us His holiness. Now obviously no chastening seems pleasant at the time, it is in fact most unpleasant. Yet when it is all over, we can see that it has quietly produced the fruit of real goodness in the characters of those who have accepted it in the right spirit. So take a fresh grip on life and brace your trembling limbs." When things are most discouraging look to this portion of Scripture in Hebrews 12: 10-12 and permit God to bless your soul richly through it, even when there is adversity of all kinds.

that if there is one God there ought to be just one church and not all the different denominations. —A. W.

ANSWER: The reason there are so many different denominations is that there are so many different kinds of people. When one studies the differences in the great Christian churches, they are really quite minor. Christ built His church on Peter's confession: "Thou are the Christ the Son of the living God," and all true Christians embrace that cardinal truth. The chief differences in the major protestant churches are the result of the freedom of interpretation which has been the genius of Christianity. The main thing is, not how far apart they are in their beliefs, but how similar.

In our city-wide Crusades we see all major denominations working together to win men to Christ. The closer we get to God, the nearer we are to each other. Have you not walked along the sea shore and noticed the little isolated pools left by the outgoing tide? But when the tide came in the little separated pools were gone. When the tide of revival comes in, the sectarian lines vanish. A true Christian church believes in Christ the Saviour; man, a sinner; a heaven to gain and a hell to shun.

Churches are so many regiments in a great army. They each have their separate identity, but they fight under one flag, and one captain, Jesus Christ.

On Banks Island, in the Canadian Arctic, the main diet is caribou, seal and arctic hare, supplemented by fish, pratmigan and an occasional fox.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A PRESCHOOL ROUTINE

The preschool health checkup is a popular procedure except perhaps when it comes to inoculation against the usual childhood diseases. No one wants to be a pincushion but there is some consolation in knowing that the other youngsters also receive these shots.

Revaccination against smallpox is essential and the same applies to whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus. Protection also is available against polio and measles.

In the preschool tests, the physician concentrates on the eyes, ears, mouth, heart, lungs, and feet. Poor posture may result from habit but it may be brought on by muscle fatigue due to undernourishment or insufficient sleep. The importance of good vision and hearing is obvious. Disorders of these senses may go undetected for months or years. The child who has been nearsighted most of his life seldom knows the difference; so far as he is concerned, no one sees beyond the side of the road or the house next door.

The condition of the heart and lungs bears investigation. Overexertion may aggravate a heart defect and the teacher can give these children special duties to compensate for the inability to play ball during recess.

The 6-year-old is overdue for a dental examination, as this is the age when the first permanent teeth erupt. The baby teeth begin to drop out at this time but they should not be neglected. When a decayed temporary tooth falls out prematurely, normal alignment will be disturbed unless the area is filled with a space maintainer.

Many youngsters have several colds during the first year or two of school. This should not be regarded as a lack of immunity or resistance to infection. For the first time, the child is associating with hundreds of other boys and girls in the classrooms and on the playgrounds. Many have or are coming down with a respiratory infection on any day of the school week.

Latent Diabetic

J.E. writes: Is latent diabetes treated the same way as diabetes?

Reply

The potential (latent) diabetic does not need insulin and seldom requires the oral antidiabetic pills. The majority hold their own by maintaining normal weight and having periodic checkups. In addition, the urine is tested for sugar whenever they go thru periods of stress such as an accident, operation, or a serious infection.

Eating After Stroke

B.J.S. writes: My wife had a stroke three months ago. She refuses to eat and has to be fed intravenously. Is there any way I can make her eat?

Reply

It is difficult to swallow after certain strokes, especially when the muscles of the throat are involved. I assume you have tried persuasion and different types of food. Be patient and by no means use force.

V.N.T. writes: What are the symptoms of adhesions caused by surgery?

Reply

Colicky abdominal pains occur when adhesions cause obstruction of the bowel. Otherwise, these bits of scar tissue are not bothersome. Send stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet on adhesions.

Ordinary Dishwashing

B.G. writes: Is it necessary to sterilize the dishes and silver used by a person with cancer of the mouth and throat?

Reply

No washing with hot water and soap or detergent is all you need do.

Heatt Shrinking

N. M. R. writes: What are the modern methods of shrinking an enlarged heart?

Reply

The organ may get smaller if the causative defect can be corrected via surgery or by lowering high blood pressure through medicine. Enlargement secondary to thyroid disease reverses itself if the condition is corrected. The same can be said of the beriberi heart with the administration of thiamine.

Noisy Breathing

Mrs. G. writes: Please explain stridor in a child and how it is treated.

Reply

Stridor is noisy or crowing breathing, especially during inspiration. It usually is associated with spasm or narrowing of the air passageway through the throat, larynx, or the windpipe. Treatment depends upon the cause of the obstruction. Moist, warm air, for example, helps stridor due to croup.

Poor Circulation to Brain

O. K. writes: My doctor put me in a hospital and the insurance form said, "cerebral ischemia." What is the common name of this condition?

Reply

Ischemia means disturbed blood flow to a part. I assume you had a condition in which the brain received too little nourishment. Poor circulation in the cerebral arteries is the most common cause.

Swollen Cheek

B. N. P. writes: For more than a year, one side of my face has been swollen. It gets better and worse off and on. This happened after a bad sunburn. Is there any way to restore this cheek to normal size?

Reply

I doubt that sunburn was responsible. Consult your physician the next time the cheek puffs up so he can examine the face and the glands in this area. The sides of the face are not always symmetrical and I assume you have taken this into consideration.

Slow Pulse

Mrs. N. writes: What is the reason the heart beats slowly?

Reply

Many healthy persons are blessed with a slow pulse rate. Others have a low metabolism. People with rates of 35 beats per minute or less usually have a heart block caused by rheumatic fever or coronary thrombosis.

Jaw Infection

Mrs. S. writes: What is the worst that can happen if a case of Ludwig's angina is not treated?

Reply

Most victims die unless treated with antibiotics. Ludwig's angina is a virulent infection of tissue spaces in the front of the mouth. Later it involves all tissues from the lower jaw to the collar bone.

Pierced Ear Problem

Miss B. W. writes: Is there any way to correct a growth on the ear resulting from pierced ears?

Reply

State Patrol Can't Get Tall Young Men

Answer: It isn't attracting enough tall young men.

The patrol said Tuesday it has received only 20 applications after a week of recruiting for men at least six feet tall, between 21 and 28, with a high school education.

Milk From Vending Machines Developed

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A new concept in fluid milk packaging and distribution consists of serving it in eight-ounce pop bottles at 10 cents a bottle from vending machines in hospitals, bus stations, filling stations, supermarkets, lounges and schools. The plan has given dairy leaders high hopes for greatly increasing milk consumption.

Already tested in more than 100 vending machines in North Dakota and Minnesota, the supplies of milk in pop bottles cannot keep up with demand. Some 500 machines are expected to be put into use.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — This is our lucky day. We are back at the old Washington stand after 10 days in Atlantic City. That isn't all there is to be happy about. What makes this day singularly perfect is that both Lyndon Johnson and Barry Goldwater are coasting.

The lull should be relished. It will pretty much end on Thursday when Goldwater opens his campaign in Prescott, Ariz., and it will be gone for good when LBJ makes the traditional Democratic opener at Detroit on Labor Day.

From then on there will be two politically hostile months remaining before the November election. So if there is to be any philosophizing and communing with conscience, it had better be done now before the two rivals formally enter the ring.

There should be such introspection, for this is going to be one helluva campaign to interpret objectively.

There is the delicate problem of how to give an even break to both the Republican and Democratic national tickets. There is LBJ using the White House sounding board with full orchestration day after day, refusing to give the GOP an even break.

Then there is the problem, which never before developed quite in the same way, of interpreting whether partisan smashes by the contestants, delivered by aroused battlers, are mean low blows or proper and traditional campaign thrusts.

The most perplexing problem lies in coming up with an honest evaluation of what either of the main rivals, Goldwater or Johnson, has to say. This is no problem when it comes to their political speeches. It is tricky, primarily, in connection with their press conferences and background briefings.

WAS THE PRESIDENT BOXED IN ON HUMPHREY?

What, for example, is a meaningful and objective evaluation of Johnson's choice of the energetic Hubert Humphrey for Vice President? Didn't the President himself let it be known that he previously told Bobby Kennedy that the job would drive him crazy because he was the active type?

And how about the long-winded White House explanation of how Humphrey was Lyndon's choice right along, and that the buildup was deliberately contrived so that finally the party convention would want Hubert above all others: Couldn't it be that the Humphrey buildup snowballed naturally and that the President ended up by being boxed in so he had to take him anyway?

This could go on and on. The latest lowdown everybody is supposed to swallow is that Humphrey is going to be an effective campaigner in the South and will be speaking a lot in Dixie. It is a real strain on our creduality.

There is a genuine opening for Goldwater in this general area but, to date, he has not chosen to notice it. Instead, it sometimes is as difficulty to understand Goldwater's semantics as Lyndon's illogical, if clever, political nuances.

BARRY LIKES REPORTERS TO CHECK WHAT HE MEANT

Didn't Barry at first say last week in California something about "negotiations" with Red China over Viet Nam and then have a subordinate try to clarify it into a sort of ultimatum to Peking?

All right, he didn't! Well, then, explain this. One of Goldwater's top advisers has passed the word that he likes best those reporters who check first to see that he really meant what he said in the first place.

But what is even more disturbing about the complexion of the campaign ahead is the manner in which the President is trying to control its appearance, just as he did the party convention in Atlantic City.

His pockets are full of more favorable private polls than of statistics on the state of the Union. Aren't there any unfavorable ones?

And he has no intention of letting the nation be "backlash" conscious. It must think "frontlash," which means, of course, that there is indelible evidence (again from certain polls) that his image packs a bigger appeal to dissident Republicans than Barry's does to dissident Democrats.

The President's attributes as a salesman must be acknowledged, for he is aware that the soft sell as well as the Texas pitch is required to make his assessment of the election outlook catch on.

JOHNSON SHARES HIS THOUGHTS WITH SOME

This soft-sell approach poses an ethical problem for those who are about to report this campaign. The president likes to share his thoughts with those newsmen whom he considers friendly and, in his mind, objective. Out of these private sceances there has been a constant flow of Presidential information, but with the fountainhead never to be openly disclosed.

What comes out always makes the President look good, for it conveys his reasons for doing this or that on the political spectrum without his being identified, as he is at a press conference.

Sure, Goldwater can play at the same game, and he has in a limited way. But what the President says off the record is bound to get a bigger splash.

The President's explanation in private of how he bumped Bobby Kennedy off the Vice Presidential pole obviously is more titillating reading than the other side's version .

His views of the shape of the campaign — and of how and why Humphrey was chosen — similarly draw more attention, even when the unimpeachable source is protected, than impartial, honest accounts of the way the contest is developing or of how Humphrey really was put on the team.

We bring all these matters up because they show the problems faced by those in this political maelstrom as a campaign begins in which both sides should be given a fair shake.

It would help if Johnson would do his part — saying what he has to say entirely on the record. And it also would help if Goldwater would let stand firmly on the record what he said in the first place.

Solons Launch Probe of Secret CIA Spending

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators shifted their course today after hearing that the Central Intelligence Agency had channeled some of its secret spending through a private foundation.

Little was heard of the hush-hush operation beyond testimony that official funds had been spent through the J. M. Kaplan Fund, a tax-exempt foundation. The amount of the money and its destination were not disclosed.

The House Small Business subcommittee turns today, instead, to foundations associated with Texas millionaire H. L. Hunt.

The brief testimony about CIA funds, brought out from reluctant Internal Revenue Service witnesses Monday, resulted in an hour-long, closed-door session later of subcommittee members with the revenue officials and Lt. Gen. Marshall S. Carter, deputy CIA director.

Afterward the subcommittee chairman, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., told newsmen his group would not pursue further the CIA aspects of Kaplan Fund affairs. The subcommittee is investigating the fund along with others in its study of tax exemption for charitable foundations.

"We are convinced the CIA does not belong in this foundation investigation," Patman said after the conference. "We are dropping it so far as the CIA is concerned."

Patman said, however, the testimony taken had not been contradicted and would stand and that the subcommittee would continue later its investigation of the Kaplan Fund. He has said its founder has "waged a number of battles" to take over companies, in some cases using "funds set up and dominated by him."

Just as well-trained foxhounds keep after their quarry "even if something else runs across the trail," he said, the subcommittee "is not going to be distracted from the main purpose of its investigation."

At Monday's hearing, Patman said he had been told by a revenue official and a CIA spokesman that the CIA had used the Kaplan Fund as "a conduit."

Under questioning, Mitchell Rogovin, assistant to the commissioner and IRS liaison man with the CIA, testified a CIA official had come to him late in 1961 after an audit of the Kaplan Fund had begun.

Rogovin said he had been told "they had been using the fund and they just wanted to alert the Washington office. They were concerned whether their interest would be made public and whether the fund would be jeopardized by the audit."

The CIA operates so secretly that only a handful of senators and representatives even know how much money is appropriated for it.

Patman remarked that the limited disclosure might have been averted if the CIA had been more cooperative in providing information he sought after learning privately of the connection with the fund.

"They probably didn't realize the situation," he said.

Pictures of Earth Clear From Nimbus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Project managers of the Nimbus weather satellite say they are amazed that its pictures of the earth are so clear.

They told of the satellite's remarkable performance at a news conference Wednesday at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center.

Harry Press, Nimbus project manager, said that the satellite's elliptical orbit — instead of a planned circular orbit — "has not damaged the satellite's mission substantially. We are quite pleased with our ability to recover from the unplanned orbit and meet most of the mission objectives."

Dr. William Nordberg, chief scientist for the Nimbus program, said pictures of the great Soviet rivers have been especially notable. All the big Siberian rivers are beautiful landmarks that show up clearly, he said.

Honeymoon's Origin

The word "honeymoon" originated from an ancient custom among northern nations of Europe. It was the custom of newly married couples to drink wine made from honey for 30 days, or a moon, after their marriage.

D.C. WASH

By THEO WILSON

ATLANTIC CITY —(N. Y. News) — If you are one of those people who get mouthy in bars and other public places, you've probably been worrying about how to tell a Republican from a Democrat during this election year, when people get violent.

Not only are you in constant danger of getting a clout on the nose from some stranger who is not amused at Goldwater jokes; your own boss might drum you out of the office for telling Johnson yarns, with instructions never to return except to clean out your locker.

Relax. Your problems are over. At no cost to you except the price of this newspaper, we have a little do-it-yourself kit right here in this column that should clarify everything. You casually toss out the questions we will list below, keenly gauge the reactions to them, and it all becomes elementary, Watson.

Now, to really understand the differences between the GOPs and the Dems, you should attend at least two conventions — preferably one of each kind. (As they say at cocktail parties, you can't fly on one wing.)

But everybody can't be as lucky as we were, traveling to San Francisco and Atlantic City in the same year for eyeball confrontations with representatives of the major parties of this great nation of ours.

So here goes with your "capitol stuff do-it-yourself kit for distinguishing a Republica from a Democrat" or "How to avoid personal injury between now and November:"

1. Ask the person you are conversing with: "What do you think of the news midia?" (The magic words in this question are "news media.")

A true Democrat will leap into the air, clap his hands together in delight, and cry: "I love them! I love them madly, do you hear?" A Republican will shudder all over and sneer: "We can do without all those sensation-seeking columnists and the liberal press. Why don't they go back where they came from?"

(Note: Do not let it bother you when you realize that the Republicans, who say they loathe us, set up the press in elegant accommodations in elegant San Francisco, while the Democrats, who adore us, arranged housing for the press in poor old Atlantic City that looked like something out of tobacco row. This is a political complexity too deep for the average newspaper person to understand.)

2. If the person you are talking to is a woman, ask: "Did you ever get your heels fixed after the convention?"

If she is a Republican she will look at you funny-like and say: "What are you, some kind of a nut?" But if she's a Democrat, you'll get a 15-minute discourse on how she nearly broke her neck on the boardwalk, catching her high heels in the spaces between the wooden planks, and how she got splinters when her feet came out of her shoes after her heels got stuck.

(Note: One nice thing about the Democrats is that they have a lady like Mrs. Richard Hughes, wife of the New Jersey governor. She made a list of grievances, and said that next time the host committee will let the women know in advance that rubber guards are available. At least she cared enough to ask!).

3. This question can be asked of either sex. It goes: "What do you think about those parties they threw during the conventions?"

A Republican will reveal himself by snorting: "You can't go around saving the country and throwing parties, too. It's tough enough trying to clean up this mess and winning back our states' rights without having to laugh it up at some gay soiree." But a Democrat will say: "Gee, isn't that Perle Mesta something? I hear she had a bash every night and people stood outside her house for hours, by the hundreds, to see the big shots in person. And the President deserved a party. On a birthday, he's entitled."

4. If you're introduced to somebody who tells you he was a delegate to the convention, and you can't figure out which convention, just ask: "What did you think about the pickets?"

Now the delegate who went to the GOP meet in California will tell you what a shame it was to have those civil rights demonstrators blocking traffic into the Cow Palace, and how those people have a right to demonstrate but why'd they have to lie down in the aisles? The delegate who went to Atlantic City will start luaghing and say: "Oh, those pickets for Yetta Bronstein on the boardwalk broke me up everytime I walked into convention hall. Never saw anything so funny in my life."

Yetta Bronstein's pickets paraded in front of convention hall, touting her as president on the best party ticket, with the slogan: "With Yetta everything will be better." Apparently there is no Yetta Bronstein, except as she lives in the imagination of a press agent, but people talked about her. For one thing, she distributed an open letter to President Johnston (that's how she spelled it) offering to quit the best party if he picked her for vice president and offering to take him around Atlantic City with her, and she could show him how to buy wholesale.

(Yetts's alleged qualifications included 10 years of den motherhood in the bronx. Her platform included national bingo and sex education. She said she would appoint to her cabinet people who were failures in life "and had learned to live with it.")

5. When the person you're talking to has a southern accent, don't take it for granted you've got a Democrat there. Not these days. You might be talking to a Southern Democrat for Goldwater. In self-defense,ask first: "What do you think about Bull Connor?"

If your deep south friend has Republican leanings, he'll drawl: "Bull's certainly a man of strong convictions, isn't he? We need people who stand up for their principles." A Johnson Democrat will say: "Bull and his big mouth! Everything would have been grand at the convention if it hadn't been for people like him, stirrin' up a fat ole mess."

Caution: Readers using this do-it-yourself question kit must not hold capitol stuff responsible if they get a smack in the kisser before election day, because, there are some extremists around who get mad no matter what you ask them!

CRIME DOWN

DENVER (UPI)—Except for forcible rape, the FBI "crime index" report said all categories of major crimes declined in Denver during the first half of 1964. This was in contrast with an increase in all categories throughout the country. The FBI said forcible rape had increased 3 per cent in Denver for the first half of this year. This compared with a 20 per cent increase in rape throughout the country.

Humphrey Was Penniless at Start of Career

By CHARLES MCBRIDE

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — In the fall of 1939, a tall, almost penniless Midwesterner arrived here to study for a master's degree in government at Louisiana State University.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was nearing the end of his second term and the new graduate student was keenly interested in the New Deal.

Hubert Horatio Humphrey — U.S. senator from Minnesota who is now the Democratic candidate for vice president — came to LSU to study under Dr. R. J. Harris, one of the nation's top professors of political science.

Humphrey, at LSU during the 1939-40 school year and again in the summer of 1942, was described by fellow students as "broke but brilliant."

Dr. Harris, who now teaches at the University of Virginia, recently recalled that he and another professor went to the director of student aid to try to help Humphrey get a loan.

"The director asked if Humphrey were a Louisiana boy. We told him he was from Minnesota," said Dr. Harris. He didn't get the loan."

Humphrey stayed at LSU, although he had to send his wife, Muriel, back to Minnesota. Harris says he was "one of the finest graduate students I ever had."

He also earned a reputation as one of the fiercest debaters on the LSU debate squad.

Ed Glusman, now a Baton Rouge attorney, was Humphrey's debate partner. Glusman recalls Humphrey was a devoted New Dealer who relished a good argument, especially one centering on foreign policy.

"His political views were more liberal then than now," Glusman said.

Another debate team member, Alvin Rubin, who is also a Baton Rouge attorney now, recalled a debate pitting Humphrey and Glusman against a team from England's Cambridge University.

The English team relied strongly on wit and personal charm, rather than material, but Humphrey, said Rubin, "had good intellect — the ability to understand a problem and to quickly deal with it."

Glusman and Humphrey, the staunch New Deal supporter, won the debate. They had the negative side of the question, "Resolved the United States needs Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term."

At the time Humphrey planned to make his career in education. But Dr. Harris and another government professor, Dr. Norton Long, say they recognized other potential.

"Norton and I threatened to fail him on his master's examination to keep him out of teaching," Dr. Harris recalled. "We wanted to make him a United States senator."

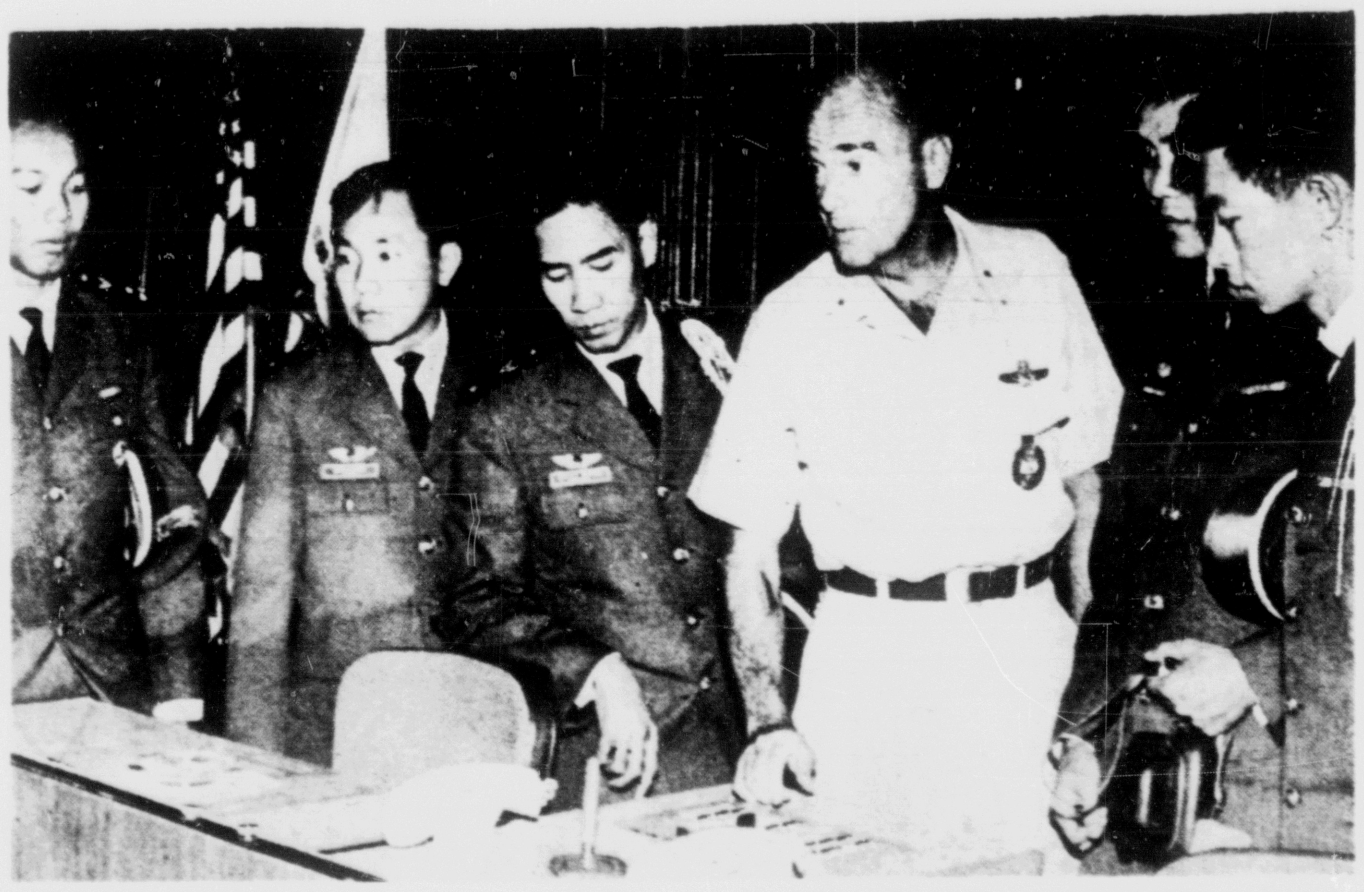
Farmers in Kashmir tend floating gardens anchored on lakes and harvest from boats. They pick tomatoes and pumpkins that grow on a solid but buoyant mass of topsoil, grass and weeds.



VIET-NAM VISITORS — Five members of the Viet-Nam Air Force visited the North American Air Defense Command Combat Operations Center Tuesday to watch the Canadian-United States Aerospace defense system work. At the completion of the regular briefing depicting what the NORAD system would do in the event of an aerospace attack on North America, the group met informally with U.S. Air Force Brig. Gen. Lewis W. Stocking, director of the combat operations center. The COC briefing was a part of a three-day series of meetings with U.S. Air Force Air Defense Command staff officers here. Left to right: Capt. Chau Huu Loc, chief of the Vietnamese Air Force personnel and administration section; Lt. Daug Thanh Danh, fighter pilot; Lt. Che Van Nghia, fighter pilot; NORAD's General Stocking; Lt. Nguyen Tan Si, Vietnamese 516th Fighter Squadron chief of operations; and Lt. Nguyen Van Chin, an observer with the 112th Liaison Squadron.

Suggestion Nets Originator $100 Incentive Award

A suggestion expected to save the Air Force an estimated $140,000 during the first year of its use, brought a $100 incentive award to an Air Force Academy faculty member.

Capt. John Portasik, assigned to the Department of Mathematics in June, received the award for a suggestion he originated while stationed at Wright-Patterson AFB as an electrical engineer.

Jet fighters, such as the F-105 Thunderchief, are equipped on the production line with central air data computers. These devices receive information through the aircraft's pitot tube and relay data to the proper instruments.

As the aircraft progresses down the line, various systems are checked by simulating actual conditions with the computer.

It is not unusual for a $35,000 computer with an anticipated life of 750 to 1,000 hours of operation to leave the production line with 600 hours already logged!

Capt. Portasik suggested that an air data simulator be built. The simulator, using a series of potentiometers, will reproduce any data needed to test the aircraft systems.

Computers now will remain as "fresh" as the aircraft in which they are installed.

Top Carson Brass Learn Vehicles From Ground Up

"Learning by doing" is the best way to become familiar with all phases of the military, especially its equipment and Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, Ft. Carson commander, showed this week that he practices what he preaches.

With members of his staff, General Maroun went to the 7th Engineer Motor Pool this week to learn about the Jeep and the armored personnel carrier, from the ground up.

Top-ranking officers at this post, including Gen. Maroun, got under a Jeep to check the oil level of transmission and differential, then went through an armored personnel carrier to check maintenance.

The general received two hours of instruction and four hours of instruction were given to the chief-of-staff and assistant chiefs-of-staff for post affairs, intelligence and logistics and Leadership School at Carson.

To engineers, the inspection proved the commanding general's practical down-to-earth policy of knowing the equipment and his genuine emphasis on material readiness.

Union Members Pose Problem in Voting Picture

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has organized labor's endorsement in his bid for a first elective term. But a question remains about how faithfully 12 million rank and file members will follow the union leaders.

The General Board of the AFL-CIO voted unanimously Tuesday to endorse Johnson for president and then trooped to the White House to give the chief executive the welcome news.

Johnson thanked the leaders for the endorsement, saying he will "carry it proudly during the campaign" and will "remember it fondly in January as we begin four more exciting years of progress."

The President said current prosperity is the result of the tested policies and not an accident or just good luck.

"It is the result of hard work and cooperation of business and labor," he said. "It is the result of the unmatched vitality of our free enterprise system — the envy of the world.

"I predict, if we continue on our course, the growth of the next four years will be the greatest in all our history. And every person in this country will benefit from expanding prosperity."

Unmentioned in these statements was the issue of the white backlash among union members who may be aroused by the prospect that Negro progress under the equal employment provisions of the Civil Rights Act sponsored by Johnson might threaten their jobs.

AFL-CIO President George Meany told newsmen union members would vote on the basis of their own convictions and not all would support the endorsement, but he discounted any backlash effect.

GOP nominee Barry Goldwater, who voted against the bill, called the employment section unconstitutional.

On the other hand there was some concrete evidence of the frontlash of Republicans deserting Goldwater which Johnson described to last week's Democratic convention in Atlantic City, N.J.

The AFL-CIO normally endorses the Democratic ticket but some individual Executive Council members usually line up with the Republicans. Three of the latter already have announced they won't do so this year.

Johnson was reported pleased about the nomination of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Senate in New York. Kennedy won a Democratic convention fight to oppose GOP Sen. Kenneth B. Keating in the November election.

Although he barred Kennedy, along with other Cabinet members, from consideration for the party's vice-presidential nomination, indications are that Johnson will campaign extensively for the senatorial nominee as well as for himself in New York.

New Minimum Wage Going Into Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal minimum wage of $1.15 per hour goes into effect today, covering some 3.6 million workers who were brought under federal labor standards in 1961.

But the Labor Department estimates the law will bring pay raises to only about half a million of these. The others are already making at least $1.15.

The Labor Department figures the pay raises for about 565,000 workers making less than that will increase their annual income by a total of about $115 million — an average of about $200.

The hourly increase from $1 primarily affects workers in retail, service and construction trades.

Next year, they will step up to the $1.25 minimum that already covers some 25 million American workers.

The law taking effect today, a 1961 amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act, also requires time and one-half pay for overtime beyond 42 hours a week, instead of 44 hours. The hourly maximum for straight time pay will go down next year to the 40-hour standard that already applies to most workers covered by the federal law.

The 3.6 million workers brought under the law in 1961 include about 2.2 million retail and service trade workers, a million in construction, 100,000 seamen, 93,000 transit workers, 86,000 gasoline service station employes, 33,000 in the fish processing industry, approximately 30,000 telephone workers and another 100,000 in other occupations.

The amendment first gave them a $1 minimum wage in 1961. In 1962, the 44-hour work week went into effect. Next Sept. 3, the final step goes into effect, bringing all workers covered under the law to the $1.25 minimum wage and 40-hour standard work week.

Workers previously covered were not affected by the 1961 amendment.

The Fair Labor Standards Act, originally passed in 1938, covers workers engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce.

AMA President Suffers Stroke In Jackson, Wyo.

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — A team of doctors worked through the night caring for Dr. Norman A. Welch, 62, president of the American Medical Association, afer he suffered a stroke Wednesday at a meeting of the Wyoming State Medical Society.

The Boston physician was described as seriously ill at St. John's Hospital, a new hospital in this small town in western Wyoming.

Dr. Welch, installed last June as AMA president, became ill in his room at Jackson Lake Lodge, 32 miles north of here, shortly before he was to address the Wyoming society banquet.

A spokesman for the doctors attending Dr. Welch said the early diagnosis showed he suffered a mild stroke apparently caused by an accelerated and uneven heart beat.

An electronic device, helpful in controlling the heart condition known as tachycardia, was flown by private plane during the night from Casper, Wyo., about 240 miles east of here.

The spokesman said Dr. Welch and his wife, Katherine, arrived at Jackson Lake Lodge Wednesday afternoon only a few hours before his scheduled speech. The lodge is at an elevation of 6,742 feet above sea level.

Before becoming AMA president, Dr. Welch served from 1959-63 as chairman of the House of Delegates, the association's policy making body. He has been president of the Massachusetts Medical Service (Blue Shield) since 1950 and is consultant physician for five Massachusetts hospitals.

Poland to Have More Residents in Cities

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — For the first time in history Poland soon will have more city citizens than rural residents.

The government news agency PAP says only one fourth of the Polish people lived in cities and towns in 1921, but by 1960 the city population had risen to 48.1 per cent. At present, the agency said, rural residents outnumber their city cousins only by a few hundred thousand and the turning point is expected late next year.

Humphrey Plans Criss-Cross Vote Drive in Nation

By RICHARD P. POWERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen Hubert H. Humphrey is lining up a campaign trail expected to criss-cross the country and hit hard on rural programs, the problems of cities, and foreign policy.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate said today that in the early stages he expects to do more traveling and talking than President Johnson "but we will balance it off."

"I will dovetail my schedule with his," the Minnesota senator said in an interview.

During the rest of September, he said, he plans to swing from the Rocky Mountain states to New England, with special emphasis in the Midwest and the South.

His September travel plans still being worked out, include stops in Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Georgia, North Carolina, Florida, North and South Kakota, New Mexico, Colorado "and many of the New England states."

Humphrey, the assistant Democratic leader in the Senate, flies to Minnesota for a homecoming welcome Saturday in St. Paul and Minneapolis and another Sunday at Waverley, near the Twin Cities, where the Humphreys have a home.

He will get into active campaigning Monday with a speech at a Labor Day picnic and parade at Barberton, near Akron, Ohio, and also stop off at Youngstown.

Humphrey said that early in the campaign he will have to travel more than the President, but that Johnson "will make more important speeches in the metropolitan centers and in rural areas."

Humphrey said he intends to cover a "large number of issues, from farm policies to the importance of automation."

There will be a reasonable amount of emphasis put on foreign policy, Humphrey said, "including in particular the role of the United States in world affairs, our efforts in the United Nations and how to keep the peace."

Asked if he had made any recommendations to Democratic Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota on who should replace him in the Senate if the Johnson-Humphrey team wins in November, Humphrey said, "I have not given any thought to recommending my successor in the Senate."

"The first thing to do," he said, "is to win the election."

Bandit Holds Hostages; Nets Five Dollars

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Two housewives and their three children were held as hostages Tuesday in a $75,000 bank robbery plot that netted a lone gunman $5.

FBI agents and police from Dearborn Heights, a Detroit suburb, were still seeking the bandit today. He fled after a brief gun battle with Sgt. Virgil Degreace of Dearborn Heights police.

Police said the bandit held Monica Boczar, 37, and her 2-year-old twins, Janette and Jeffrey, as hostages for a harrowing 45 minutes while her husband, Bernard, 40, was dispatched to get $75,000 from the nearby Michigan Bank branch where he is manager.

Boczar left for the bank just as Degreace arrived, helped Mrs. Boczar and her children to safety.

The bandit fled when Degreace became temporarily blinded by bits of flying glass from a storm door shattered by a bullet.

The bandit ran five blocks to another Dearborn Heights home where Lula Forsythe, 28, was pulling her car into her driveway after a shopping trip.

As two of her three children left the car to open a garage door, the holdup man leaped into the auto, and ordered Mrs. Forsythe to drive away.

Mrs. Forsythe said she drove about half a mile. The bandit ordered her and daughter, Cynthia, 2, out of the car, took her wallet and $5, and drove off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy, off at last on an elective political career of his own, turns in his resignation as attorney general today.

Kennedy, who already has begun his campaign for the Senate in New York, meets with President Johnson to make official his departure from the Cabinet post his assassinated brother gave him in 1961.

Kennedy 38, thus becomes the fourth member of the original New Frontier to step out, and the first to leave since Johnson succeeeded John F. Kennedy.

Preceding him were Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, now a Supreme Court justice; Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff, now a senator from Connecticut, and Postmaster General J. Edward Day, who quit to return to private life

Six members of the original Kennedy Cabinet remain in their posts.

As long as a year ago, before President Kennedy was slain Robert Kennedy said he would not stay on at the Justice Department for a second term.

After his brother's death, Kennedy said he would remain on the job through this year's elections. But after Johnson foreclosed the vice presidency to him, he decided on the Senate race in New York, although he votes in Massachusetts and lives in Virginia.

He was formally nominated on Tuesday, and Wednesday he won endorsement from the AFL-CIO state convention in New York.

Johnson has given no indication who will become the 6th attorney general. It is widely believed he will withhold his selection until after the Nov. 3 election. The man most widely mentioned to take over the Justice Department is Leon Jaworski, prominent Texas lawyer and friend of Johnson.

The acting attorney general will be Nicholas Katzenbach, 42, the deputy attorney general, whom Kennedy has already strongly recommended to Johnson for the permanent job.

Medicare Plan Is Adopted as Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a rundown of the benefits of the health care program adopted by the Senate Wednesday as an amendment to a pending Social Security bill and the added costs of the measure.

BENEFITS

Hospitalization: Persons 65 and over would come under a 90-day plan with a deductible of $10 a day for 9 days and a minimum of $20, and a 180-day plan with a somewhat larger deduction on a formula basis. If an individual had been out of the hospital or nursing home for 90 days, a new benefit period would start.

Nursing Home: The measure provides up to 60 days of care after transfer from a hospital to a nursing home affiliated with a hospital or approved by the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Outpatient Diagnostic Services: This would cover X-rays and other tests usually performed by a hospital, subject to a $20 deductible for each 30-day period.

Home Health Visits: Beneficiary would be entitled to 240 visits a year including skilled nursing and other therapeutic services.

COST

Annual Employe and Employer Payments: A rate of 4.2 per cent of up to $5,600 of earnings, or a maximum of $235.20. This is an increase of $61.20 from the present maximum of $174, based on the rate of 3.625 per cent on maximum of $4,800 of earnings. Employer matches the worker's contribution.

Self-employed Persons: A rate of 6.3 per cent on a maximum of $5,600 of earnings, or a possible $352.80. This is an increase of $93.60 from maximum under present law, which is $259.20 (5.4 per cent of up to $4,800).

Gifted Students Find Egg-Head College Ideal

By Edmund R. D'Moch

MOUNT CARROLL, Ill. (AP) — Some 400 students will begin school this month at Shimer College and about 20 per cent of them will be under 18 years of age. Many of them will not have graduated high school.

This 111-year-old institution is unusual in many respects but, mainly, because it is for gifted students who choose to work in a highly intellectual climate.

There are no problems such as overcrowded facilities, too many students or a shortage of teachers.

Classes this fall will average about 15 students.

The faculty has no professors, assistant professor, associate professors or intructors. All are teachers and their average salary is just under $7,000 annually. There are no specialized departments and even administrative personnel is expected to teach.

If the entering students can and want to, they may graduate in nine months with a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. It has been done a few times since this experimental college started its unusual program in 1951.

Most classes meet twice a week, but some freshmen classes may meet three times a week. Class periods are 80 minutes; dress is optional; classes may be held in the cafeteria, gymnasium, in conventional classrooms or on a grass-covered knoll, under a shade tree on the campus — on the decision of the majority — teacher and students, of a class.

The 33 faculty members plan the curriculum of 24 courses students are required to take to get a degree.

Besides the few who obtained degrees in nine months, a year and two years, most students get their degrees in three and some in four years.

There are the usual extra-curricular college activities and an intramural athletic program. The school also has its own golf course.

Shimer began as a women's college in 1853 in this town about 125 miles west of Chicago. Mount Carroll now has about 2,000 population.

It was founded by Misses Frances Ann Wood and Cinderella Gregory as the Mount Carroll Seminary for Women. Most of the carpentry and masonry work was done by a young man, Henry Shimer, who later married Miss Wood.

Shimer than studied at Chicago Medical College and obtained a master's degree from the University of Chicago before returning to Mount Carroll as a physician. His wife, still head of the school, then gave it his name.

In 1949, the college was $80,000 in debt and its student body totaled 65 young ladies. The next year it adopted the University of Chicago general education plan and became coeducational. It was selected in 1950 along with 11 other colleges and universities by the Ford Foundation to conduct an experiment in "early entrance" education. Among the other institutions were the University of Chicago, Reed College, Harvard and Columbia.

In 1954, Dr. F. Joseph Mullin, a physiologist, formerly on the Shimer's chief administrative officer, or president. A year later, the Ford Foundation grant expired, but the college continued the experiment on its own.

Dr. Mullin says of the college's aim: "We want to establish a community of scholars in which intellectual inquiry is the highest value."

National Product Proportion Stable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proportions of Gross National Product spent on public welfare has remained stable over the past 15 years, even though the amount of money spent has grown tremendously, the Welfare Administration said. The proportion, a study issued Wednesday said, has stayed at nine-tenths of one per cent. In 1963, public assistance expenditures exceeded $4 billion.

The study showed that in June 1963, average monthly payments under the aid program for families with dependent children ranged from $8.91 per recipient in Mississippi to $47.40.

During the same month, old age assistance payments ranged from $35.20 in Mississippi to $113.72 in the District of Columbia.

Tankers Termed Tops at Carson In Field Test

The 1st Tank Battalion, 77th Armor, at Ft. Carson passed a recent Army training test, turning in what was called a "superior performance" by Col. Robert B. Spilman, 1st Brigade commander and umpire. The tankers were first to take tests to be given other units during the next four months.

The test started with an inspection by the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized Logistics Section on the serviceability of equipment and supply.

Moving out to an assembly area to meet high-performance aircraft strikes started the test, which included gas and artillery attacks, leaflet drops, infiltration and enemy probing action during the first day and night.

Early the second day tankers moved out in attack, successfully seized their first objective and pushed on to a mesa to seize a further objective.

Minefields, air attacks, blownout bridges and road craters were problems during the day, with more gas and enemy probing attacks at night.

The third day involved withdrawal actions, setting up series of delays, withdrawing again and finally setting up a counterattack phase, when the problem ended.

Col. W. H. Stites commands the 1st Tank Battalion, 77th Armor.

Ordnance Unit At Ft. Carson Gets New Officer

One of the Army's oldest explosive disposal detachments — 41st Ordnance, is commanded by one of Ft. Carson's newest arrivals — Lt. Doyling G. Patterson.

Since May 7, 1944, 41st Ordnance has been stationed at Manila; Yokohama, Japan; Raritan Arsenal, N. J.; Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Rocky Mountain Arsenal, Colo.; and Elsworth AFB, S. D. It came to Ft. Carson in Sept. 1962.

Since his commissioning Aug. 12, 1963, Patterson had been stationed at Aberdeen, Md., for nine weeks orientation and seven weeks training at Ordnance Center and School; and on temporary duty at Indianhead, Md., home of the Explosive Ordnance Disposal School, for 19 weeks. He came to Ft. Carson Aug. 19.

The 41st has the mission of rendering safe all dangerous conventional, chemical and nuclear explosive ordnance, in the states of Colorado, Wyoming, and South Dakota, west of the Missouri River.

The unit has received a Meritorious Unit Citation for outstanding performance of bomb disposal activities while stationed in Japan. In recent years, it has captured the technical proficiency award for high score on the Army training test in 1960 and 1962.

The eight men in 41st Ordnance Detachment and Lt. Patterson are volunteers and have qualified for the field by attending the Indianhead school. Each man is required to return for a refresher course every 20 months.

On call 24 hours a day, every day, to dispose of dangerous explosives, 41st assists civil authorities upon request for disposal of nonmilitary commercial explosives or dangerous articles.

Old Landmarks Are Destroyed In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the boulevard —

The changing face of Hollywood has wrought the destruction of many landmarks. The passing of none of them will evoke as many fond memories as that of the Masquers Club.

For 37 years, the club has stood on Sycamore Ave., a few steps from the boulevard. It has been a haven for the great and near-great of show business, one of the few places of Hollywood's dislocated society where the theatrical breed could mingle.

Originally the house belonged to Antonio Moreno, who is still a member. The place underwent mutations over the years, but each enlargement placed new strains on the old structure. This year the Masquers decided it was time to move.

There was an attractive offer to sell the property for a highrise apartment. A new location in the Hollywood area has been scouted by the Masquers, and now they are awaiting the end of negotiations that will spell the doom of the clubhouse.

I paid a call to the old place to rustle a few memories.

The heart of the Masquers is the downstairs bar, and there I found Alan Mowbray, just returned from a long run on Broadway and on the road in "Enter Laughing."

Mowbray has been a Masquer since 1932, and his recollections of the place are rich. Throughout its history the club has given dinners in honor of show business notables, though sometimes the kidding of the speeches has made the guest question the honor.

"I'll never forget the dinner we gave for Douglas Fairbanks Sr.," Mowbray reminisced. "He was seated between Will Rogers and Willie Collier Sr., and they roasted him to a turn. Doug was so mad that all he did for his speech was get up, say 'thank you,' and sit down."

Then there was the night the famed stuttering comic Joe Frisco was honored with a dinner two weeks before his death. Everyone in the room knew his passing was imminent, but no one referred to it. When bearded Wallace Ford was introduced from the audience, Frisco cracked from his wheelchair, "I'm glad there's nobody with a beard up here; I'd think it was my last supper."

The current president, Frank Faylen (Dobie Gillis' apoplectic father), dropped by to report the real estate negotiations were going well. The new facilities will include a steam room and gym, he said, and that should help attract young members, who are needed to perpetuate the Masquers club.

Veteran Sergeant Named Battalion Sergeant Major

The 1st Battalion, 20th Artillery's new sergeant major has seen service in five different divisions — three of them at Ft. Carson — during the past 10 years.

Dahrl L. Calbaugh, a first sergeant since 1952, has been selected to fill the vacancy created when S. Maj. LaDrue Dorton moved into the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) Artillery sergeant major position.

He came to Ft. Carson 10 years ago for duty with the 8th Division's 45th Artillery. He went to Germany with this unit, then returned to Ft. Carson in 1949 for duty with the 9th Division's 4th Artillery.

In 1960 he was sent to Ft. Riley for two years with the 1st Division Artillery's Headquarters Battery. Next followed a tour with the 7th Division's 15th Artillery in Korea. He joined the 5th Division last August when transferred for his third tour at Ft. Carson and has been first sergeant of the 20th Artillery since that time.

He was among the first Sergeants First Class at Ft. Carson to be granted a waiver for promotion to Master Sergeant in 1959. He then had 12 years of service.

Since 1951, he has been with artillery units, starting with the 194 Field Artillery in Germany. many.

The sergeant major and his wife Delores, live at 409 Burlington Ave. Three children, Ellen, 18; William, 17; and Myra, 15; all attend Harrison High School.

Stranger Turns Out To Be Armed Robber

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was just like he changed from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde," said bakery truck driver Clarence Olson.

Olson, 58, was unloading his truck in a South Side alley when a man asked if he could help. The stranger helped unload 30 cases of crackers.

Then he stuck a revolver in Olson's side, made him give up $150 in receipts, and fled.

The best known of all silver dollars sailed across the Rappahannock River — if we believe the stories about young George Washington.

Four Will Rogers League Games Slated for Friday

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

All five Will Rogers League teams kick-off the 1964 campaign this weekend with four non-league encounters on tap Friday night.

The weekend slate calls for only one area home game when the Big Blue of the Air Academy High plays host to visiting Boulder Fairview Friday night at the Academy High Staduim. That contest is set for 7:30 p.m.

Other games Friday night find the other two Will Rogers League squads on the road, including Harrison at Crowley County (Ordway), and Widefield at Iver Ranum (Westminister). Canon City plays host to Salida to round out Friday's slate.

Saturday's single outing finds Cheyenne Mountain, the 1963 State Class AA champion, hosting its arch-rivals St. Mary's in an afternoon tilt at the Cheyenne Mountain Stadium.. Game time is set for 1:30 p.m.

The Cheyenne-St. Mary's rivalry hit a new peak last year when the Pirates, members of the Denver Parochial League, pulled a big upset by deadlocking the Indians, 20-20. The Tribe went on to capture their first State Class AA championship by defeating Lamar in the finals.

The entire league will be under new management as each of the five teams in the newly formed Triple-A Will Rogers League will be directed by new head coaches.

Guy Barickman, Cheyenne's new grid boss, is the lone coach with prior service at their respective schools. Last year Barickman, a former University of Missouri freshman coach for four years, served as Cheyenne line coach under Eldon Helm. Barickman took over the head coaching job at Cheyenne from Helm, who resigned to take that school's principle job.

Widefield's football program will be under the guidance of veteran of 12 years of coaching, Norm Theiss. At Academy High, Terry Mackey who coached at Harrison and last year was voted the Pikes Peak League Coach of the Year, is the new head coach.

Bob Irving heads the Harrison grid program and Don Stimack is head football coach at Canon City to round out the new coaches in the Will Rogers League.

Pre-season previewing point to Cheyenne Mountain as the slight favorites to capture the Will Rogers League title. However, the Indians will find the going tough this season and there won't be the 55 points per game average the Cheyenne team racked up last season sewing up the PPL crown.

The Kadets of Academy High should be the top challenger to the throne with Widefield as a possible darkhourse, even though Theiss indicated a lean season on the win-side.

With two big backs, fullback Tony Blanchard (210 pounds) and halfback Roger Karolick, 180 pounds, the Big Blue should be a threat in the loop pennant chase. In addition the Kadets have a capable quarterback in John Gannon, the Academy High's dandy left-handed baseball chucker.

Cheyenne's success will hinge, once again, on the performance of its ramrod-fullback Gerg Crabmlit, who last year scored 19 touchdowns and averaged over 100 yards per game in seven games. Cramblit came into pre-season practice weighing 205 pounds but Barickma though Cramblit would get down to 200 pounds for the season's starter Saturday against St. Mary's.

The winner of the Will Rogers League will meet the victor of the Southern League for a berth in the State Class AAA championships. The winner of that playoff game meets the South Central League champion in the state quarter-finals.

Crowder Calls Buffs Grid Session 'Good'

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Sharp offensive play marked a 90-minute filmed scrimmage by Colorado's football team Wednesday.

Coach Eddie Crowder said he was pleased by the "good execution and coordination" after three days' practice.

Senior slot back Bill Symons at Nucla, who disappointed some backers in his junior year, stole the spotlight with an 80-yard punt return for a touchdown and by catching two key passes in a 60-yard scoring march by the No. 1 offensive unit.

Charley Fox Scheduled To Replace Alvin Dark

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin Dark's relationship with the San Francisco Giants will end soon after seven years as a player and four as manager.

There is no way the present Giant skipper can be in San Francisco next year.

This, of course, no longer come under the heading of news. At least not since the Associated Press' disclosure that Dark would be fired as manager during or at the end of the 1964 season.

What is news, however, is the identity of Dark's successor, which is being guarded with as much secrecy as that which surrounds the Central Intelligence Agency.

The person slated to succeed Dark as manager of tne Giants in 1965 is Charley Fox, an unheralded but loyal and industrious organizational man.

Fox currently is managing the Tacoma club in the Pacific Coast league the Giants' top farm team. A native of New York City, he stands 6 feet and weighs 180 pounds. He will reach his 43rd birthday Oct. 7, opening day of the World Series.

Highly regarded for ability to get along with people and handling of young players, Fox has Dark as manager of the Giants Arizona instructional school the past few years and helped develop sucn young Giants as Jim Ray Hart, Tom Haller, Ron Herbel, Gaylord Perry, Jim Duffalo and the Alou brothers.

In many ways, Fox's career with the Giants parallels that of Walter Alston with the Los Angeles Dodgers. His entire baseball career, which began in 1940, has been spent in the Giant organization, as a player, scout and manager.

As a catcher, Fox spent virtually his entire career in the minor leagues. He did have a cup of coffee with the parent club. Brought up during the last week of the 1942 season, ne appeared in three games, collecting three hits in seven times at bat for a .429 batting average.

Fox entered the service in 1943, returned to the Giants in 1946 but did not get any farther than spring training. His nickname is Irish.

For the record, the Giants' front office is not admitting that Dark, who led the club to a pennant in 1962, will be through at the end of this month.

Dark understandably does not want to talk about it. At least not until the team's fate in tne pennant race is decided.

The Giants' chances become slimmer each day but he keeps saying they still have a shot at the flag. But even if he produces the miracle of winning the pennant, he knows he will not be asked to return.

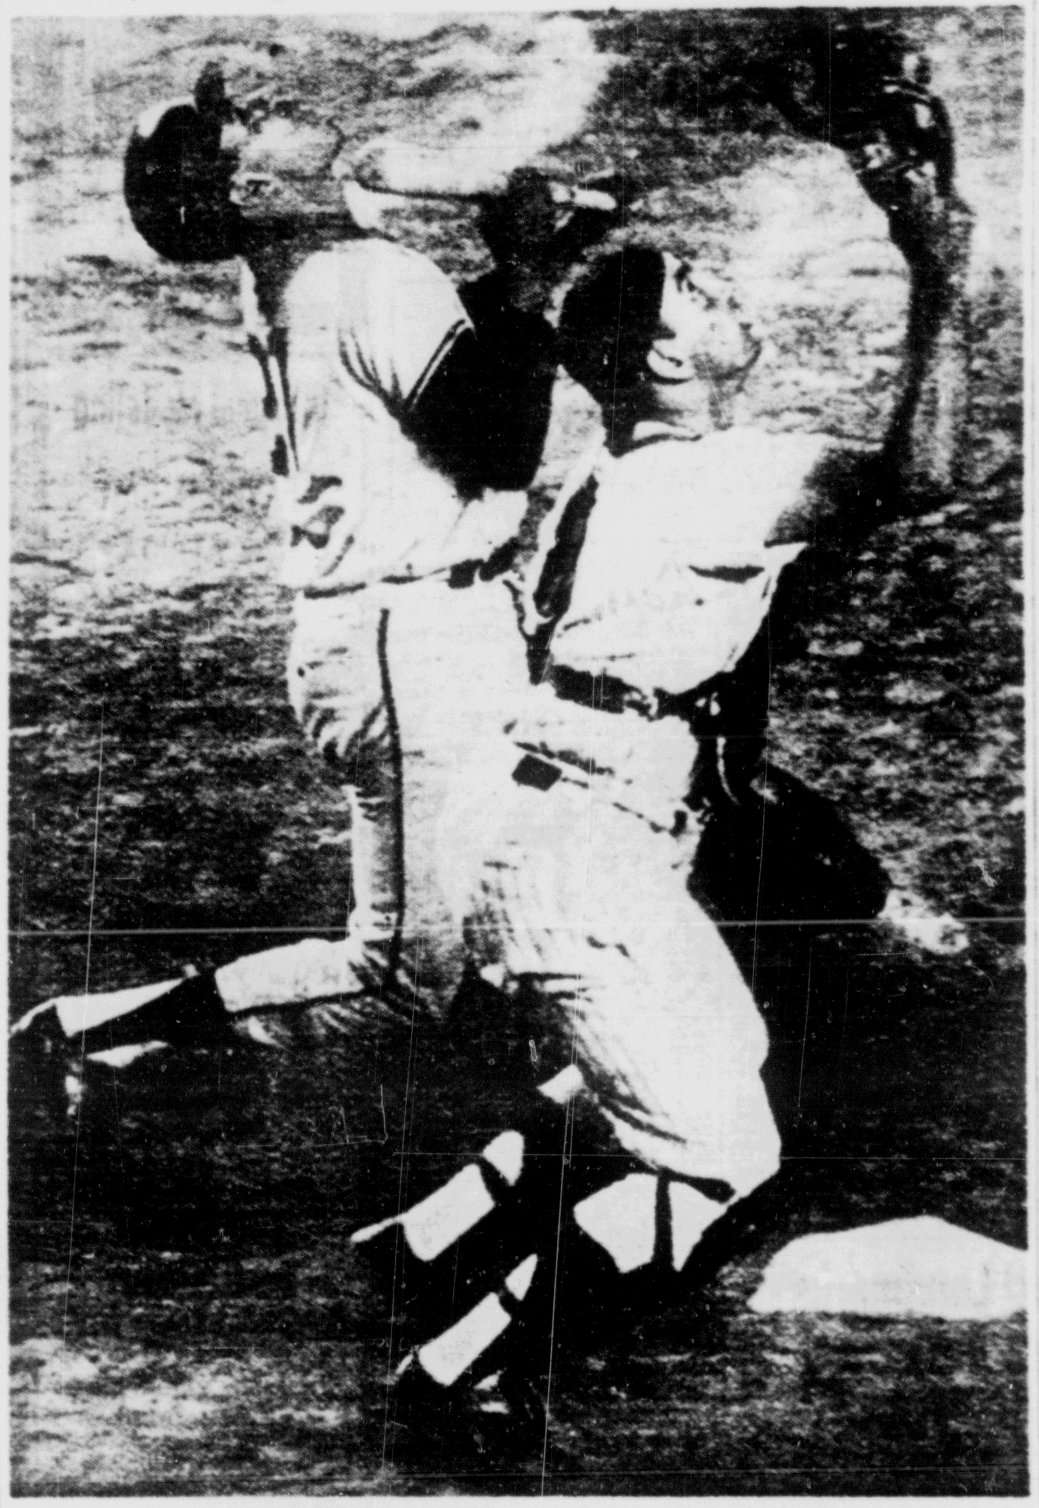
The disputed interview in which Dark was supposed to have been critical of Negro and Latin American players on his club has not influenced owner Horace Stonenam's decision. It is simply Stoneham's belief that Dark has been too aloof. He resents Dark's refusal to consult him on team matters.

There has been talk of Dark going elsewhere next year. Rumors have had him managing first the Houston Colts, then the New York Mets in 1965. The latest have him going to St. Louis.

"I don't know where I'll be in 1965," Dark said, leaning back on his chair in the small confines of tne manager's room in the visiting clubhouse.

"I have no plans for next year," he said. I prefer to remain here. I've enjoyed managing here.

"But if I do not stay with the Giants, I want to continue to manage. I am a big league manager."



HIGH BALL GOES TO THEIR HEADS —A pop bunt brought on this heads up play at the plate. San Francisco Giants Juan Marichal and New York Mets catcher Chris Cannizzaro follow the ball hit by Marichal which was caught in foul territory by third baseman Bobby Klaus. The action came in the seventh inning Wednesday night at Shea Stadium, New York. The Giants won, 4-0.

Mel Queen Not Like Father, His Bat Paces Reds' Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Queen, a rookie lashed in a single that drove in the only run of the game in the Reds' 1-0 victory over Chicago in 12 innings Wednesday night. The triumph kept the second- place Reds 5½ games benind Philadelphia in the National League pennant race.

The 21-year-old right fielder is the son of Mel Queen, a pitcher who compiled a 27-40 lifetime record with the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 1940s and early 1950s.

Luckily for the elder Queen, he was a pitcher. He certainly couldn't have reached the majors on his hitting. In eight seasons, he somehow managed to get 17 hits in 164 times at bat for a .104 average. He also batted in four runs in his career.

A hitting streak for Queen, the pitcher, consisted of a couple of pop flies to the shortstop.

For Queen, the outfielder, the story has been different. Not much, but different enough to give the Reds at least one victory they otherwise might not have had.

All told, Queen went 2-for-6 Wednesday, bringing his average to .218 and his RBI total to 11. The youngster has compiled the record mostly as a pinch hitter. Onily recently has he been playing somewhat regularly.

The winning hit, incidentially, put Queen far ahead of his father's pace. It was the son's 17th hit in 78 at bats. It took his father 164 trips to the plate to get that number.

In other NL games, Philadelphia edged Houston 2-1, San Francisco blanked New York 4-0, St. Louis defeated Milwaukee 6-2 and Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 8-5 in 12 innings.

Queen's single in the 12th inning followed singles by pinch hitter Marty Keough and Chico Ruiz. It gave Jim O'Toole, who pitched a seven-hitter, his 14th victory in 20 decisions. Bob Buhl allowed the Reds five hits in the first eight innings.

Chris Snort hurled a four-hitter, posting his 15th triumph against seven losses for the Phillies, who won the game in the fourth inning. Wes Covington and Clay Dalrymple singled. were sacrificed to second and third and scored on Tony Taylor' single to center field.

The Colts scored in the sixth when Eddie Kasko walked, went to second on Mike White's single and came around on a single by Bob Aspromonte.

Juan Marichal made only his second start since July 29 and stopped the Mets on four hits. Marichal, now 16-6, had been bothered by a back ailment. Tom Haller slammed a homer in the fourth inning while Hal Lanier singled across two runs in the ninth.

The Cardinals won their eighth game in the last nine behind Bob Gibson's seven-hitter. Gibson, 13-10, was backed by Ken Boyer, and Curt Flood, who each knocked in two runs. Two errors by Denis Menke helped St. Louis to three runs in the fourth inning, two on Flood's single.

Derrell Griffith's bases-loaded, two-run double broke a 5-5 tie and started the Dodgers on the way to their 12-inning triumph. A third run scored in the inning on a force play. The Pirates rallied for three big runs in the eighth the last two scoring as second baseman Nate Oliver threw windly to home with the bases loaded.

Pappas Loses No-Hitter On Versalles' Single

By MIKE FATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Zorro has left his mark on Milt Pappas.

Pappas pitched no-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings and wound up with a one-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles maintained their slim, one-half game grip on the American League lead by edging Minnesota 2-0 Wednesday night.

The unkind cut was administered with two out in the eighth by Twins' shortstop Zoilo (Zorro) Versalles, who swung at a first-pitch fastball and ripped it between third and short to deprive Pappas of a no-hitter.

Pappas admitted after the game that he had given Versalles a fat fastball, losing a battle of wits.

"It was one of those funny situations," said the 25- year-old right-hander. "The first two batters in the eighth hit the first pitch. It was a 1,000-to-1 chance that Versalles would swing at the first pitch, too.

"I threw it right down the middle, and I was surprised when he swung at it."

Pappas had no other difficulties as he struck out 10 and allowed only one other base runner — Earl Battey walked on four straight pitches in the third inning — while bringing his record to 13-5 with his sixth shutout.

Still, he had to share the pitching spotlight with three others.

Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels posted his ninth shutout and his 17th victory with a four-hit, 4-0 victory over New York that dropped the third-place Yankees three games off the pace.

And Lee Stange made the most of a rare opportunity, tying a major league record by striking out four batters in an inning as Cleveland walloped Washington 9-0.

In the other AL game, Kansas City outslugged Boston 9-5.

The Orioles' supported Pappas with only four hits but two were homers, by Sam Bowens in the second and Luis Aparicio in the ninth. Both were off Dick Stigman.

Peters pitched his third shutout, drove in one run with a single and also collected a double. He knocked home the final run of a four-run fifth inning uprising that put it out of reach after Bill Skowron supplied the big hit with a two-run single.

The White Sox had actually scored enough for Peters in the second inning when an error and doubles by Pete Ward and Mike Hershberger produced two runs off Hank Aguirre.

Chance, the major league leader in shutouts, is now tied with Chicago's Juan Pizarro for the most victories in the AL after boosting his record to 17-6 by snapping the Yankees' four-game winning streak.

Chance got all the support he needed when Joe Adcock followed an error and Willie Smith's double in the fourth inning with his 18th homer and No. 301 of his career. That tagged the loss on Jim Bouton, who had held the Angels scoreless for 40 consecutive innings.

Stange allowed only two hits and struck out 10 — four in the seventh inning—before Don McMahon relieved him in the eighth and preserved the Indians 11th victory in 12 games. Max Alvis, Bob Chance and Leon Wagner, meanwhile, supplied the support with homers.

Stange struck out Don Lock leading off the seventh, but a passed ball by Joe Azcue enabled Lock to reach first. Stange then whiffed Willie Kirkland, gave up a single to Mike Brumley, and finished by fanning Don Zimmer and John Kennedy.

AF Soccer Team Faces U.S. Champ

While most of the sympathy regarding rugged season openers has been extended to Coach Ben Martin's Air Force football team, the Falcon soccer squad is facing a similar problem — in spades.

The Cadet booters — annually one of the most successful Falcon squads — open the 1964 campaign by hosting the defending national champion, St. Louis University. It will be the fourth meeting of the two schools on the soccer field, with the Billikins taking three narrow decisions in the previous games.

The 1964 Falcon soccer team will be under the guidance of a new coach, and will be playing as an independent for the first time in several seasons. The Cadets have dropped out of the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate League due to eligibility problems encountered by loop officials.

Capt. Carmen Annillo, the newest member of the Falcon coaching ranks, will have 11 returning lettermen to build the '64 squad around, including Dan Holoviak, a native of Wilmington, Del., and one of the nation's top goalies.

Annillo's Falcons will feature aggressive play, good balance and determination, as the Cadets seek to improve on last year's 4-6-1 mark.

The 1964 Air Force soccer schedule: Sept. 26 — St. Louis University at AFA, Oct. 2 — California at Berkeley, Oct. 3— San Jose State at San Jose, Oct. 10 — St .Benedicts College at AFA, Oct. 17 — Iowa State at AFA, Oct. 24 — Stonehill College at North Easton, Mass., Oct. 31 — Colorado State U. at AFA, Nov. 8 — Colorado at Boulder, Nov. 11 — Denver U. at AFA, Nov. 14 — Royal Roades at AFA, Nov. 18 — Colorado College at Colorado Springs.

Don't worry about the left arm, advises pro Rick Famlin, in the current Golf magazine. Instead of holding the club a little tighter in an attempt to keep the left arm straight, apply less left hand pressure and acquire a sense of feel. Learn to swing the club in your own tempo and, if the basics are in tune and your swing co-ordinated, your left arm will straighten out when it should.

Revamped PPL Eight-Team League Launches 1964 Campaign, Friday

With four Colorado Springs area schools including last year's undefeated champion Cheyenne Mountain in a new league, the eight teams in the revamped Pikes Peak League prepare for the forthcoming pennant chase on a happy note.

For the most part, the entire league is content over the new state alignment which puts them in Class AA division along with schools in the same student enrollment bracket.

Last season the PPL teams with student enrollment around 300 had to participate against schools such as Cheyenne, Widefield, Air Academy High and Harrison with enrollment over 500.

In previewing the 1964 PPL campaign, word from the field indicates that Don Schmidli's Salida gridders will be the team to beat for the Class AA league championship. The Salida team has both experience and beef in the line and backfield to rate as pre-season favorites.

Florence and Buena Vista rate as possible title contenders with the other five teams battling for the lower division berths which includes Fountain, Manitou Springs, Fowler, Leadville and Crowley County.

In addition to having the biggest line and backfield in the PPL, the Salida team will be guided for the first time by Schmidli, who has enjoyed success as the Spartans' head basketball coach having captured the State Class AA title last winter.

Five of the PPL teams launch the season this Friday night when Fowler journeys to Rocky Ford; Crowley County hosts Harrison; Buena Vista is the guest of Leadville in a non-league game; and Salida continues its rivalry with Canon City at the latter's home field.

The following week, Sept. 11, calls for three games: Fountain at Harrison; Manitou Springs at Sheridan Union; and Florence at Walsenburg.

The following is a short resume of each of the eight PPL teams:

SALIDA — 10 seniors anchor the Spartans 1964 football edition with big Ken Williams posing a threat from the football position. Williams is reported to tip the scales anywhere from 210 pounds to a whopping 230. Williams is a junior.

Other lettermen: tackles Hank and Jon Johnson; guards Rick Wilson and Charles Perea; center Leonard Post; end Norman Williams; quarterback Leonard Bustos; and halfbacks Keith Baker and Pat Woods.

FLORENCE — Under the new management of Ken Livingston who has replaced Ed Maxwell as head coach this year, the Huskies have 50 gridders on the varsity squad.

Among the senior returning veterans include hard-charging fullback Dick Shadwell. David Zamarripa, who excelled in basketball last winter for the Florence cagers, will guide the Huskies split-T formation at quarterback.

BUENA VISTA — Although the Buena Vista grid squad has made the jump from eight-man State Class C football to Class AA in one year, the Demons are considered one of the top challengers to Salida and Florence.

With only an estimated student body of 200, Buena Vista has 30 prospective footballers with 160-pound end John Foreman, 160 - pound quarterback Mel Nachtrieb and 196-pound tackle Steve Welch the key players on the Demons' roster.

MANITOU SPRINGS —Larry Olsen, in his second term as head coach, should guide his Mustangs to a better season with nine lettermen anchoring the 37-player roster.

Olsen snapped a 12-game losing streak in his first season at the Manitou grid helm, and has a solid backfield composed of 165-pound speedster John (the Jet) Moore, 165-pound fullback Danny Wheeler; and quarterback John Fletcher, 145 - pound junior who will guide the Mustangs forward attack.

FOUNTAIN — Head coach Joe Keegan, in his third term, saw a small squad of five lettermen and 37 prospective players turn out for pre-season drills.

The loss of key players to transfers, coupled with a small line, the Trojan boss expects a lean winter in the PPL. Joe Martinez, scrappy 152 - pound fullback, is rated as one of Fountain's top gridders. Two quarterbacks are bidding for the job. They are Brian O'Neill and Mike Ward.

LEADVILLE — Stan Pursley takes over the reins of head football coach and will have a young team to battle with in the PPL.

Jack Hosley, the Panthers' ace basketball player, will probably lead the Leadville eleven at quarterback with Tom Malmgren as the backup signal caller. The Panthers will have some beef in the line this season with 198-pound Mike Sullivan at the end post.

FOWLER — Coach Stan Nelson met 41 gridders in the opening grid practice and although the Fowler team has 13 returning lettermen, the squad's mentor indicated a rough PPL race. Running from the multiple-T formation, the Grizzlies will have two quarterbacks guiding their attack in Elias Berumen and Bob Linville. Jim Kirgan, 180-pound fullback, is Flowler's biggest back.

CROWLEY COUNTY (Ordway) — John Hancock assumes the head coaching job and reports that 50 gridders turned out for the varsity team.

Eight lettermen anchor the team and Hancock relates the Chargers will have a sound backfield but they lack experience. Freshman Bob Hughes and junior Ed Baldwin are the two quarterback candidates with 150-pound Darryl Schulz at the fullback position.

Trotter Needs Two More Wins

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP) — Speedy Scot, needing a victory in each of the two remaining races of the Harness Tracks of America Trot series to qualify for the finals, takes on seven rivals Friday night in the $10,000 stop at Saratoga Raceway.

The 4-year-old trotters will clash again at Freehold Raceway Sept. 12 before the leaders come together in the $50,000 finale at Roosevelt Raceway Sept. 19.

Speedy Scot from the Castleton Farm didn't enter the HTA series until a week ago at Batavia, N. Y., when he won without drawing a long breath. His opposition at Saratoga includes Sis Bomb and Sedate Hanover, who were second and third, respectively, behind him at Batavis.

Ring Magazine Rates Liston Top Heavyweight Contender

NEW YORK (AP) — Ring Magazine, refusing to go along with the World Boxing Association is outlawing a return match between champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston, listed Liston as the No. 1 heavyweight contender today.

Ring also said it didn't support the WBA threat to take Clay's title away from him if he meets Liston in a return, tentatively set for November at a site to be announced.

The magazine said it sees in Clay's $50,000 deal with Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc. and the Nilon brothers a legal mandate to give them first defense call on Cassius' services, which means a return bout with Liston.

In listing the heavyweight contenders, Ring placed previously unrated Blily Daniels of New York 10th on the basis of his upset victory over Doug Jones. Jones, for sometime either second or third, was dropped to fifth.

Former light heavyweight champion Bobo Olson of Fresno, Calif., jumped back into title contention with a third place ranking spot behind No. 1 rated Harold Johnson and No. 2 Gregorio Peralta of Argentina.

Hot Race Going on In PCL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Diego Padres and the Portland Beavers, nipping at each other's Pacific Coast League Western Division lead all season, get together in a four-game clash this weekend in an effort to end the dispute once and for all.

But there's no guarantee either one will end up with the pennant flag come season's end Sept. 13. For right behind the two front runners, are two other hot contenders — Spokane, only 1½ games behind the division leading Beavers, and Seattle, 3½ games out.

The Beavers held onto their half-game lead by coming from behind in the bottom of the ninth for a 6-5 win Wednesday night over the Tacoma Giants.

Frick Rules 'Cover Up' By Chisox

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox had their tense bid for the American League pennant complicated Thursday by a dispute with Commissioner Ford Frick over the services of ancient Minnie Minoso.

What seemed a routine White Sox acquisition of 41-year-old outfielder Minoso from Indianapolis Tuesday suddenly became a burning issue when Frick Wednesday ruled the Sox guilty of hanky-panky in the transaction.

Even as the White Sox rode behind Gary Peters' five-hit shutout pitching for a 7-0 riumph over the pesky Detroit Tigers at Comiskey Park Wednesday night, General Manager Ed Short accused Frick of "just being obstinate" in the Minoso case.

The Sox, still a half-game behind the pace setting Baltimore Orioles, had sought the aged, but still fiery Minoso for pinch-hitting and inspirational purposes in the September stretch run.

"I will talk to Frick again today and, if he wants it, I'll put Minoso on irrevocable waivers and any club can nave him for $20,000" snorted Short.

Frick claims the White Sox action in shipping Minoso to Indianapolis of the Pacific Coast League six weeks ago and then repurchasing him Tuesday, was a "cover up" and violated intent of the rules on player transaction."

Short asserted no major league club claimed Minoso when waivers were asked on him between July 13 and July 17. Minoso then signed with Indianapolis, a White Sox farm club.

Minoso, who played 10 of his 14 major league seasons with the White Sox, batted .270 for Indianapolis prior to his purchase by the Sox Tuesday.

"As a matter of fact," stormed Short, "you can say the other 19 major league clubs had six different opportunities to claim Minoso since last spring and not one ever did."

Short explained these chances were afforded when he twice asked waivers on Minoso from the time he was signed by the Sox as a free agent in spring training; again when waivers were asked in July; then when Minoso was available "any time" for purchase from Indianapolis.

Minoso, who failed to suit up as scheduled Wednesday night, seemed bewildered by Frick's ruling. He came to the Comiskey Park press box Wednesday night and told writers:

"I don't understand why the commissioner does this to me. Nobody claimed me ever from the time the Washington Senators released me after last season.

Hutchison, King Capture Second Round in Tourney

Fate Hutchison and Roy King, both of Colorado Springs, posted a low net score of 128 to capture top honors during the second round of action in the annual Camel Drivers Golf Tournament at Kissing Camels Course Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Frank Chilson of Colorado Springs and Maj. Gen. James W. Wilson of Riverside, Calif. posted the low gross score for the second straight day. They had a gross of 149. They are the defending champions in the gross division.

The scoring system used Wednesday was additive, with the totals of both partners added together, less the full total handicaps. The first day's action was a best ball net.

Following the Hutchison-King team Wednesday was the team of Jim English of Littleton and J. N. Thompson of Englewood with a net of 134. W. P. Kline of Shawnee Mission, Kan. and David Maytag of Los Angeles had a 138; Murray Armstrong and Raymond Near of Morrison, Colo. a 138; Earl Buckingham and Robert Hall of Denver a 137.

Following Chilson and Wilson in the low gross division was the Hutchison-King team with a 150. Howard Creel and James Johnson of Colorado Springs had a 151; Thompson and English a 151; Maytag and Kling a 153; and E. J. Campbell of Englewood and R. H. Cooper of Denver a 158.

The tournament was to conclude today with the third 18 hole round. Scoring was to be on a basis of alternate shots from tee through green with one-half of the combined handicap deducted.

Dental Student Sends Javelin Over 300 Feet

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A 20-year-old Norwegian dental student has shattered the 300-foot javelin throw barrier with a fantastic heave more than 15 feet better than the listed world record.

Terje Pedersen made his spectacular throw of 300 feet, 11½ inches in an international meet between Norway and Czechoslovakia at Bislet Stadium Wednesday. The 209-pound youngster's performance easily topped the listed work mark of 285-7 set by Carlo Lievore of Italy in 1961.

Pederson, who had a throw of 285-10¼ pending, did 258-3 in his first attempt Wednesday. He got off his prodigious heave in his only other try. The javelin was immediately measured and weighed following the throw and found to conform with regulations.

Wayne Captures Raceway Trophy

Gary Wayne won Saturday night's Class A Trophy dash at Sportsmans Raceway Park, driving the car usually driven by Walt Pickard of Pueblo. Walt Pickard was unable to be there and Wayne was experiencing some trouble with his own car, so he took over the driving chores. Mike Wooley captured the late model trophy dash again.

Track officials were extremely proud of the local drivers at the late model 100 mile race held at Colorado State Fair last week. First place was taken by a Pueblo driver, Don Sloan. Sloan. Second place went to Ralph Pfeifer of Denver who races at the local oval whenever he can. Gene Bonderant, driving a car owned by Delbert Moore, finished third and Jim McGar came in fourth. Other local drivers who finished in the top 10 were Bill Hubbard, who finished eighth and Mike Wooley who finished 10th.

Eleven girls were lined up in the second Powderpuff race of the season. Sandy McComb took the lead and held it throughout the race. LaDaine Prosser and Toni Salyer threatened to take the lead several times. However, coming into the No. 3 turn the two collided and Tony was eliminated from the race. LaDaine kept on going, but then spun out on the next turn.

The races went pretty smooth except for the semi-modified losers race, when J. Shaffer's car climbed up on Bob Moberly's car, which had to be eliminated for the evening.

Time trials will get underway this Saturday at 7 p.m. with races to follow immediately. Sportsman's Raceway Park is lotcaed six miles east of Colorado Springs on U.S. 24, directly across from the entrance to Peterson Field.

Saari Tops World Freestyle Mark

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Saari, the first man to break the 17-minute mark in the 1,500-meter freestyle swim, says he would be happy if Australian officials change their minds and put Olympic great Murray Rose against him in the Tokyo Games.

"That would make it a real world championship," said the 19-year-old dynamo from El Segundo, Calif., shortly after he had cracked the world record for the metric mile with a sensational 16:58.7 performance in the final of the Olympic Trials Wednesday.

"It was great to be the first," said Saari, "because someone will have to shorten the time. I won't be the only one to break 17 minutes. I imagine there will be four or five of us and I think it will take 16:50 to win the gold medal at Tokyo."

Saari's time smashed his own listed world standard of 17:05.5, set in Tokyo a year ago, and erased the pending mark of 17:01.8 reeled off by swimmer Rose, not the sports writer, in the National AAU championships at Los Altos, Calif., Aug. 2.

Australian officials thumbed down a plea by Rose, winner of four Olympic gold medals, to be made a member of the Olympic team, because he did not try to make the team in Australia.

Saari's memorable performance highlighted the first five days of the trials, in which five world records have been surpassed, one tied, and 11 listed American records have been beaten and one tied.

Cathy Ferguson, a 16-year-old schoolgirl from Burbank, Calif., equalled the listed world record of 1:08.9 for the 100-meter backstroke in a Wednesday morning heat and then won the final and passage to Tokyo in 1:09.3.

Walt Richardson, 20-year-old national champion from Hinsdale, Ill., and the U. of Minnesota, topped his listed American mark of 57.8 and tied his pending record of 57.5 in a heat of the 100-meter butterfly. He won the final in 57.8.

Judy Reeder, a 16-year-old blonde from Santa Clara, Calif., squeezed into the women's 100-meter breaststroke final in a five-way swimoff, then beat the listed American mark in the final with a time of 1:20.1 that put her on the team. Cynthia Goyette, 18, of Detroit was second and also made the team for the medley relay with Judy.

Others who won berths on the team Wednesday were:

Men's 1,500-meters — 2, John Nelson, Pompano Beach, Fla., 17:11.4. 3, Bill Farley, Los Angeles, 17:12.7. Nelson also has a 400-meter berth.

Men's 100-meter butterfly for medley relay — 2, Lary Schulhof, Muncie, Ind., 58.5.

Women's 100-meter backstroke — 2, Ginny Duenkel, West Orange, N.J., 1:09.2 (faster than the winner, but judge's decision decides placings). 3, Nina Harmar, Philaedlphia, 1:10.5. Ginny also made the team in the 400-meter freestyle.

The swimming part of the trials winds up today with the men's 100-meter backstroke and 100-meter breaststroke, qualifying the first two in each for the relay team; the men's 200-meter freestyle, qualifying the first four for the relays, and the women's 100-meter freestyle, qualifying the first five for the freestyle relay.

Diving gets under way with the women's springboard and concludes with the platform plunging for both men and women Sunday.

Labor Day Races Featured at Oval

This weekend brings double barreled excitement as the Pikes Peak speedway has race programs on Saturday night as usual and again on Monday a special Labor Day race will be held. The times for both nights will be the same with time trials at 7 p.m. and races at 8 p.m.

Last Saturday night saw Jack Gabardi pile up points as he set the fast timé for the evening in time trials behind the wheel of his speedy stock car and then better 25 other starters in the Main Event to carry home the checkered flag in that wild and wooly race.

Jim Crance, driving in a heat race, was disqualified from a second place finish for unnecessary rough driving as he continually booted Ken Conrad around the 1-5th mile oval. A three car crack-up in the south turn caused one race to be stopped to help Johnny Perry out of his Purple No. 4 as he was shaken up and a couple of teeth loosened. No major injury has occurred at the speedway this year due to strict enforcement of safety requirements.

The Labor Day races should prove to be one of the best of the season as the driver will be running for extra points in all events to finally decide the top driver of the year. Pikes Peak Speedway is running almost entirely all Colorado Springs cars and a field of 60 is expected for the big special Labor Day event.

There will be no increase in admission fees for the weekend or Labor Day races. The speedway is located three mies east on Highway 24 on the south side of road.

Stars Stay in Defense of U.S. Volleyball Title

FLUSHING, N.Y. (AP) — The Hollywood Stars, defenders in the open division of the 35th annual U.S. Volleyball Association Championships, scored 15-7, 15-5 victories over the Buckeye B.C. of Ohio in the second round which concluded early Wednesday morning.

The California team, coached by Harry Wilson, who also will handle the U.S. team in the Tokyo Olympics in October, started defense of its crown by walloping the New York City Estonians, 15-6, 15-2, in the opening round Tuesday afternoon.

A record-breaking entry of 38 teams are entered in the open division and 27 of them remain undefeated in the double-elimination competition which qualifies the first five finishers plus an all-star team for the Olympic trials on Saturday.

Wichita Team Makes Finals of Non-Pro Meet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wichita Service Auto Glass defeated Bellingham, Wash., 7-6 Wednesday night to go into the finals of the National Non-pro Baseball Tournament.

Wichita meets Fairbanks, Alaska, Thursday night in the championship game. Fairbanks defeated Eureka, Calif. 4-3 in 11 innings.

Wichita blew a five run lead but came back in the ninth inning on a two-out double by Bill Morris, scoring Jerry Webster, who had walked.

John Gabler, last of three Wichita pitchers, picked up the win, his third in four successive nights.

Wichita took a 6-1 lead in the fourth inning by scoring five runs when pitcher Ron Hubbard hit a bases loaded home run. Hubbard was shelled from the mound in the seventh after lead-off batters Neil Hutchison and Ray Gale both hit safely. Fred Kipp relieved Hubbard and gave up a two-run homer to Mal Walton to tie the game.

Text of Sen. Barry Goldwater's Speech

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — We stand together in this historic square today, as we have stood twice before, to launch a campaign in a good and noble cause. Twice before we have won that campaign. We shall win it again.

What could be more fitting than to stand here to send forth our message — a message for all who would be free and unafraid, a message for all who would face the future with hope and faith.

This is truly the home of the free and of the brave. Our forefathers came here seeking a new life; a life that they could lead for themselves, with honor, with faith, and with a friendliness that need never be forced. They hewed and fashioned that new life through hard work and sacrifice and they passed on to us our most cherished heritage — a free and orderly community of men.

Today that free and orderly community faces the grave danger of becoming merely another possession of the White House, and we who live here face the grave danger of becoming the servants of some big brother who lives there.

We all sense this danger, not only those of us gathered in this square, but all of us across this land. There is a stir in the land. There is a mood of uneasiness. We feel adrift in an uncharted and stormy sea. We feel that we have lost our way.

We must and we can find our way to the greatness and a purpose worthy of this nation and its people.

Today, with your help and with God's blessing, we go forward to greatness in this nation.

Greatness of purpose — To keep the peace and extend freedom.

Greatness of action — To speak clearly and to be heard respectfully once again in the councils of the world.

Greatness of heart and self-restraint at home — To restore law and order, to make our streets safe, without losing liberty.

Greatness of vision — To see beyond the comforts and pleasures of the day toward the towering goals of tomorrow.

The individual, the private man, the whole man — you! — today stands in danger of becoming the forgotten man of our collectivized, complex times.

The private man, the whole man — you! — must and can be restored as the sovereign citizen, as the center of the family, the state, and as the prime mover and moulder of the future.

Today, therefore, and again with your help, we also begin a great campaign to return the government of this nation to the people of this nation.

Today we take a first step toward ending in our time the erosion of individual worth by a growing federal bureaucracy.

This time, in this election, we have a choice. It is between far more than political personalities, far more than political promises, far more than political programs. It is a choice of what sort of people we want to be. It is the choice of what sort of world we want to live in and want to pass on to our children.

Choose the way of this present administration and you have the way of mobs in the street, restrained only by the plea that they wait until after election time to ignite violence once again.

Choose the way of this present administration and you choose the way of unilateral disarmament and appeasement in foreign affairs.

Choose the way of this present administration and you make real the prospect of an America unarmed and aimless in the face of militant communism around the world.

Instead, I ask that you join me in proving that every American, can stand on his own, make up his own mind, chart his own future, keep and control his own family, asking for help and getting help only when truly overwhelming problems, beyond his control, beset him.

I ask you to join with me in finding twentieth century answers for twentieth century problems rather than relying on the old, disproved doctrine of turning our problems, our lives, and our liberties over to a supposed elite in an all-powerful central government.

The campaign we launch today is dedicated to that.

The campaign we launch today is dedicated to peace, to progress, and to purpose.

You have heard those words and phrases time after time. You know how empty they have become. Our task is to look beyond the words, to understand what the politicians really mean when they say them, to what they do with them when they get in office.

When we speak of these things we mean something far different from the opposition party. We mean:

—Peace through preparedness.

—Progress through freedom.

—Purpose through constitutional order.

These are the themes that we shall make resound across this great land of ours, and across an anxious, troubled and listening world.

The question of peace, for instance, is basic to the differences between the two major parties today.

The present administration does not understand the nature of the threats to the peace, the nature of the enemy who threatens the peace, or the nature of the conflict, which, whether we like it or not, has been imposed upon the entire world.

What more flat evidence of this could there be than the fact that, in his acceptance speech, the leader of the present administration did not even mention communism.

The fact is that communism is the only great threat to the peace! The fact is that communism is a threat to every free man. It can't be ignored!

Republicans have proved that they understand these things. The Republican platform this year shows this understanding. Republican performances in the White House and in the Congress have demonstrated this understanding.

A major concern of ours has been the military security of this nation. Some distort this proper concern to make it appear that we are preoccupied with war.

There is no greater political lie.

We are preoccupied with peace!

And we are fearful that this administration is letting the peace slip away, as it has slipped three times since 1914, by pretending that there are no threats to it.

I am trying to carry to the American people this plain message: This entire nation and the entire world risks war in our time unless free men remain strong enough to keep the peace.

This administration, which inherited the mightiest arsenal for the defense of freedom ever created on earth, is so dismantling it that we face the prospect of going into the decade of the 1970's with only a fraction of the flexible, balanced weapon systems which give us the vital options of controlled, graduated deterrence — rather than only a capacity for all-out nuclear confrontation.

This administration uses the outmoded and unfair military draft system for social schemes as well as military objectives.

Republicans will end the draft altogether, and as soon as possible. That I promise you!

Republicans understand that the military forces need trained volunteers who make the military service a career. Republicans understand that the purpose of the military forces is not social, or political — it is to help keep the peace of the world.

To use military services for political and social schemes — as this administration does — is to drift closer to war on an ebbing tide of military strength.

We have simply got to put this record straight, and all of us must understand it.

The Republican party is the peace party.

We are the peace party because we understand the enemy. We understand his aims. We understand that he always has and always will take risks and seek advantages when tempted by weakness.

We seek a strong America because only a strong nation can keep the peace.

I do not intend to be a wartime president.

I have been to war. I have two fine sons and I do not want them in a war. I have two fine daughters. I have grandchildren. I want none of them touched by war.

We seek peace for everyone in this land and in this world.

And I do not intend to see peace and freedom torn away from this nation because we lack will, weapons, or leadership.

I promise an administration that will keep the peace — and keep faith with freedom at the same time.

The Republican party, this party of peace through strength, has no clearer message. Peace has no greater hope.

We cannot support this cause, however, on a base of sand at home. Our economy must underpin the strength with which peace can be kept as well as fill our needs at home. And the key to progress there, as it is to eventual peace in the world, is purely and simply — freedom.

This country has grown great and strong and prosperous by placing major reliance on a free economy. What we have we owe to the ceaseless strivings of tens of millions of free men to better their own condition and to provide better futures for their children and their children's children.

Private property, free competition, hard work — these have been our greatest tools. Let us not discard them now!

This system has preserved and protected our freedom, our right to disagree, our diversity, our independence from aribtrary interference in our affairs.

This system is the mighty engine of progress which enabled this country to develop from a small but independent citizenry to become a multitude spanning the continent and living on a level that is the envy of the world.

Government-to-government aid from other countries did not do it for us. Hard work and freedom did it! Progress through freedom has been our heritage and must continue to be our goal.

Increasingly, however, government has been absorbing or controlling more and more of our resources, our energy, and our ambition.

Today you work from January through April just to provide government with the money it spends.

Until early February you are working to pay the expenses of local and state government. For twice as long thereafter you are working to pay the expenses of the federal government. Only then do you work for money that you yourself can use for what you yourself choose.

This cancerous growth of the federal government must and shall be stopped. A Republican administration will let you use more of your money for yourself.

Of course, the mistakes of the past cannot be corrected overnight. Our economy needs stability and continuity in government policy. We must proceed with care in our task of cutting the government down to size.

Honesty requires that we honor the commitments government has made to all areas of the economy, whether explicit or implicit.

Good faith requires that we not disappoint reasonable expectations based on those commitments.

We, in a Republican administration, shall never abandon the needy and the aged — we shall never foresake the helpless. We understand their problems in our hearts.

But we know that a true and lasting solution of those problems cannot be found in degrading, capricious, and politically motivated handouts from the White House. It must ultimately be found in a thriving and compassionate economy and in programs principally handled by the levels of government closest to the people.

Prudence requires that we proceed slowly and steadily in withdrawing the central government from its many unwarranttd interventions in our private economic lives.

Only so can the private economy adjust smoothly to its properly broadened tasks, without the extra burden of sharp and erratic shifts in policy.

Much as we may wish it were otherwise, we shall only gradually to able to alter many policies of the central government. We shall be able to do so as we develop solutions permitting a smooth transition to new and better arrangements.

But there are some tnings we can do at once. We can start at once to slow down the expansion in federal spending. We can start at once to foster an economy that will provide jobs for our growing population. We can, and will, see to it that the job-making sector of the economy — the private sector — flourishes and absorbs the unemployed, particularly among our youth.

We will need millions of new jobs — not millions of new words — over the next few years. Republicans understand how an economy of freedom can build those jobs. And with a Republican administration we will have those jobs!

We shall attack this problem at its roots. That way, I pledge to you, we can succeed where tne present administration has so miserably failed.

Only now, in this election year, has the present administration bestirred itself to the problems of the unemployed. It has pulled out all stops in this election year to create an artificial prosperity, a prosperity resting on shaky, artificial props that spell serious trouble in the future of our economy. The state of our economy and the future of our jobs have been made a political football — with votes in the present traded for jobs and income lost in the future.

Of course, the wind cannot always blow fair. Occasionally, rough weather cannot be avoided. It can only be moderated. Government has tne responsibility to do just that. It must provide a stable base for private decisions. It must ease the distress from loss of jobs and income that these occasional rough spells may bring.

I pledge to you that a Republican administration will use all powers and instruments at its command to fulfill these responsibilities.

Perhaps even closer to our hearts, is the matter of purpose and order in our lives and our society.

Most of us have conceived of the purpose of our national government as being service to the people, bringing them fair laws and fair administration, and doing those absolutely needed things which individuals, communities, or states cannot do by themselves.

But leaders of tne present administration conceive of government as master, not servant.

Responsibility has shifted from the family to the bureaucrat, from the neighborhood to the arbitrary and distant agency. Goals are set, roles are assigned, promises are made — all by the remote control of central government.

The leadership of this present administration, which seeks this concentration of power as an announced article of its political faith, becomes the natural ally of all in our society who would monopolize power, centralize power, manipulate power, and grow rich from power.

This applies across the board, from the advocates of big government, to the bosses of big labor, to the bosses of big city politics, as well as to those who would abuse great economic power in business.

Facing the power seekers is the lone man, the citizen, the forgotten man whose rights our government was designed to make secure.

What have we been given by the politicians who want to tell you how to behave, how to think, how to live, what to study, and even where or if to pray?

What examples have been set, what lessons learned from this sort of leadership?

The shadow of scandal falls, unlighted yet by full answers, across the White House itself.

Public service, once selfless, has become for too many at its highest levels, selfish in motive and manner. Men who preach publicly of sacrifice, practice private indulgence.

The example this sets can be traced, tragically, through the easy morals and uneasy ethics which in private life disturb so many parents and lure so many young people.

If the tone of America is not set by men in public service it will be set, as unfortunately it is being set too often today, by the standards of the sick joke, the slick slogan, the off-color drama, and the pornographic book.

It is on our streets that we see the final, terrible proof of a sickness which not all the social theories of a thousand social experiments has even begun to touch.

Crime grows faster than population, while those who break the law are accorded more consideration than those who try to enforce the law. Law enforcement agencies—the police, the sheriffs, the FBI—are attacked for doing their jobs. Law breakers are defended.

Our wives, all women, feel unsafe on our streets.

And in encouragement of even more abuse of the law, we have the appalling spectacle of this country's ambassador to the United Nations actually telling an audience—this year, at Colby College—that "in the great struggle to advance civil and human rights, even a jail sentence is no longer a dishonor but a proud achievement. Perhaps we are destined to see in this law-loving land people running for office not on their stainless records but on their prison records."

There are peaceful means of expressing a dissatisfaction. There are lawful ways. But no one can in deep conscience advocate lawlessness in seeking redress of a grievance!

When men will seek political advantage by turning their eyes away from riots and violence, we can well understand why lawlessness grows even while we pass more laws.

And when men use political advantage for personal gain we can understand the decline of moral strength generally.

It is a responsibility of the national leadership, regardless of political gain, political faction, or political popularity to encourage every community in this nation to enforce the law, not let it be abused and ignored.

It is not the responsibility nor is it the proper function of our national leadership to enforce local laws. But it is a responsibility of the national leadership to make sure that it, and its spokesmen and its supporters, do not discourage the enforcement or incite the breaching of these laws. And it is their responsibility to keep standards of common honesty high, turning on lights of integrity, not turning them off.

The leadership of this nation has a clear and immediate challenge to go to work effectively and go to work immediately to restore proper respect for law and order in this land — and not just prior to election day either!

This is not a challenge just for a few days or weeks, a problem to be put off until the votes are in.

This is a challenge to the overwhelming majority of Americans who share these basic reliefs with us:

— That each man is responsible for his own actions.

— That each man is the best judge of his own well-being.

— That each man has an individual conscience to serve and a moral code to uphold.

— That each man is a brother to every other man.

America's greatness is the greatness of her people. Let this generation, then, make a new mark for that greatness. Let this generation light a lamp of liberty that will illuminate the world. Let this generation of Americans set a standard of responsibility that will inspire the world.

We can do it! And God willing, together, we will do it.

Gold Water Is Used As Campaign Gimmick

CODY, Wyo. (AP) — Wyoming House Speaker Marlin Kurtz of Cody is pumping gold water on behalf of a Republican victory in November.

The GOP legislator operates a pipe supply company in Cody and for advertising purposes has a large pump outside which keeps a constant stream of gold-colored water circulating in a tank.

Young People to Help Vote With Their Fathers

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve young people are going to bounce along the campaign trail this fall with their fathers as much as their own lives will take. They are the sons and daughters of the presidential and vice-presidential candidates, and their parents have said they would help whenever they can — school and young families permitting.

All four fathers have run for Congress, and their children know political family togetherness.

The two daughters of President Johnson — Lynda Bird, 20, and Luci Bains, 17 — have hit the barbecue circuit of "Young Citizens for Jonson," venturing forth on their own. Thy also are appearing at festivals, ship christenings, and other public gatherings.

The two sons of Republican nominee Barry Goldwater — Barry Jr., 26, and Michael, 24 — took leave from their jobs months ago to go out politicking for their father.

Young Barry and Elizabeth Ann Miller, 20, daughter of the GOP vice-presidential candidate William E. Miller, are cochairmen of "Youth For Goldwater-Miller." Another Miller daughter, Mary Karen, 17, says she'll "probably tag along" with her parents.

The younger Goldwaters and Millers were in the midst of an Arizona get-together today, and Elizabeth Ann said she expects to appear before a number of young people's groups.

"I'm not much of a public speaker," she said, "but I'll help out."

Other young campaigners include the four children of Hubert Humphrey, the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate. They are Nancy, 25, now Mrs. C. Bruce Solomonson of Burnsville, Minn., mother of two; Hubert III, 22, called Skip, a senior at American University here and married; Robert, 20, a sophomore at Mankato State Collge in Minnesota; and Douglas, 16, junior at Shattuck School in Faribault, Minn.

Goldwater also has two married daughters who have been working for him — Mrs. Thomas H. Ross (Joanna), 28, of Torrance, Calif., mother of four; and Peggy, 20, married last June to Richard Arlen Holt of Los Angeles.

Elizabeth Miller goes to Sacred Heart at Newton College outside Boston, and Mary Karen attends Stone Ridge School here. They also have a younger brother and sister — William E. Jr., 5, and Stephanie, 2 — too young even to woo the lollipop set.

Lynda Johnson plans to continue her college studies but has announced no definite plans. Luci will be a senior at National Cathedral School for Girls here.

German Ex-POW Pays Return Visit to Region

Prisoner-of-war status at Ft. Carson was both a blessing and a curse when he was returned home to Thuringia, said Kurt Adomeit, former Carson POW now visiting in the Pikes Peak region.

The Adomeit family, now from Kitchener, Ont., Canada, visited Carson as part of their return to see where Kurt spent from 1944 to 1946. He complains that "everything is changed" and nothing of the POW site remains.

His time in the United States, especially Colorado, and the excellent treatment given to the prisoners convinced Adomeit that he should emigrate west. Eight years ago he brought his family to Canada and he works now as an automotive machinist in Kitchener.

When he was repatriated, Adomeit found that he was a marked man in his home — Eisenach — which is in the Russian zone. Prisoners who came to the United States, he explained, could dispute the communists' claims about the advantages of life in a socialistic economy compared with western democracy.

So the Adomeits moved first to the Ruhr before leaving Germany.

The Afrika Korps veteran learned to speak English at Carson and served as an interpreter especially for fellow POWs who were ill. Language fluency was a factor, too, in his decision to emigrate.

He feels that his trip back to see the Pikes Peak region was inspired by thoughts as a prisoner when he wondered if he would ever get into the beautiful mountains he looked at from the prison enclosure.

The Adomeits, Rolf and Sonja, are camping in the Manitou Park area north of Woodland Park through this week.

Lean, Stout, Heat Adjustment Studied

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — A study to determine whether being lean or stout makes any difference in how well women adjust to heat, and also how their tolerance stacks up with men's is being conducted by scientists at the Pennsylvania State University.

The research, being conducted in Penn State's new Laboratory for Human Performance Research, is using seven women volunteers in a special environmental room resembling desert conditions. The temperature remains near 115 degrees and the humidity is low. Some of the women in the test are lean and some are stout. Three times a week they enter the "desert" room for two hours and alternately walk 20 minutes and rest 20 minutes until they have walked the equivalent of one hour.

When testing first began, all of the stout women had to leave the chamber before their three walks were completed, while only one of the lean women had to be removed. All of the women, except two stout ones, now have become acclimated to the environment.

Glaucoma May Have Hereditary Factors

By KATHIE DIBELL

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 200,000 persons in the United States cannot see because of glaucoma. Another 800,000 are believed to have the disease, but are unaware of it.

A person who suffers from glaucoma and doesn't know it may bump into things, feel that people and objects creep up the side and, when driving, notice that a car will spring into view where just a second before the highway seemed clear.

By the time these symptoms are noticed, damage to the eyes already has been done. Treatment will only arrest further damage.

Deterioration in vision has taken from 15 to 20 years to develop. Without treatment, total blindness will result.

The Wilmer Institute at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine is among five centers which are conducting major research on the eye disease.

Dr. A. Edward Maumenee, director of Wilmer Institute, coordinates programs at Johns Hopkins, Washington University in St. Louis, New York University, University of California and the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Irvin P. Pollack who is in charge of the project at Wilmer, has studied 600 persons over a five-year period in an effort "to find better methods of predicting glaucoma than we have."

The cause is not known, he said, but "by finding what are the earliest changes in the eye, and by studying the life history of patients, we hope to be able to predict who will get the disease and at what time therapy should be started."

Dr. Pollack said his research is primarily concerned with sufferers of open angle glaucoma, the most common form of the disease. It is "gradual and insidious," he said, because no dramatic symptoms develop.

"In a less common form of the disease, narrow angle glaucoma, sufferers experience severe pain, blurred sight and see halos around lights.

One byproduct of the five years research at Wilmer has been increased evidence that heredity is a contributing factor to the disease.

Only 2 to 4 per cent of the general population over 40 years of age suffers from the disease, he said.

His research emphasizes that when glaucoma is discovered in a patient, Dr. Pollack said, "it behooves the ophthalmologist to make it clear that the patient's brothers and sisters and children over the age of 40 should be routinely checked early."

Ophthalmologist can discover glaucoma during routine eye examinations, Dr. Pollack said, but by the time the partial loss of vision is noticed, drugs and surgery cannot repair the damage. Treatment can only halt further damage.

Dr. Pollack explained the disease.

Fluid, known as aqueous humor, enters the eye through a spigot and leaves through a drain. When a person has glaucoma, either the spigot or drain stops functioning properly. Pressure from the fluid builds up in the eye, causing damage to the optic nerve.

Research at Johns Hopkins is financed by the Public Health Service at a cost of $30,000 a year. Dr. Pollack is aided in the project by five technicians and research assistants.

Car Smashed; Driver Escapes Injury

French-British Atom Missile Is Planned

LONDON (AP) — British government sources say agreemet is near for joint French-British production of a nuclear-headed missile that would be fired from supersonic jet bombers.

The French Foreign Ministry said it was not aware of such negotiations.

British sources said the project was intended to provide the striking power for Britain's TSR2, a low-level supersonic bomber, and France's Mirage supersonic bombers.

Northern Ireland, with its two main cities of Belfast, the capital, and Londonderry, or Derry, as the Irish call it, is a self-governing country within the United Kingdom.

ADDITION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Federal officials in Washington have been asked to consider the possibility of creating a full-time customs and immigration office at Denver's Stapleton Field. Rep. Byron Rodgers, D-Colo., said he had questioned the possibility of such an office and learned it was "quite possible." The addition of such a department would open the airport to international travel.

NEW OFFSET PLATE

NEW YORK (UPI) — SCM Corp. announced Wednesday a new microstatic paper offset plate to be made in its electrostatic photocopiers and used on any standard office offset printing press.

Miller Daughters Get Birds-Eye Arizona View

Elizabeth Anne, 20, and Mary Karen, 17, were to be taken on an aerial tour of the state by GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater's two sons.

Barry Jr., 26, a licensed pilot, was to do the flying and Mike, 21, was to act as guide on the 800-mile trip.

The tour included the Grand Canyon, Oak Creek Canyon, Glen Canyon Dam and Utah's Monument Valley.

Stops were scheduled at Monument Valley, Glen Canyon Dam and the historic mountain mining town of Jerome.

"We're really excited about our Arizona visit," said Elizabeth Tuesday as she and her sister alighted at Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport after a flight from Buffalo, N.Y.

Elizabeth, a senior at Newton, Mass., college, said she plans to help the Republican campaign in any way she can. "I'm not much of a public speaker," she said, "but I do plan some campaign talks."

Mary, a senior at Stone Ridge, a private high school in Washington, said, "I'll just tag along behind."

Elizabeth, a tour guide this summer at the New York World's Fair, said her talks with fairgoers indicated strong Republican sentiment. "I'm very optimistic about the election outcome," she said.

Tonight the four will dine at a desert restaurant north of Phoenix, and Thursday they'll travel to Prescott, Ariz., where Sen. Goldwater officially launches his campaign.

Grand Jury Will Not Indict Cop Who Shot Youth

By AUSTIN SCOTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Harlem residents who reacted so violently to a white policeman's fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy in mid-July displayed little outward emotion today to a grand jury's refusal to indict the officer.

The average reaction was disappointment, but not surprise as word spread through the Negro community that the New York County grand jury decided Tuesday Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan was not criminally liable for shooting James Powell to death.

The youth was killed July 16 in front of an apartment building in the Yorkville section, two miles from Harlem. Many considered it an act of police brutality and the fuse that touched off four days of rioting and looting by Negroes two days later in Harlem.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan prepared a 14-page news report on the case. It digested 1,600 pages of often contradictory testimony given in secret by 45 witnesses at 15 jury sessions.

Negro leaders generally were critical of the report. James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said CORE would issue its own report.

Police reports said Powell was shot after he lunged at Gilligan with a knife. Gilligan was off duty and in civilian clothes.

The boy, on lunch from summer school classes, had chased an apartment house owner after the man sprayed him with a garden hose — deliberately, according to some student witnesses. The man, however, said the spraying was accidental.

Talks with community leaders and random street interviews indicated no desire for further clashes with police.

Many of the youths involved in the previous violence said they did not want a repeat of the four nights of bloodshed.

"Too many innocent people got hurt," said one young man. "People are staying away from harlem."

John Young, chairman of a "Visit Harlem Week" schuled for Sept. 13-20, said more than 100 block association youths were walking the streets most of Tuesday night urging other teen-agers and young adults not to cause trouble.

William Epton, a self-styled Communist who had distributed thousands of "Wanted, Gilligan for Murder" posters, said he didn't expect any trouble.

Young issued a statement saying, "We have worked diligently to create an atmosphere of welcome and safety. We have come a long way back since the recent crisis. We must not allow this decision to destroy this work."

But L. Joseph Overton, acting chairman of the newly formed Harlem Unity Council, said "I don't care about violence any more. "If it comes, I feel this time it's not the responsibility of the community."

Winner of Medal Of Honor Dies at 74

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Col. Sterling L. Morelock, 74, awarded the Medal of Honor for gallantry in the Argonne offensive during World War I, died in the Veteran's Administration hospital Tuesday night.

Morelock, given the honorary rank of colonel by the Illinois National Guard, as a private wiped out a series of German machine gun nests in the battle. He was injured while aiding a wounded officer. Morelock was awarded the medal in 1921.

Morelock, a native of Silver Run, Md., came to Pittsburgh in 1936 and went to work for the Veteran's Administration. He retired in 1957. He was Pennsylvania department commander of the Disabled American Veterans from 1958 to 1959.

Second Canal Plan Will Be Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given final passage to a bill that authorizes $17.5 million to study whether a second canal would be feasible across Central America.

The action came Tuesday on a house roll call vote of 320 to 23.

If President Johnson signs the measure, a commission appointed by him would study if and where a canal should be built and report back by June 30, 1968.

Solons Cautious About Baker Probe Reopening

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders moved cautiously today in the wake of a demand for reopening the Bobby Baker case to investigate a charge of a $25,000 payoff earmarked for Kennedy-Johnson campaign funds in 1960.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he would take the matter up with the Senate Democratic policy committee "in the near future." He declined further comment.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP leader, said there should be an investigation but cited a number of factors that he felt would prevent any early action.

"It certainly comes at an awkward time," Dirksen commented, noting that many senators want to get away to campaign.

Dirksen said he had conferred briefly with Mansfield and would talk with him again after the Democratic policy committee meets.

Asked for comment on the charge, White House press secretary George E. Reedy said only, "We have no knowledge of it whatever."

From Tulsa, Okla., Republican National Chairman Dean Burch said President Johnson "should immediately call for a bipartisan congressional investigation to get all the facts, and to determine whether any member of the executive branch is involved."

The Baker case exploded anew in the Senate Tuesday when Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said in a speech that he had evidence of a $35,000 payoff he said was made by Matthew H. McCloskey Jr., Philadelphia contractor, on the Washington, D.C., Stadium contract.

McCloskey, finance chairman of the Democratic National Committee at the time could not be reached for comment. He resigned several weeks ago as ambassador to Ireland.

Williams told his colleagues that $10,000 of the $35,000 went to Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent, and that, according to Reynolds, $25,000 was turned over to Baker for "a contribution to the Johnson-Kennedy campaign fund of 1960."

The senator called it a conspiracy in which "several laws were violated" and demanded an immediate reopening of the investigation into how Baker built up a claimed fortune of over $2 million while serving as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Baker resigned his $19,600-a-year Senate post last Oct. 7 after questions were raised by Williams and others about his outside business dealings. He refused to testify at an investigation conducted by the Senate Rules Committee.

Williams displayed a copy of a $109,205.60 check that he said McCloskey had sent to Reynolds on Oct. 17, 1960.

He said this represented an overpayment of $35,574.32 on the amount due Reynolds as insurance broker on the performance bond McCloskey posted on the stadium contract. He referred to it variously as a "kickback" and a "payoff."

"This $35,000 additional payoff on this stadium contract was arranged for the express purpose of channeling a $25,000 political contribution into the Democratic campaign fund and to charge this $25,000 contribution as a business expense item on a government contract," Williams said.

JFK Book About Immigrants Ready

NEW YORK, (AP) — A book titled "A Nation of Immigrants," on which President John F. Kennedy was working at the time of his death, will be published Oct. 7, it was announced today by Harper and Row, New York publishing firm.

It is a revision and expansion of a 1958 booklet Kennedy wrote for the Anti-defamation League of B'nai B'rith. It deals with the history of immigration to the United States and Kennedy's critique of the current immigration law.

In an introduction, the late President's brother, Robert F. Kennedy, says it was decided to publish the book posthumously as a legacy to "those committed to the battle for immigration reform."

Pope Proposes Jerusalem Faith Center

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI plans an interfaith center in Jerusalem to commemorate his historic meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople —Istanbul —in the Holy Land last January.

In disclosing the proposal Monday night, a high Vatican source said Christians would join with non-Christians in religious studies at the center.

The project was seen as a major step toward Christian unity as well as improved relations between Christianity and other faiths.

The Pope has entrusted preparations for the center to the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., the source said. Father Hesburgh also is the Vatican's permanent delegate to the International Atomic Energy Agency, now meeting in Geneva, and president of the International Ftderation of Catholic Universities.

Pope Paul received Father Hesburgh at a private audience at the Castel Gandolfo summer palace last weekend. With Father Hesburgh was Ignatius A. O'Shaunghnessy, an industrialist from St. Paul, Minn. O'Shaunghnessy is described as one of several Americans interested in supporting the Pope's personal project.

The center would be involved in research into the comparative doctrines of the major religions, with special focus on the Orthodox faith. Non-Christian scholars would take part.

"The idea is that it should be staffed not only by Roman Catholics but rather that there should be a certain openness to scholars of non-Christian faiths", the Vatican official said.

The selection of Jerusalem adds significance to the proposal, since the ancient city is holy to Jews and Moslems as well as Christians.

The official did not know when the center would be started but he said the project was being undertaken on a priority basis.

It was not known whether the center would be built in the Jordanian or Israeli sector of Jerusalem but the Arab-controlled old city was considered more likely since the Pope met Patriarch Athenagoras there on the Mount of Olives. The Vatican does not officially recognize Israel.

Pope Paul's meeting with Athenagoras was the first personal encounter between the head of the Roman Catholic Church and an Orthodox patriarch in five centuries.

The unity movement so far has stressed encounters in which participants try to appreciate the similarities of their common belief in Christ, leaving differences momentarily aside.

Experts of several Christian religions have said the next logical step would be exploration of theological differences and similarities alike by qualified authorities.

Defeated Man Will Help Ted Kennedy

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., hospitalized with a broken back, will be helped in his re-election campaign by the man he defeated in a bitter 1962 primary fight.

Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of U.S. House Speaker John W. McCormack, said Tuesday, "We're good friends, and as a friend and as a Democrat, I want to see the senator elected."

He volunteered to help "in any way he wants me."

Kennedy is in New England Baptist Hospital recovering from injuries suffered in a plane crash June 19. He is not expected to be released for several months.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

DENVER (UPI)— Businessmen throughout the country will be the target of a direct-mail campaign to begin later this month to attract new industry to Colorado. Gov. John Love said Tuesday that the state would send a letter, a stereo slide viewer and color transparencies on Colorado to 1,000 major industries throughout the country. Love said at least half of the industries are known to be looking for new location sites.

Canada geese generally fly at 30 to 35 miles an hour.

West Germany Seeks Ties With Red China

By LEON DENNEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Now it is West Germany, another key NATO nation, that seeks an understanding with Mao Tse-ung while the United States fights his disciples in Viet Nam and Laos.

Bonn's sudden decision to resume "trade negotiations" with Red China, whatever the reasons behind it, will make it more difficult for President Johnson to carry out his policy of firmness in Southeast Asia. It further confuses a situation that is already extremely complicated. It also introduces a new discordant note into the heated American debate on foreign policy.

"West Germany's olive branch to Red China like French recognition of Peking will hardly appease Mao Tse-tung or make him less belligerent," an Asian diplomat told this writer.

He predicted that "in the end, the United States will be left to face the Chinese alone while the NATO allies go to Peking one by one in search of markets and profits."

That negotiations between West Germany and Red China had been going on for many months was no secret to diplomats in Washington, London, Paris and Moscow.

As the influential German newspaper Suddeutsche Zeitung said, there was little surprise in the disclosure made by Foreign Minister Schroeder that Bonn wants to trade with Red China. The surprise was that the Geman diplomat made the negotiations public in the midst of the American pdesidential elections.

Ludwig Erhard met with President Johnson where they discussed, among other things, Red Chinese aggression in Southeast Asia.

Erhard reportedly informed the President that Mao Tse-tung's agreement with a "clause that would recognize West Berlin as part of West Germany. For the Germans, constantly harassed by the Russians in West Berlin, this was a tempting offer.

However, President Johnson not to undermen U.S. diploma- Southeast Asia. He agreed to postpone Berman negotiations with Red China until a more appropriate time.

It is anyone's guess why Bonn's foreign minister decided to throw a monkey wrench into the American elections with his public announcement — in a lecture at Cologne University, of all places — that Germany will resume talks with Red China.

In the view of some U.S. officials, Erhard, who is himself facing elections in 1965, has decided to do a bit of fishing on his own in muddy diplomatic waters.

The Germans are fearful that Laborite Harold Wilson advocates "disengagement" — which means a neutral West Germany left at Moscow's mercy. He may be Britain's next prime minister. As usual, they are suspicious that the West wants to make a deal with Rsusia at the expense of German unity.

Bonn's public disclosure of the negotiations with the Chinese was therefore designed not to embarrass President Johnson but to prepare the ground for Nikita Khrushchev's forthcoming visit to West Germany.

The Soviet premier would like to see his bitter foe, Mao Tse-tung, bottled up behind the Bamboo Curtain while the Russians and their allies prepare for the December Red conclave that expel the Chinese from the rank of international communism.

For the Germans, with the approach of their own elections, German unity and West Berlin top all other issues. Erhard obviously decided to take advantage of the Red split and play Mao against Khrushchev even though it makes it more difficult for President Johnson to implement his policies in Asia.

'Poetic Carpenter' Protests Billboards

KELOWNA, B.C. (AP) — A man who calls himself the "poetic carpenter" has found a unique way of protesting highway billboards.

He cuts them down and leaves behind a few lines from poet Ogden Nash to explain his work:

"I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree
Perhaps, unless all billboards fall,
I'll never see a tree at all."

Since the "carpenter" first struck July 22, five billboards, valued at up to $500 each, have been found — with poem attached — lying along a scenic highway. They had been sawed from their wooden supports.

Versatile Actor Klugman Tells How He Feels

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Jack Klugman, a bit fretty around the edges, was sitting in one of Hollywood's better restaurants, explaining why he accepted a television series. But mostly he was telling how he misses New York.

Klugman, one of the most versatile actors around, was among the most popular winners when he was awarded an Emmy last May for his performance in an episode of "The Defenders." Yet he says he doesn't yet have "the reputation" to get him what he wants — good parts in fine Broadway plays.

And so to get "the reputation" he has agreed to star in a television series. And this has uprooted him from New York, where he thinks everything is better than California. He is not sure, said Klugman, that he likes California's perfect climate and the unending sunshine. His wife, actress Brett Sommers, is working in an episode of "The Fugitive" this week. Jack, not yet at work filming his show, is baby-sitting, chauffering the children to and from school and trying to keep calm.

But he keeps thinking thoughts like "I lost 15 weeks working on a picture in England. And there was a picture with Sophia Loren in Italy that I had to miss. And I can't accept other television shows while I'm waiting because there might be a time or sponsor conflict."

Psychologically, Jack said, the time was approaching when he would have to accept one. "I used to spend six months of the year here anyway. My son David, who is now 5, was not only nervous when I was away. He was also nervous when I was home, waiting for the telephone call to come which would take me away again.

"I had just done four bad hour-long shows in a row when this came. I was asked if I was interested and said 'I think so.' In Hollywood, this is a commitment."

The "this" which came along and interested Jack is "Harris Against The World," which is one of three segments of NBC's "Ninety Bristol Court." In it he plays a harassed husband who explains that he has two outside interests to keep him from going crazy. "I play golf and I cry a lot."

Klugman was sent three Broadway scripts, all with roles he wanted, and all roles he lost to an actor with a bigger name. "Because of television," he said, "there is no way of surveying how well-known I am. I have done so many television shows, and my face is familiar, but there is no way of preventing it." He hopes "Harris" will change this.

Indeed, Jack's nice homely face is well known, but his name is another matter. He likes to recall the time a man walked up to him and said "I know you. "You're on television. What is your name again?"

"I told him my name," Jack said, "and he growled 'No.' I said, 'I'm sorry. I'd like it to be Cary Grant, but it is Jack Klugman.' The man gave me a dirty look, then walked away snarling 'No, no, no.' "

He finishes his lunch, and steps into the bright Hollywood sunshine, saying again, "I like gray skies. And I miss the New York restaurants," then a sheepish smile crossed his face. "And now," he said, "I'm going to step in a brand new convertible, drive off to Beverly Hills and forget it all."

Boy, Sister, Murdered In City in Indiana

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — The badly hacked bodies of a boy and his older sister were found sprawled in a crawl space beneath a neighbor's home in farby Long Beach Monday night.

Police ordered a search for a 16-year-old boy with a record of child molestings who recently had been released from a hospital in Indianapolis after 10 months of psychiatric treatment.

The dead children were identified as Kerry Johnston, 3, and Shawn, 6, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston.

Police said a pocket knife was found near the bodies. "They were pretty messed up," said deputy coroner Donald Transki.

Police said the parents of the children reported them missing 30 minutes before the bodies were found.

Apportionment Talk Limit to Be Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says he plans to move — possibly Friday — to limit a renewal of debate on his proposal to delay court-ordered reapportionment of state legislatures.

The proposal was introduced by Dirksen and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield as a rider to the $3.3-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

The Senate has put it aside temporarily to debate a Social Security bill. Dirksen says he expects action on that to be completed by Friday. He will then file a petition to invoke the cloture rule to limit debate if he can arrange for a vote on it next Wednesday.

"We can't just go on and on with this talk," Dirksen said.

Walton Says DA Does Not Need Special Investigator

The district attorney's office of the Fourth Judicial District does not need a special investigator staff, according to Norman E. Walton, Republican candidate for the job.

Walton said, "The office of the district attorney is one of great power, therefore it must be exercised judiciously so as to insure substantial justice to both the rights of society and the rights of the individual.

"The power must be exercised vigorously but with restraint. The district attorney is, after all, a public servant and not a commissar," he said.

Walton is in a contest with Robert Russel for Republican nomination as district attorney. At this time the Democratic Party does not have a candidate, so the man who wins nomination in the Republican primary on Sept. 8 will just about have the job. The general election is Nov. 3.

Russel has been hitting hard at firm law enforcement in his campaign speeches, insisting that to curb crime the district attorney's office must go into court armed with as much evidence as possible and strive as hard as possible to see to it that the criminal, if the man is convicted, gets a sentence that is long enough to make an impression on him.

Walton is a former assistant district attorney, and Russel at this time is a deputy distric attorney. The present district attorney, Pat Hinton, is seeking election as district court judge.

Walton took sharp exception to that idea.

"I ma opposed to that," said Walton. "Such an investigative staff would result not only in an unnecessary increased tax burden on the taxpayers, but also would result in confusion and dissension between the district attorney's office and the other law enforcement agencies," Walton said.

He pointed out that the district attorney's office has "at its disposal" a much better and larger investigative staff than could be created in the district attorney's office.

He explained that Colorado Springs has 108 policemen, El Paso County has 27 enforcement officers in the sheriff's office, and further the Colorado State Patrol is on call at any time to assist the district attorney's office.

Said Walton, "These law enforcement agencies consist of well trained investigators and law enforcement people with extensive experience."

Walton added, "When I was assistant district attorney, my experience was that any of these public officials was willing and cooperative whenever called upon."

Walton predicted that the results of having a private investigative staff in the district attorney's office would be confusion. "It would tend to destroy the good working relationship between the district attorney's office and the other law enforcement agencies," he said.

Walton noted that recent supreme court decisions have made the job of getting evidence more difficult than before.

"The answer lies not in creating another tax consuming agency, but rather in assisting and informing the existing agencies as to the importance of the new decisions," Walton said.

He proposed instead to offer instructive courses to law enforcement personnel.

He predicted that any other course than what he suggested would result in "the ridiculous situation which has arisen in the Denver metropolitan area where investigators from the distric attorney's office and investigators from other law enforcement agencies are investigating each other rather than the crime."

He said that in one instance, the district attorney's investigator was arrested by police for interfering with crime investigation."

Said Walton, "The function of the district attorney is to prosecute crimes and not to run other law enforcement agencies."

Walton noted that under the judicial reform bill that becomes effective next year, it may be necessary to hire additional staff in the district attorney's office. "Any addition should be lawyers, capable of trying cases, not investigators who would be duplicating effort," he said.

Commenting on Russel's vow to be as tough on criminals as the law allows and directs, Walton said:

"The judiciary is a separate branch of the government and the district attorney should not attempt to influence the courts."

He explained, "The courts have a duty to protect the rights of the individual as well as the rights of society. It would be wrong, both in fact and in law, for the district attorney to attempt to usurp the functions of the courts."

It is the function of the district attorney's office to prosecute crime and the function of the courts to sentence for the crime, Walton said.

He added, "If this separation of functions is not maintained, society will be the loser."

The handling of a crime consists of three functions, Walton explained:

—Prosecution by the district attorney's office.

Walton suggested that it would be a help to all law enforcement agencies in the state if Colorado had a central crime laboratory.

He pledged that if he is elected he would work with other law enforcement agencies in the state in an attempt to get such a laboratory.

He explained, "This would not be duplicating an existing facility, and would ultimately result in savings to the taxpayers and more effective law enforcement."

Two Men Attacked, Robbed by Thugs

Police this morning reported two roll jobs in which men were beaten and robbed early Monday morning.

Ronald N. Brummet of Ft. Carson told officers he was cut with a knife and $40 of his money stolen by a man who jumped him in the 1000 block of E. Rio Grande St. He described the man as a Negro, about six feet tall. Brummett was taken to the Ft. Carson Hospital for treatment of two face cuts.

In the second case, Richard L. Grey of the Rex Hotel told police he was walking in the 00 block of Cucharras St. when two men, whom he desceibed as Negroes in their 20s, beat him, kicked him and stole his billfold. The billfold and contents are worth $12. Grey was treated at St. Francis Hospital for a cut eye.

MILK BUYERS!

We assume that Colorado Springs milk consumers would prefer to purchase their milk and milk products from those dairies which use raw milk produced by local dairy farmers.

Not all dairies selling milk in the Colorado Springs area obtain raw milk from local dairy farmers.

SINTON DAIRY
OAK FARMS DAIRY (Scotland Pride)
Borden's
Lucerne (Safeway)

Patronage of the above firms through purchase of their brands of milk and milk products would be helpful to your farmer neighbors.

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Arrogant Ogre

Once upon a time in a far country, an Arrogant Ogre appeared. He was ugly, misshapen and cruel. People feared him and ran to hide every time he walked through the streets.

But the ugly Ogre made it clear to the inhabitants of the country that he was there to stay. And he so terrified the king of the country that the king gave in to nearly every demand made by the Ogre.

Thus, the people of this far country were placed under a kind of thralldom. They were compelled by the Ogre (who was supported in his demands by the king), to pay tribute to him. This cost them a great deal of money and an even greater amount of self-respect. For no one likes to pay tribute. It is always the mark of a man who is held in some kind of subservience.

But with the passing of time the Ogre discovered that not quite everyone was doing what he asked. Here and there, some people of larger courage and greater fortitude refused to pay tribute and refused to acknowledge the importance of the Ogre. They would speak about him in a belittling fashion. And they would have nothing to do with him.

Of course, when the Ogre would come swaggering down the street, like the big bully that he was, even those who refused to pay tribute would try to get out of his way.

Even so, the Ogre was not happy. Although he had a great deal of power, and although the king backed him up in almost everything he wanted to do, the Ogre wanted everyone to obey him and everyone to pay tribute to him. So he thought a great deal about those who refused to make obeisance to him and he came up with an idea.

He made some little black badges and he confronted the terrified populace and said to them: "All of you will wear these badges night and day. There will be no exceptions. And every business or industry which produces anything will stamp this badge or sew this badge upon the merchandise. Every time the badge is used you will pay me money.

"Further, if anyone in the country attempts to make any merchandise or sell any product which does not have a badge on it, the badge wearers who pay me tribute will refuse to buy it or use it. This badge is my symbol. It means that my power is everywhere. Woe betide the person who refuses to wear this badge or who uses merchandise that does not have this badge on it."

Some of the people were in great terror when they heard these words and they quickly bowed and ran to get the badges, to put them on, and to stamp them on all the merchandise they produced.

But those persons who were already beginning to resist the Ogre gave a great laugh and refused to cooperate. They would not put on the badges. They would not put badges on what they produced. They refused to pay tribute.

And so far as we can find out, that is the way things are in that country right up to the present time.

A fairy story? Not at all. Incredible though it may seem, there is just such an Ogre and he lives in our town high up on a hill where he can overlook all the people and try to overawe them. He strides through the streets and frightens people, exacting tribute from them. And he scares a good many people because the government backs him up, makes it appear that he is welcome, and even invites the Ogre to feasts and celebrations and pretends that he is a good fellow, in spite of his ugliness, cruelty, and his obvious record.

His name is "Labor Boss." In our town, his initials, which appear on many things, are I.T.U.

And speaking of the badges, the I.T.U. Labor Boss recently did this:

Out in San Francisco, where a "strike" was in progress for some 10 months, the printing of telephone directories for the city of Oakland was executed in San Francisco by Master Printers who refused to pay tribute to the I.T.U. Ogre.

Discovering that there were many people who accepted these directories, the Arrogant Ogre acted. Stalking through the streets of Oakland, he demanded of all badge wearers that they turn back their telephone directories to him. And he so frightened many of them that they gave up their directories in fear and trembling.

Then he strode to the telephone company and dumped the books there. For none of them had the badge on them and none of them had resulted in any tribute paid to him.

And that is the way things are in San Francisco and Oakland and Colorado Springs, because of the Arrogant Ogre who lives on our hill.

The Concept of 'Overkill'

There's a new word that keeps cropping up in defense discussions. It is "overkill." The word sounds barbaric and is. But it doesn't imply a sadistic commitment to murder so much as it reveals a deadly disinclination to quit spending money in defense areas when there is no possible reason to keep spending it.

The word is used in relation to nuclear warfare. The concept is that a single atomic bomb will kill so many human beings in a target area that a rainfall of such bombs is an action in futility. No one dies more than once. If sufficient destructive power is unleashed in one or two bombs to wipe out the population totally, there is no need to plaster the place with a hundred such war-heads.

Seymour Melman of the Department of Industrial and Management Engineering of Columbia University, in a letter recently published in Science Magazine, brings out some of the important facts:

"..... the exact number of dead and injured will never be known (at Hiroshima and Nagasaki) because of the confusion after the explosion. Persons unaccounted for might have been burned beyond recognition in the falling buildings, disposed of in one of the mass cremations of the first week of recovery, or driven out of the city to die or recover without any record remaining. No sure count of even the pre-raid population existed. Because of the decline in activity in the two port cities, with constant threat of incendiary raids, and formal evacuation programs of the government, an unknown number of inhabitants had either drifted away from the cities or been removed according to the plan. In this uncertain situation, estimates of casualties have generally ranged between 100,000 and 180,000 for Hiroshima ....

"A Japanese study on 'Atomic Bomb Injuries' .... accounted for 92,000 dead and missing by February 2, 1946, and further found that these figures do not include the deaths among the army in the city. According to information published later by Hiroshima City the number of dead, including those in the military employees and army, and the injured who died in the meantime, is estimated at 210,000 to 240,000. Another estimate put the number of dead at 270,000."

Dr. Melman then explains that by virtue of the uncertainty of the figures, and while nothing is known for sure, even if the lower numbers are accepted as accurate, we in the United States do not have to continue building nuclear weapons. He argues in favor of a budget that would maintain the present armament of the nation. This would entail a reduction of as much as $22 billion annually, leaving the defense establishment with a whopping $34 billion to spend which "includes all personnel and operation and maintenance requests of the Department of Defense."

Applying figures respecting total destructive capacity of our present nuclear power to Russian cities and population centers, it appears to Dr. Melman that as things stand now in 1964 we have the ability to wipe out the Russian population totally, not once but 1,250 times. This is what is meant by "overkill."

By projecting probable attrition rates of "lost" missiles and "misses" he still projects that we would have the potential of wiping out the entire population of the Soviet Union, not once but at least 100 times. He sums up his argument by saying:

"The essential point is this: There is no conceivable technology for destroying a person or a society more than once. Accordingly, as a first step toward a rational security policy we should stop the research and production that piles up overkill, and turn these resources to productive use for our people."

He does not suggest a tax cut of $22 billion, but it is obvious that such a cut could occur without in the least affecting our present ability to destroy an enemy 100 times over. Nor does he point out that were we to assume that the entire world was arrayed against us we would have, in our present nuclear potential, the potency of destroying every population in every nation on earth.

And this potential exists now, without further manufacture of nuclear power.

If his conclusions are anywhere nearly correct, then this process of reducing the nation to bankruptcy to continue nuclear expansion is folly of the worst sort.

This is certainly something for politicians to consider seriously. Obviously, those who pay the taxes ought to consider ways and means of stopping this mad rush into insolvency.

THE PROPER COURSE

To the Editor:

Because many do not understand self-control, should they control any that do? I say no. Does one have rights, because of ignorance, to control others? Again I say no. Even our laws say ignorance of the law is no excuse. This means we are responsible to know the proper course of action in any situation. This is a good idea, only, if everyone were to know the proper course.

In reality we are each taught from the cradle to become completely confused as to the proper course of action. From this state of utter confusion the human directions emulate. Opinionated opinions are the vogue. Facts are buried in the rubble of dogma. Our wants and rights are a tangled mass that require years for an individual to straighten to a comprehensive oneness of direction. It is pathetic that a modern society like America can condone the utter chaos of directionless motivation.

The fingers of mass confusion point in a multitude of pointless directions. How many of us will stand and be counted — that we have found our way?

A club batted against our heads could not be more obvious than the fact that a corrupt political government has failed in its attempt to teach its citizens to practice self-control. In spite of the stupid methods employed by government some of us still believe that we are individuals and want to and will practice, to limit of our beings, the concept that we are free and responsible to exert self-control because it is right.

A man has to gain a measure of understanding and direction to free himself from the bonds of ignorance. If something is found wanting, then why keep pounding your head against a stone wall? Another course of action is the thing to do. When one is found that is without contradictions, pursue it. Give 'er all you got.

MONEY ISN'T 'ALL'

To the Editor:

In your newspaper today (August 31) I read an article by Victor F. Allen in which he presents his belief that money comes first not only in the newspaper business, but also the classroom, the lecture hall, and the Christian ministry.

Is this an honest appraisal of the people who are contributing ideas to our society? How can Mr. Allen know the motives and ambitions of other people in all these spheres of influence?

He wrote that the biggest letdown is the pulpit, the paid Sunday minister and that the ministers "offer their knowledge of Almighty God in exchange for the almighty American dollars."

Is this true, Mr. Allen? Do you know every minister personally? Are the ministers doing their work for God for personal gain?

I should like to have Mr. Allen tell what Christ did for a living after He left the carpenter shop at the age of 30 and began His preaching ministry.

When he called the fishermen, Peter, James, and John away from their business by saying, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men," how did they make their living? We read that the apostles said, "It is not reason that we should leave the word of God and serve tables," and then after choosing others for this task they said, "But we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word" (Acts 6:2-4).

It appears obvious that many persons have entered the Christian ministry for selfish reasons and that, indeed, they do sell religion. This, however, is positively not true of all ministers.

It was the Lord Jesus, when He sent out His disciples who said, "The laborer is worthy of his hire" (Luke 10:7). The Apostle Paul wrote to the young Evangelist Timothy, "The laborer is worthy of his reward." As the context of these passages indicate, the laborer is one engaged in distributing or communicating Christian truth.

What is more important than bringing truth to people? The college student about to graduate may be dead before he gets his diploma. Where will he go then?

If there is no life after this, then why not commit suicide instead of facing life's problems? If there is no hell, then why did Christ say more about hell than He did of heaven? Indeed, why did He teach it more than anyone else in the Bible?

I want to assure Mr. Allen that all persons communicating ideas to people are not in it for the money and that any person truly called of God to preach will get his instructions from the Scriptures and no amount of attacks from anywhere is going to stop him.

A man told me recently that he helped to run one minister from this area for contributing ideas to the newspapers. Let me assure this man, or any communist, who in my belief are the real enemies of the people, that I'm ready to be chased out. But the God who made this city a beauty spot can also turn it into a ghost town in no time.

JUST A P.S.

To the Editor:

This is just a postscript to add to the nice letter written by Maurice Hanson published in Sunday's Open Parliament column.

We, too, just recently returned from Europe, having spent most of our time in parts of France. We found the houses cold, damp and hard to heat. Coal runs $65-$70 per ton. If you're smart you'll learn the language fast as one-half of your sacks of coal are filled with coal dust so they weigh more. A ton of coal may last Americans three weeks. They, too, have double prices on items, one for the native and a different one for Americans.

One home in twelve will have a telephone. Four out of ten still have outdoor comfort facilities. One out of 15 have a television. The average French person makes per month what a secretary here makes in a week. DeGaulle wants Mexico to recognize France as a country that is ready to stand alone on her own feet. Yes, she is, only 100 years behind everyone else.

I say this in closing. Keep your foreign aid dollars here, educate the unfortunate, the orphans who will some day be adults, help the medical societies find cures for the diseases that may take your loved ones and get a man with some sense in the White House who will get the "good ole" U.S.A. out of the muck she is in and up where she will be "guided with the light from above."

"From the mountains, to the prairies, to the oceans, white with foam; God bless America, my home, sweet home!"

Here is another vote for Mr. Goldwater. Good luck, Barry!

FROM PUEBLO

To the Editor:

To the citizens of Colorado Springs we would like to extend our congratulations. At last we feel you are really one of us. The leadership shown by Pueblo for some 25 years has paid off in the pages of history.

As former residents of Colorado Springs we observed with noticeable dismay that the Trianon of Broadmoor museum will be razed. The art objects will be sold and scattered to the four corners of the world. We thought Pueblo had an edge on apathy towards culture and education but you have joined us, if not topped us.

Pueblo once had a world-famous Mineral Palace Museum which many in Colorado Springs and former Puebloans well remember. Pueblo once had a very fine collection of insects, butterflies and various artifacts which were collected in the world travellings of Dr. Corwin. They ended up in Colorado Springs. Pueblo has had lots of fine art objects and museum pieces but we have very handily managed to get them out of our city in the past 25 years. Our good work has paid off.

Today's papers carried the article about the razing of the Trianon. Colorado Springs is progressing, much to our delight? We will soon tear down our famous old McClelland Library just to keep pace. We are really several buildings up on you, but you will catch up pretty soon, the obliteration of the Antlers Hotel should be good for at least two of our buildings.

Culture and education of our youth obviously could not be preserved in those old relics anyway. Any learned person will readily agree that much longer lasting educational and cultural benefits can be derived from TV's Bonanza, Gunsmoke, Combat ad infinitum.

Twenty-five years from now when you are engaged in a project to restore these old museums it will probably come home to you that you just don't go down to the shopping center and receive art objects and culture in lieu of trading stamps.

Keep up the apathy, Colorado Springs, welcome to the club.

FROM DENVER

To the Editor:

My hearty congratulations to the city of Colorado Springs! Well, my cultured friends, you have succeeded in proving to your state and your nation that a heritage of priceless art, beauty and good taste ... a reminder of a way of luxurious living that your city so proudly once boasted no longer has a place. You have succeeded in losing your famed Trianon Palace.

Residents and leaders of Colorado Springs — what is your next project? How about leveling Pikes Peak and the Garden of the Gods ... the land would provide for a great housing project or, better still, a giant parking lot.

Habits

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Once upon a time we lived in a huge, sprawling, smoggy city. Gosh, was that only four years ago? We had acquired quite a few bad habits. If we turned on a water faucet, we expected to get water. If we turned on a light switch, we expected illumination. There was a time when we even expected people to collect our garbage and trash on certain days. Then we moved to Chloride and a bright, new world opened up for us.

A half hour ago, I handled several sheets of carbon paper and my hands became too dirty to shuffle a few sheets of clean, white paper into a sandwich. I turned on a water faucet and heard a whispering rush of air, it wasn't even moist. Being in the midst of civilization, I roared like a wounded panther but because of that bright, new world I mentioned, plus my girl friend, my howl diminished to a whisper. "Yes, Ma'am," I replied as Dawn reminded me of a gallon of water ready and waiting. We also have three gallons of water in a plastic jug in our car, whether we need it or not.

After bravely facing a water shortage for a half hour, I thought about the fifteen gallons a day we hauled for several weeks and the trips I made up and down the Pierce Ferry Road every day, hauling water, and that made me wonder if anybody has checked the fire extinguishers back in My Motel, but I didn't wonder for long because the chances are better than good that our son-in-law has looked at least once during the past couple of months.

Habits do change. During the 40 years we expected water service in Hollywood and Canoga Park, California, water service was interrupted on more than one occasion and when the service was interrupted, we had no water — right then. Today, we always have a few gallons on hand for an emergency, just as we have several means of providing some illumination in the event of a power failure when we are at home.

No, Ma'am. I don't mean everybody should move to Chloride. I merely suggest that habits can become handy, if properly trained.

It was almost midnight when a car stopped in front of our former residence in Chloride. The occupants were in trouble—out of gasoline. One of the occupants had double trouble. He had no water and needed it badly to wash down some medicine. He was very close to an hysterical condition. I told him to quit worrying, I'd provide the water, and I did. I also sold the tourist the gasoline we had in a jeep can. I also dared to mention that the water supply might be shut off even in large cities and that if the need for water to down his medicine was so serious, it might be a nice idea to have a gallon or so on hand at all times.

The habit of depending upon government for water and lights and protection is not easy to break. The habit can get you into trouble even when you place your dependency in the hands of private enterprise. Almost anybody can turn the wrong valve and even the best pipes can spring a leak without much warning. I might even get into trouble if I always depend upon my wife to fill the water jugs, but the habit of dependency becomes less difficult to cope with as you get closer to home.

Of course, you can also get in the habit of permitting the wrong people to depend upon you. Knowing we usually had five gallons of gasoline on hand, a friend of ours managed to get into the habit of forgetting to buy gasoline in Las Vegas. I warned him a time or two but finally it happened. He arrived with an empty tank, wanted to drive on that night and I didn't have five gallons of gasoline awaiting his convenience. The young man was quite indignant and became more so when I laughed at his indignation, but I believe he learned a lesson. I hope.

Right about now I can hear quite a few people making a lot of conversation about how they are just too darned busy to think about such things as they sit drowsily in front of their TV sets but there's no use getting mad at me, fellers, we'll try to have a little water on hand, regardless — even when we are at home in Chloride. In the meantime good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No 577 "Walter Reuther at a news conference called on General Motors to 'search its conscience.' Just what conscience does Walter Reuther use as a guide to determine right from wrong and good from bad?"

Answer: Reuther's statement is just a derogatory means of implying that the employers have no conscience. Whether they have a conscience or not they have to compete with about five million other employers to secure help. If they do not pay as much as the worker can get from other employers or from going into business for himself, the employer cannot get help.

The employer has to use his conscience in determining what is just or unjust, right or wrong, as far as his customers, employes and tool owners are concerned. The employers enable the workers to have jobs and the customers to get more from their dollar than they can get otherwise or they would not part with their earnings.

It would be exceedingly interesting for Walter Reuther to set down what he uses as a guide to determine what wages should be. If it is in accordance with needs, then every individual has a different need and there is no fixed standard to use to determine what wages should be. A man with a large family needs more than a man with no family. Would Reuther contend that a man with a large family should be paid more than the man with no family or that each should be paid according to what he produces measured by a free market?

Or if Reuther contends "a living wage," then there are as many ideas of a living wage as there are individuals. So this can be no standard or no guide for use of a conscience. Conscience certainly means that all men are equally free to use the talents God gave them or they inherited from their ancestors to develop their material, spiritual, and intellectual well-being.

Walter Reuther is certainly one of the last men in the world to talk about conscience. We wonder what conscience he has.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

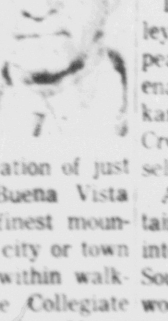
The Local Scene

Hub of the Rockies

By RUFUS L. PORTER



The beautiful, friendly, modern old town of Buena Vista has adopted as its slogan, "The Hub of the Rockies." And it certainly is in the center of things, mountain-wise.

Situated in the lush Arkansas Valley on the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad at an elevation of just under 8,000 feet, Buena Vista enjoys one of the finest mountain settings of any city or town in the state. It is within walking distance of the Collegiate Range, which includes Mount Princeton, Mount Harvard, Mount Yale and Mount Oxford, each of them higher than our own Pikes Peak.

Mount Princeton stands fairly in front of the traveler as he drives down the west side of Trout Creek Pass on Highway 24 toward Buena Vista, and a handsomer, more symmetrical mountain would be hard to find. And it looms large on the horizon. To the north, and nearly as prominently located as Princeton, stands Mount Yale, somewhat higher. Farther north, but not so plainly visible, are Mount Yale and Mount Oxford.

There is a legend as to how the Collegiate Range was named. It seems that a Harvard professor journeyed, long ago, to Colorado to see the mountains. His travels brought him to the vicinity of the range in question and upon learning that several of the higher mountains were still without names, he proceeded to name them.

The highest one he named, naturally, Mount Harvard. Then, in true Ivy League tradition, and fearing that one of the other League colleges might later find mountains higher than Mount Harvard to name for themselves, he named the two next highest, Princeton and Yale. Then, having an imposing plus 14,000-foot mountain left over, he bethought himself of Oxford University and named it for that celebrated seat of higher learning. And so was born the Collegiate Range, or at least the white man's names for its hills.

I believe Mount Princeton got all the best of it. It is the most beautiful, the most perfect and the best situated for viewing of the lot.

Draining the slopes and valleys between the Collegiate peaks and flowing through Buena Vista to empty into the Arkansas River is Cottonwood Creek, a rather sizable river itself.

At the very foot of the mountains, Cottonwood Creek divides into North Cottonwood and South Cottonwood. North Cottonwood flows out of the ravine between Mount Harvard and Mount Yale. South Cottonwood flows between Mount Yale and Mount Princeton. Ten or 12 miles up the gulch from Buena Vista, South Cottonwood Creek divides again into South and Middle Cottonwood.

South Cottonwood, and the road following it, leads you around behind Mount Princeton and away back into the mountains beyond, climbing higher all the way, and passing Cottonwood Lake. Middle Cottonwood continues for miles up toward Cottonwood Pass, which has in recent years been opened for car travel and which is another route to the fabulous old mining town of Tin Cup. This is a rugged route and not for the faint of heart.

All three Cottonwood Creeks are famous for their fishing. So many go there already that a few more won't matter. They are also famous for their rugged mountain scenery, their beautiful camp sites and the hunting, both deer and elk. We have brought down quite a bit of meat from those hills. Also, a lot of fine trout. But we didn't get our fish from the Cottonwoods although our women folks got theirs there. I ain't sayin' where we go, once we make camp on Middle Cottonwood.

If I wanted to climb just one of the Collegiate mountains, I would pick Mount Yale as the easiest of access. It's a little higher than Princeton and a little lower than Harvard, but what's a hundred or so feet, either way?

As you drive up Middle Cottonwood you will see a trail to the right that has a sign pointing upward that says, "Mount Yale." Take that trail, and plenty of food, and you will eventually reach the summit. If you start early, you should make it back before sundown. Good trail all the way and not too taxing — but still a mountain climb.

As for fishing, a friend of mine who took up trout fishing only a few years ago, caught a 12-pound German Brown right at the intake of Cottonwood Lake on his very second fishing trip. Needless to say, he has been a fishing enthusiast ever since, though he has never duplicated that spectacular catch. I've fished a lifetime and never got one that big yet. Anyhow, my friend was hooked worse than the Brownie was.

I'll have to tell you more about this country another time. There's lots to tell yet.

Cellar Delays Probe Of Hoffa Case Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee is continuing his delaying action against a proposed investigation of the Justice Department's handling of the case of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

At a meeting Tuesday, the committee voted to cut off debate and bring the matter to a vote. The investigation would look into department actions in connection with Hoffa's recent convictions on charges of jury tampering and misuse of union funds.

It would also look into cases involving former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker and attorney Roy Cohn.

Sources said the vote was 18 to 14.

Celler said no vote had been taken on the resolution calling for an investigation when the meeting abruptly ended as bells rang to signal the start of a House session.

Rep. Roland V. Libonati, D-Ill., one of those pushing the investigation, contended that the vote was on the resolution. The New York Democrat said Libonati was "utterly mistaken."

Celler set no date for another committee meeting. Last March 24 he named a special subcommittee to look into the case but never called a meeting.

Motorist Is Fined For Watching Video

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Delores Julian, 21, was fined $55 Tuesday for watching a television program — in her car.

Mrs. Julian was arrested in February for speeding and driving through a red light. Police said at the time she was looking at a six-inch television set mounted on the dashboard of her car.

She missed two previous court appearances, but appeared voluntarily Tuesday, pleaded guilty to running the stop light and operating the television set.

She had the set removed from the car before her court appearance.

Reds Are Not Stopped by Tonkin Gulf Incident

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A month has gone by since the Gulf of Tonkin crisis began. Despite its threats and protests against the U.S. "paper tiger," Red China has made no overt move to avenge the American bombing of Communist North Viet Nam's territory.

This does not mean the Communists — Chinese and Vietnamese — are idle. It seems to mean that they will rely upon a combination of guerrilla war and exploitation of unstable politics to attempt to accomplish their aims in South Viet Nam.

There is a note of foreboding in Saigon about what the Communists might do to capitalize on the country's political turmoil.

The Red target, according to signs from Communist propaganda, will be the South Vietnamese soldiers and lower-ranking officers.

Instructions to Communist agents in the south are relayed by Hanoi radio in the north and by "Radio Sampan," in the south.

From the language of these broadcasts the Viet Cong evidently is being prepared for a campaign to foment a "defection movement" among the south's soldiery.

Apparently the tools will be cajolery, threats and distrust of non-Asian foreigners. Appeals are to be made to resist "American bosses" as the source of all troubles. Ambushes and acts of terror probably will be stepped up to demoralize the south's soldiers.

There was a lull in Viet Cong activity during the recent rioting. U.S. military men note it often takes the Viet Cong a week or more to react to such disturbances. Word must be filtered down through their ranks.

Hanoi speaks glowingly of prospects for fomenting disaffection in Saigon's army. The broadcasts say there are "officers and soldiers in the southern army (who) sincerely oppose the U.S.-Khanh dictatorial militarist regime."

Red China lacks the wherewithal to confront the United States militarily in a Southeast Asia showdown. But the note of satisfaction in Communist propaganda in the wake of South Viet Nam's political violence indicates a belief there are more ways than one — and fairly non-hazardous ways — to skin a cat.

GRANT GIVEN

DENVER (UPI)—Federal officials Tuesday granted another $174,815 award to the University of Colorado Medical Center's clinical research center for children. The addition brought to $472,735 the amount given to the hospital for special studies of premature birth and metabolism diseases. A total of $1.2 million is expected over a seven-year period.

Looking At Hollywood

O'Brian Seeks to Live Down Cowboy Image

HOLLYWOOD — Hugh O'Brian never has to work again, thanks to old Wyatt Earp, and he's grateful. But the lawman is a thorn in his side: "I've done some good performances on Broadway, TV, and in the movies, but it's difficult to convince producers I'm not just a cowboy." He's hoping that the picture he did with Lana Turner, "Love Has Many Faces," will kill the cowboy image. Until it's released, Hugh is sitting up on his hilltop writing a book called "The Last Light." "It's an allegory about the last light in man's heart flickering out." "If you want to be taken seriously," said I, "stop taking out a different girl every night." He protested, then I reminded him that when he was on location in Mexico he sent me a picture of eight girls carrying him on stage. "From now on," he said, "I'll send you pictures of Rod Steiger and Lee J. Cobb. I may give the impression of being a playboy but I never stop studying to be a good actor."

MRS. BOB WAGNER'S sons, 10 and 9, by a former husband, are living permanently with her and Bob in their Tarzana home. The house attracted the attention of Cary Grant as he was driving by with a real estate woman. "Now that's the kind of place I want," he said. "See if it's for sale." It wasn't .... When Shirley Booth arrives from Cape Cod, she'll have a fully furnished house which she bought in Beverly. She stripped her New York apartment and shipped the furniture west. Expects to stay a long time. First thing she'll do on arrival is an Andy Williams show .... The many friends of Mrs. John Kies, a wonderful woman, were saddened by her death on Friday after a five-week illness. Originally from Dubuque, Ia., she was the mother of six. Among her children: Actress Margaret Lindsay and my daughter-in-law, Jane Hopper.

WHEN FRED MacMURRAY does "God and My Country" for Walt Disney, he'll play a scoutmaster. His wife, June has recovered after fighting hepatitis for eight months. .... Charlie Prince came in with this observation: "In '61 Kennedy said we had 16 million living in poverty. In '64 Johnson said we have 23 million people living in poverty. And that's progress?".. Perry Como will have Stanley Holloway, of "My Fair Lady," on his first show with Anne Bancroft, Victor Borge and his regular Kraft Music Hall company ..... Nat King Cole sent me his album on "My Fair Lady" — one of the best he's ever done. And Pat O'Brien's album of famous Irish stories and songs arrived the same day.

PARENTS WHO DON'T like their kids watching horror shows won't have to worry bout "The Munsters." It's about an average American family with one difference — they look like Frankenstein, Dracula and a lady vampire. The idea of Fred Gwynne, "Car 54s" lovable Muldoon, playing Frankenstein is hilarious. "I'm a smiling monster," said he. "The jolly type — sort of a thin Santa Claus." And how did he make the transition from New York cop to Frankie? "I just had to learn to keep my neck stiff. To maintain the monster image, I bend my body but not my head." .... It's Gwynne's first trip here, but he hasn't seen much of our city. His mind is on other things. Little projects like an invention — a way of swimming underwater faster: "I have a patent application. Every person has one good idea. Few follow thru. I've worked on this eight years.' Harvard Graduate Gwynne has many talents. He paints, has written and illustrated two books — one for children, the other ("What's Nude?") for adults.

The Gymkhana sponsored by the Ute Pass Saddle Club will be held Sunday, Sept. 6, at 1 o'clock sharp, at the Pickett Field in Green Mountain. Trophies will be given the winners of Junior events. The final traveling trophy, which was donated by Lorig's, will have the high point name engraved on it. High point winners in Junior events will receive buckles.

Pictures of nature, evergreen trees and wild flowers of Colorado, were shown at Community Hall by Elmer Teskor Friday night for the last time this season. The community has certainly enjoyed the many fine pictures shown each Friday night through the summer and wish to thank Mr. Teskor for making these possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burris were pleasantly surprised Saturday night when a group of their friends, officers and service men and their wives from the 1st 61st Infantry of Fort Carson came to their cabin Rock Erie to help them celebrate their 6th wedding anniversary, which was Sunday.

The Ute Pass Hill Bowlies will start their bowling activities Sept. 1. They will bowl every Tuesday morning at the Trail Bowl in Manitou. They invite anyone interested in bowling to list their names for substitute bowling. The officers this year are: Lucia Church, president; Winnie Kraas, vice president; Maxine Haynes, secretary. There is a vacancy to be filled for treasurer and sergeant at arms at the next meeting.

The Columbine Chapter of the Sweet Adeline Chorus sang Monday night at the Soda Springs Park in Manitou. This was the last entertainment of the season this year. Polly Bartley and Marlene Willi are from Green Mountain.

Europeans Are Threatened in Leopoldville

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — A radio broadcast monitored here Monday promised harsh measures against an estimated 500 foreigners in rebel-held Stanleyville.

But a short time later another broadcast carried a message from "lieutenant general" Nicholas Olenga of the rebel popular liberation army, telling the people of the northeastern Congolese city to keep calm and to pay no heed to "false rumors."

U.S. Consul Michael Hoyt and his staff of four Americans have been asked by Olenga to leave Stanleyville, but they have been unable to find transportation.

Francois Sabiti, a moderate installed by Olenga last week after arresting members of his original rebel administration, has promised to bring order to Stanleyville within a week.

Sabiti said the rebels had no quarrel with foreigners although they were fighting "American imperialism."

U.S. Is Stepping Up Shipments of Food to India

By DAN COGGIN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The United States is stepping up its shipments of wheat to this hungry nation as heavy monsoon rains multiply the misery by flooding vast areas of valuable cropland.

Indian officials announced Wednesday 80 U.S. ships are being used to rush shipments of surplus American wheat.

They are to bring four million tons between now and February — twice the amount that had been scheduled.

Food shortages have touched off demonstrations throughout India and have resulted in the arrest of thousands of Communist agitators. Police said they have arrested more than 8,400 Communists in the Red stronghold of Kerala State. Most were released after being held for several hours, the police said.

Heavy monsoon rains have hit northern India causing the worst floods in decades.

Authorities estimate that five million acres of vital crops are now under water. About 500,000 persons have been flooded from their homes.

Even New Delhi, the capital, is being threatened. The city has had a record 40 inches of rain since July 1, and no break is in sight.

The food crisis has prompted even India's hostile neighbor, Pakistan, to agree to an Indian request to divert to India a shipment of wheat headed for Pakistan.

The chairman of the Australian Wheat Board, J. V. Moroney, has promised extra shipments to India as soon as the Indians can provide ships.

Communist Yugoslavia said Wednesday that it also has begun negotiations for additional shipments of wheat from the United States and Canada.

Sources in Belgrade said unfavorable weather had caused this year's harvest to drop below four million tons. As a result, the Yugoslavs said they probably will have to import 1.5 million tons.

Clear Weather Noted Over Most of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear skies covered nearly the entire United States today.

A few clouds dotted an area over the nation's midsection, some portions of the Deep South were cloud-covered, and a section over the Rockies had a few clouds.

In each of the cloudy portions, some light rain fell. An exception to the light rain was the Sioux Falls, S.D., area where more than one-half inch of rain was reported.

Temperatures were mostly seasonal, with the dominating range from the 60s through the 70s. In the Deep South and Southwest readings were in the 80s.
